COMMUNICATIONS, AUNT KITTY'S TEA TABLE.

BY ICHABOD IDLE.

INTRODUCTORY.

There is more edification about Aunt $1 per annum in advance ... $1.50 at end of Kitty's Tea Table than the public is aware of, and it has accurred to me several times that to give a part of what transpires there ! might interest, if not enlighten, your read-I will premise, in the first place, that Aunt Kitty is a maiden of mature years, tolerable good looks, kind heart, religious, and even when wrong well meaning. have heard it said by some of our family that in her younger days, when all was bright before her, she buried her heart's best affections with one who in the bloom of manhood sunk into the grave a victim of that fell destroyer consumption, and that from that time she has declined listening to offers of marriage. Be this as it may, there are periods when she indulges in reveries, when her ever kind voice is modulated into tones that strike a sympathetic chord in the hearts of all around her, and cause even her little pet, Ellie, to cease her gambols lest she might disturb or annov dear Aunt Kitty. These two and your humble servant, together with an occasional visitor, comprise the family who sit around the old-fashioned tea-table.

"Ichabod," said my aunt the other day, this war is a terrible thing, and I fear will ruin us with taxation. Mrs. D. told me the other day that their taxes would almost take away their income. Do you know anything about it?"

"Not much," aunt, I said. "Taxes of course will be considerably increased, probably doubled. There is the war tax, the tax to support those whom the soldiers have left dependent, and perhaps there may be a small increase in the State tax. "But don't the soldiers get paid ?" said my aunt. Certainly they do-$13 a month and clothing and provisions."

"Then why should the county support their families?" said sha. "Because," I replied, "a large number of those who have gone to risk life in defence of our inestimable institutions, without which your property, my dear aunt, would be insecure if not worthless, as thousands have already found out in the border States, are poor men who love their homes, their wives and little ones, as much as you do us. But for such, drafting would be necessary, and in that case] might have had to leave you and little Ellie, and strangers attended to your business or your broad acres left untilled. In truth, but for you, dear aunt, I would long since have shouldered a musket and done my best to lay low in the dust some of the bad men who have for years been at work to poison the minds of the Southern people and bring about this wicked and causeless war.'

"Don't-don't say that, Ichabod," said my aunt, fainly affrighted at the idea of my going to war. "Net for a thousand dollars would I have you leave me and make my house and home a desert."

"It will not," I replied, " cost you the fiftieth part of that to keep me here if our patriotic working men continue to go. Your property is assessed at imposed on it is 21 mills on the dollar; an gave him a great State dinner, and if therefore the Board of Relief was to wrote him an approving farewel! letter .appropriate the whole amount for that puroose, what do you suppose your tax will

The idea of James Buchanan writing a letter to a Union meeting in this crisis, ity of impudence, and if we did not know with how much heartlessness he contemplated and assisted in the ruin of his country, we should be amazed at his temerity in sending such hollow professions forth among a people who only permit his presence in their midst on account of his years. Had the action of the ex-President been "prompt" and "energetic," we should not now be a divided and beligerant people. Had he repelled from his presence the infamous men who drove him into the Lecompton treachery; had he dismissed the corrupt ministers who robbed the national treasury; had he tolerated differences among independent democrats upon great national questions, his name would not now be a hissing and a scorn among the nations of the earth. One fact alone stamps James Buchanan with the brand of immortal infamy, and that is the manner in which he encouraged Jacob Thompson, his Secretary of the Interior, after Mississippi had left the Union. This Thompson retained his place in Buchanan's Cabinet, and absolutely acted as a commissioner from his own State (Mississippi) to the State of North Carolina, in order to seduce the latter to follow the same example .-When he returned he was not only welcomed by the President, but after he had retired from the Cabinet on account of the $7000. Now the highest tax that can be attempt to reinforce Fort Sumter, Buchan for Commissioner, and favor the election of Ross to the Assembly and Turner as Associate Judge. The votes of the soldiers however may change the whole complexion of affairs.

A Remarkable Vision .- The Fræliche Botschafter solemnly relates that a certain sister recently importunely prayed to God for perfect communion with him, when in reply she was favored with a vision in which she plainly saw her hoops suspended between heaven and earth, with a fire kindled under them, and the sun and moon clearly shone through the hoops. The Evangelist, relating the incident, remarks with apparent concern "One can readily imagine the terrible conse quences of such a phenomenon. Our opin ion is that from this time on said sister was greatly strengthened--to strain at gnats and swallow camels. Schreeklich !

"But Mr. D.," I said, "is a great politician, and, like the majority of such, a priate committee, to attend and address a great liar. Besides, he leans strongly toward the southern rebels, and has more than once just fied their treason by saying he would take up arms against the North if he lived South-that we ought to recognize the usurping government-and that everything done by the National Administration was wrong-in short, he just talks as Jef Davis wants northern tories to talk. Now I will make a calculation of what your tax for the relief fund will be at the highest figure. Your valuation is $7000, which multiplied by two and a half mills brings out seventeen dollars and fifty cents, which would be the amount of your tax for that fund."

"La! is that all? Why, Ichabod, I can save that much next year by not buying a silk dress."

I will spend twice that sum besides in aiding my poor neighbors whose husbands are away in the camp of duty Come, Ellie, let us go and see how Mrs. L. is getting along. She has three small children, and gets two dollars and a quarter to support herself and little ones, while her husband is away. You know, my pet. how the big tears rolled down her cheeks when he bid her good by, and how your playmate Lizzie eried to see her papa go perhaps never to return. Through such as him my home is preserved and my heart's treasures kept around me, and with Heaven's aid I shall not only cheerfully pay this tax, but endeavor to cheer and comfort the homes left desolate by sharing some of my ample means with the poor soldiers' wives and children."

September 28. J DEAR SIR: I have been honored by your kind invitation, as chairman of the appro-Union meeting of the citizens of Chester and Lancaster counties, to be held at Haysville, on the first of October. This I should gladly accept, proceeding as it does from a much valued portion of my cld Congressional dis trict, but advancing years and the present state of my health render it impossible.

You correctly estimate the deep interest which I feel, in common with the citizens who will there be assembled, in the present condition of our country. This is indeed se rious; but our recent military reverses, so far from producing despondency in the minds of a loyal and powerful people, will only ani mate them to more mighty exertions in sustaining a war which has become inevitable by the assault of the Confederate States upon Fort Sumter.

For this reason, were it possible for me to address you, waiving all other topics, I should confine myself to a solemn and earnest appeal to my countrymen, and especially those without families, to volunteer for th volunteers who are already in the field.

This is the moment for action ; for pron energetic and united action ; and not for the discussion of peace propositions. These, we must know, would be rejected by the States selves. I am wiser than I have been in that have seceded, unless we should offer to this matter, and it relieves me of a load of recognize their independence, which is entirely out of the question.

Better counsels may hereafter prevail, when these people shall be convinced that the war is conducted, not for their conquest or subjugation, but solely for the purpose of bringing them back to their original position in the Union, without impairing in the slightest degree any of their constitutional rights. Whilst, therefore, we shall cordially hail their return under our common and glorious flag, and welcome them as brothers, yet until that happy day shall arrive, it will be our duty to support the President with all the men and means at the command of the country, in a vigorous and successful prosecution of the war. Yours, very respectfully,

JAMES BUCHANAN

Anti Slavery in Spain.

The Spanish Government has arrived at a conclusion which is not without great significance at this moment. The Madrid Gazette publishes a letter to the Captain General the Island of Porto Rico from Marshall O'Donnell, President of the Council of Ministers and Minister of War and the Colonies, in which he avows the principle that a slave who has touched the soil of Spain must be considered emancipated, even without the consent of his former master. This recognizes the right of a slave to escape from thraldom, if he can. Over eighty years ago, a venerable judge, before whom the case was brought by the benevolent Granville Sharpe, propounced the legal decision that a negro was free the moment he set foot on English soil-though Sir William Blackstone, in stating the fact, cautiously added the reservation "though the master's right to his service may possibly still continue." Here we have England, which introduced slavery into her American colonies, and Spain. which still retains it in Caba and Porto Rico, anited, with a long in terval of years between, in admitting that the slave has a positive right to his freedom-if he can obtain it. We are unacquainted, as yet, with the special circumstances which have called for Marshal O'Donnell's declaration.

"He Remembered the Forgotten' was beautifully said of Howard the philanthropist. It also applies to every man who brings the ameliorations, comforts and enjoyments of life within the reach of persons and classes who are otherwise deprived of their advantages. Especially may it be said of him who laboriously seeks and finds new means of preserving bealth, 'the poor man's capital and the rich man's power.' We think this eulo gium properly applied to J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, the renowned chemist of New England, who spurning the trodden paths to fame, devotes his entire abilities and acquirements to the discovery of Nature's most effectual remedies for disease. When the hidden blessing has been revealed, he proceeds to supply it to all mankind alike, through our druggists at such low prices that poor and rich may alike enjoy its benefits .- [Journal and Inquirer, Portland, Me.
