LOCAL AFFAIRS.

DEATH OF DR. S. L. ALEXANDER .-In the skirmish on the 26th November between Col. Bayard's 1st Pennsylvania Cavalry and a party of rebels, Dr. Alexander of Milroy was wounded in the abdomen, at first supposed slightly, but the surgeons not being able to extract the ball, he subsequently died, much to the regret of all who knew him. The following brief letter to the editor of the Gazette will be read with interest:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30, 1861.

Dear Sir: I am happy to say that the gal lant conduct of our little band in their last encounter with the rebels (of which you have an account by this time,) reflects much credit on the Mifflin County Cavalry. One of the rebels was known to have been killed by corporal Romich, and a captain of the 7th South Carolina Volunteers taken prisoner by A. B. Selheimer, of Lewistown. The Mifflin coun ty boys acted nobly, and from present appear ances you may expect to hear a more favora ble account before many days.

The death of Dr. Alexander, of Milroy, (our assistant surgeon) has cast a gloom over the whole regiment, as he was loved by all the men. His remains left this place this morning. in charge of Lieut. Mann, G. H. Moore, Esq., of Philadelphia, and his orderly, Mr. Wagner, to be interred in Wilmington. Delaware. His wife arrived in camp about two hours after he died, expecting to find him slightly wounded. She was almost frantic on hearing of his death.

Dr. Alexander's death was caused by a wound in the abdomen, the surgeon having been unable to extract the balk.

Col. Bayard's horse was pierced by twelve balls, and his clothes fairly riddled, yet he escaped with a slight scratch. Company D, of Clinton county, also had a man wounded who has since died, as well as one of the wounded rebel prisoners brought to our camp. Both were buried vesterday We are now under marching orders with two days rations.

Doak, some of whom had been intimate associates for years, were in a store reading or rehearsing one of Shakspear's plays, when, coming to a soldier's scene, each picked up an instrument with which to make a charge. One had an old sabre, another a gun barrel, and a gun standing near, young Smith grasped it, and pointing it towards Doak, not knowing it was loaded, discharged a load of duck shot into the neck of the latter, who fell and died almost instantly.
