Flag of the free heart's only home,
By angel hands to valor given;
They stars have lit the welkin dome
And all thy hues were born in heaven;
Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathe the free but falls before us
With freedom's soil beneath our feet,
And freedom's banner streaming o'er us.

It has been customary with us for several years to issue no paper on the 4th of July week, but as it is possible stirring events may transpire by that time, we shall, if any important news come to hand, issue a half sheet—otherwise the usual extra.

The War News of the past week has been of little importance. Large bodies of troops continue to pass over the Pennsylvania and other railroads, mostly centering at Washington. Some thousands have gone on to Hopewell, Bedford county, probably for the purpose of operating in the direction of Cumberland, or guarding the State frontier against incursions from the rebels in Western Virginia. In Missouri the active measures of Gen. Lyon have produced a good effect on the population, many of whom were much discouraged by the rout of the State troops at Booneville, where some thirty or forty rebels were killed and wounded. Lieut. Col. Bowman and a sergeant were captured opposite Williamsport last week by the rebels, having foolishly gone beyond the pickets. Other cases of this kind have occurred at Alexandria, &c., and the fools are now paying the penalty of their rashness. General McClellan is concentrating a large force in Western Virginia.

In regard to the suggestion that we should bring out for office a few of the "democratic Tories," we have simply to say that no such anomaly as a "democratic Tory" is to be found. Tories never did belong to the Democratic party, and of course do not now. Democrats are now, as they ever have been, TRUE UNION MEN. The man who is not for the Union, no matter what he may profess to be, is not and cannot be a Democrat.

The above is the concluding portion of an article in the Democrat in which a small attempt is made to ridicule our assertion that most of those discharged from the Philadelphia custom house were not loyal. Of some of these men we happen to have knowledge enough of their Yanceyism since the traitors fired on the flag of our country to know that such men are no better than traitors themselves, probably worse. As to the part quoted above, we have only to say that nine-tenths of all those now in treasonable array against the government, from the doubly-damned traitors of Pierce's and Buchanan's cabinets down to the lowest cutthroat from South Carolina, were of that class whom the Lewistown Democrat defended as democrats. And we say further, that there are not at the present time within the bounds of Millfin county two men who advocated Lincoln's election who either openly or covertly give aid and comfort to the enemy; while on the other hand dozens of persons whom the Democrat has recognized as democrats are insidiously inculcating sentiments calculated to make that party regard the war as a publican war. An instance of this kind occurred last week in this town, where a stranger was justifying the course of Southern cutthroats, and when union-loving citizens justly denounced this traitor, it was alleged by one claiming to be a democrat, and silently acquiesced in by others standing by, that he was denounced because he was a democrat! We could give many other instances where those often recognized by the Democrat as democrats have made expressions of the most outrageous character, but we and others have looked in vain for denunciations from that sheet. The masses of the democratic party are loyal to the backbone, but it is equally true that there are men now engaged in the work of undermining public opinion in that party, and endeavoring to shape it to the course indicated. If these men are not democratic Tories, perhaps the Democrat will tell us what they are.

It is a gratifying fact that, while both army and navy officers have resigned and entered the rebels' service by scores, not a single sailor or soldier has deserted. Whatever motive may have actuated politicians, the people have not forgotten the meaning of loyalty and patriotism. The wheat crop in this county promises an abundant yield.

Andrew Johnson on the Traitors. On Tuesday of last week Hon. Andrew Johnson of Tennessee arrived at Cincinnati on his way to Washington, and met with a most brilliant reception. He delivered one of his powerful speeches to the crowd, from which we make the following extract, commending it to the attention of those "peaceful" gentlemen who are endeavoring to lead the democracy into "Hartford Convention federalism."

I know that there has been much said about the North, much said about the South. I am proud, here to-day, to hear the sentiments and the language which have been uttered in reference to the North and the South, and the relations that exist between the two sections. I am glad to hear it said in such a place as this that the pending difficulties—I might say the existing war—which are now upon this country—do not grow out of any animosity to the local institution of any section. I am glad to be assured that it grows out of a determination to maintain the glorious principles upon which the Government itself rests—the principles contained in the Constitution—and at the same time to rebuke and to bring back as far as may be practicable, within the pale of the Constitution, those individuals, or States even, who have taken it upon themselves to exercise a principle and doctrine at war with all government, with all association—political, moral and religious.

I mean the doctrine of secession, which is neither more nor less than a heresy—a fundamental error—a political absurdity, coming in conflict with all organized government, with everything that tends to preserve law and order in the United States, or wherever else the odious and abominable doctrine may be attempted to be exercised. I look upon the doctrine of secession as coming in conflict with all organized government, with everything that tends to preserve law and order in the United States, or wherever else the odious and abominable doctrine may be attempted to be exercised. I look upon the doctrine of secession as coming in conflict with all organized government, with everything that tends to preserve law and order in the United States, or wherever else the odious and abominable doctrine may be attempted to be exercised.

LATEST NEWS.
Marching Orders for the Twenty-fifth Pennsylvania Regiment.
The Twenty-fifth, or advance regiment of Pennsylvania volunteers, Col. H. I. Cake commanding, (J. B. Selheimer, of this place, Lieut. Colonel), received marching orders on Sunday, but do not know their destination. The officers and men are in high spirits at the prospect of active service. They have been provided with tents, ambulances, transportation wagons, and, indeed, all the necessary equipment of camp life. The Logan Guards and some other companies belonging to this regiment remain at Fort Washington.

Large Increase of Troops.
Fifteen regiments arrived in Washington city during the last week. They come equipped and ready for active service. The force now in and around Washington is not less than 55,000. The arrivals during the present week will probably exceed those of the last.

Revenue and Protection.
Dr. Wm. Elder has been appointed by Secretary Chase to a position in the Treasury, with special reference to the revenue and protection department, for which he is peculiarly qualified. The Doctor is from Pennsylvania, and has given the iron and other home branches of industry much attention in years past.

Destruction of Forty-eight Locomotives.
The agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Martinsburg, who left that place on Monday, informs the Baltimore American that on Sunday the work of vandalism on the part of the Confederate army, in the wanton destruction of the property of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and of the State of Maryland, was resumed at Martinsburg. All the cars and locomotives that they could not carry away from Harper's Ferry were destroyed, and now we have tidings of the destruction of the locomotives and cars at Martinsburg.

He states that the work of destruction was accomplished in the most effectual manner by piling immense quantities of cord wood over and around the locomotives and firing it. A number of gondola cars and coal hoppers were also similarly destroyed. The entire value of the property thus given to the flames cannot be less than $400,000.

The hotel, occupied by B. H. Carpenter, opposite the shops of the company, was with great difficulty saved, the intense heat several times setting fire to it. The shops were not fired, though they would have caught from the intense heat had it not been for the efforts of some of the employees of the company, who were present and extinguished the flames. The agent, with the master mechanic, Mr. Edwards, was arrested and taken before General Johnson, who is in charge of the Confederate troops at this point, charged with endeavoring to put out the fire over the locomotives. They proved, however, that they were merely preventing the flames from extending to the shops, and were dismissed.

The Confederate troops at Martinsburg and in the vicinity are said to number five thousand five hundred, being a portion of General Johnson's command from Harper's Ferry, the advance guard towards Williamsport. A collision with General Cadwallader's command, which was approaching from several points, was confidently anticipated.

Interesting from Harper's Ferry and Williamsport.
HAGERSTOWN, June 24.—The correspondent of the Associated Press has just returned from Harper's Ferry; the town wears a look of desolation almost inconceivable. Scarcely an inhabitant is visible, and no troops are there. The last Confederate scout was seen on Thursday last. On that day a skirmish took place between the Confederate scouts and the Sharpshooters of the Union; the latter was under cover of the canal and took deliberate aim at the rebels, and it was stated at the Ferry that two of the Confederate troops were killed and one wounded.

The best informed sources there say that a body of 1,500 to 2,000 Confederate troops are stationed about three miles from the Ferry, towards Winchester, but they were not visible either from Camp Hill Pinnacle or the Loudon county mountain. Your correspondent saw a small scout near Shepherdstown.

The Confederates picketed no longer show themselves at Shepherdstown, but they are known to be concealed as near as two miles back from the river, and a rumor is general that General Johnson, at the head of four regiments, has entered the neck and is stationed seven miles from Williamsport. This report needs confirmation, although it is generally believed at Williamsport.

Hugh Brennan, a private in company E, of the Twenty-fourth Pennsylvania regiment, was arrested for trying to shoot Capt. Thos. Smith, the officer of the day, on Saturday, in the camp of the Twenty-fourth. He is now under trial by court martial, and will probably be shot.

John M. Stonebraker, a prominent Secessionist, who held a commission in the Virginia militia, endeavored to get his company into the Confederate service. Failing to do this, he supplied General Johnson's troops with provisions at the Ferry, he having two brothers in the Confederate army. He came into Maryland on Friday and was arrested by order of General Negley, at his mother's house, at Sharpsburg, where he was concealed under the sofa. He is now under strict guard at General Negley's quarters, and it is said there is the most direct evidence against him. Lieutenant McNeally, of the Fifteenth Pennsylvania Regiment, effected his arrest.

Position of General Patterson's Column.
HAGERSTOWN, June 23.—The precise position of the troops in this neighborhood is as follows: Scott Legion, and the Seventh, Eighth, and Tenth Pennsylvania regiments are in camp about one mile east of Williamsport; Major Doubleday's battery of heavy artillery, and having one gun in position, are on the Williamsport bluff; Captain Perkins, Eighth Artillery, battery of six pieces, are at this point and Williamsport, on the Fair Grounds; Col. Dore's, Col. Nagle's, Col. Ballier's and Col. Rowley's regiments are located two miles from Williamsport, on the Greenacres road, with five companies of cavalry; Col. Thomas' regiment is one mile below this point, on the Frederick road; the First Wisconsin, Fourth Connecticut, and Eleventh Pennsylvania regiments one mile farther on, and the Second and Third Pennsylvania regiments are twelve miles below, on the Sharpburg turnpike. The Fifteenth and Sixteenth Pennsylvania regiments marched on Thursday night. The Twenty-fourth Pennsylvania regiment are on their march to join them. The destination of this column is the Maryland Heights, opposite Harper's Ferry.

Fall of a Building—Several Soldiers Killed, Others Wounded.
KANSAS CITY, Missouri, June 24.—A horrible disaster occurred at Wyandotte, Kansas, yesterday, by the falling of the walls of two houses and part of a third, burying all the inmates. The buildings were four stories high, situated on the levee. Some forty or fifty persons were in the buildings at the time. They had previously been occupied as the headquarters of the First Regiment of the Kansas Volunteers.

Married.
At Tyrone, Pa., on the 15th June, by the Rev. J. P. Colman, Lieut. JAS. S. BRIN, U. S. A., and Miss MARY JANE, daughter of David M. Wagner, of Bellefonte.

Died.
In Newton Hamilton, on the 18th inst., Mrs. LYDIA K. CAUGHILL, aged 57 years. Mrs. C. did not enjoy good health for many years previous to her death, in consequence of a chronic affection of the bowels. Her sufferings were most intense until about twelve hours before she expired, when a paralysis pervaded her whole system and she breathed out her life with a heavenly smile upon her countenance. Although her disease was not wholly unexpected, yet when death had done his mysterious work, and the heart so lately warm and throbbing with the noblest impulses, had ceased to beat, it was a severe shock, and has cast a deep gloom over the household, as well as the many kind friends who were constant in their efforts to ease her sufferings. "Death loves a shining mark," and in this instance it may be truly said that his victim has been as kind a wife, as noble and affectionate a mother, and as generous a friend as ever graced a household. May the reliance of those who mourn her loss be on the Saviour of mankind, and the hope of a reunion in a brighter world, where sickness, sorrow and death never come, soften the grief which now overwhelms them.

"Thou art gone to the grave—but we will not deplore thee,
Though sorrow and darkness encompass the family,
Thine anguish has passed through its portals before thee,
And the lamp of his love is thy guide through the gloom."
"Thou art gone to the grave—but 'twere wrong to deplore thee,
When God was thy Ransom, thy Godson, and Guide,
He gave thee and took thee, thy soul and thy body,
Where death has no sting, since the Saviour hath died!"
