the Southern Despotism, is Gen. B. F. Butler of Massachusetts, who for years sided with everything demanded by the with the secessionists and co-operated with them in their subsequent Convention, held in Baltimore, when John C. Breckinridge was placed in nomination for the Presidency. Gen. Butler sustained the nomination then made during the campaign, and the principles embraced in the platform of the Breckinridge party. No man ever went further to serve the Fire Eaters of the Butler.] South, and it was not until the attack upon Fort Sumter, that Gen. Butler and those who acted with him at the North, got their eyes open and realized fully that the secessionists designed to destroy the Union. When the traitors could no longer conceal their designs, the whole body of their sympathizers at the North were shocked, and for a time, stunned by the breakers upon which they had been instrumental in so Gen. Fellow citizens: Your cheers for the old Commonwealth of Massachusetts are rightly bestowed. Foremost in the ranks of those who fought for the liberties of the country in the Revolution was Massachusetts, and it is a historical fact, which I take great pride in referring to in this hour, that, in the Revolu tion, the Old Bay State furnished more men to go south of Mason and Dixon's line, to fight the enemies of the country, than did all the Southern Colonies put together .-[Cheers.] And in this second war, if war must come, to establish the Declaration of dependence anew, and to secure the bless ing of that Declaration-the Constitution and the Union-Massachusetts is ready again to furnish every man, aye, every woman, upon her soil in this cause. [Applause.] Perhaps I may, for the moment, be excused for referring to my own State. I believe I speak to many who have the love of the old Common wealth in their hearts. But we have this difference from our Southern brethren: while we love Massachusetts with the true love of on, we love the Union and the country with equal devotion. ["Good!" and cheers

We put no State rights, no State pride, no love of the old Commonwealth, before, above, and beyond the love of the Union. [Cheers.] To us our country is first, because it is our country. This is a great and good Government of ours, so kind, so benign, and so beneficent that its hand has only been felt in acts of affectionate generosity, and is now for the first time, raised in the act of chastising its children.

It has been attacked by those who should have been the first to defend it, and as, in the history of a man's life, many things may be worse to him than death, so in the history of a nation, dishonor, wrong, or disintegra tion may be worse than the shedding of blood. My friends, this Union established by our fathers, cost them a great deal of treasure, a great deal of suffering, a great deal of blood, and by the bright heaven above us we will not part with it short of the first cost, and in terest from the day of the date. "[Good," and cheers.] The same blood which flowed in our fathers' veins still flow in ours; the same courage which they showed still I trust animates us; we have the same power of endnrance; the same love of liberty and law is ours, and we hold him brother who stands by the flag of the Union, and we hold him enemy to the last degree who attempts to strike star out of that brilliant constellation cheers for the stars and stripes.] But I hear some one say, shall we carry on a fratricidal war? Shall we shed our broth- tel. ers' blood? Shall we go to the extent of meeting in arms those whom we have been taught to call our brothers? To that I answer: as our fathers in defence of their rights did not hesitate to strike the mother country, and fight against their mother, so we, their sons, in defence of our rights, must meet our brothers as they met their mother. If this wicked, unholy, and fratricidal war is forced upon us, we can only say, let the responsibility rest upon those who made the necessity.

No. Fifty thousand more would take their places, and if they should fall, one hundred thousand more would rush down from the North, to be followed, if they should fall by the fever, pestilence or sword, by a quarter of a million more, until the very women would take the field with broomsticks, and drive all the enemies of the Union into the Gulf. [Cheers.] I have neither fear nor doubt upon this subject. I have neither trouble nor dismay in regard to it. In all Nervous, Rheumatic, a Blind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheumatic, and Neuralgic Affections, it has in numerous instances proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decided curs.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Berhave. Its reputation at home produced its introduction here, the domaind commencing with those of the Fatherland scattered over the face of this mighty country, many of whom brought with them and handed down the tradition of its value. It is now offered to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.

READ CAREFULLY! The Genuine highly concentrated Excharge's Holland Bitters is put up in half-pint bottles only, and retailed at ONE DOLLAR per bottle, or six bottles for Five DoLLAR.
