LOCAL AFFAIRS.

DROWNED .- James Tenpenny, a boy about six years old, fell into Kish: coquillas creek, above the old stone mill on Saturday last while fishing, and was drawn under the wheel into the main stream. A younger brother gave the alarm, but all search for his body proved unavailing until Sunday afternoon, when he was cought by a grappling hook below the stone bridge. An inquest was held by Coroner Miller, the jury returning a verdict that he came to his death by accidental drowning.

FOOT BURNT .- Richeson Bratton, Esq., one of the Commissioners, had his foot burnt last week in extinguishing a fire which broke out in his meat house at a late hour at night. It was discovered by some young men who had been at a party and were returning home. The meat was saved without much injury, but the smoke house consumed. It was in close proximity to the house, and but for its timely discovery, gright have caused a disastrous fire.

We had another fall of snow on Monday night and yesterday morning, and the Narrows that index of winter will not disappear for a week or two.

Snow mingled with hail and rain, continued to fall yesterday and last night, and depth of perhaps three inches, with pretty cold weather.

The Dialexian Society will give another exhibition on Thursday evening in the Town Hall, when some variation in the performances will be made. A portion of Lady's Soldiers Aid Association.

The Philharmonic String Band have kindly offered their services, and our citizens may of course expect a treat from that quarter. Let every one be in attendance-especially our country friends-as it will be a grand affair. Admission 15 cents, children 10.

The announcement last week in the Gazette that the Town Council hand leyied a tax of three mills for borough purposes, caused the leading taxpayers to get up a petition requesting that body to reduce the levy to 11 mills; and at a meeting convened on Monday evening by the Chief Burgess it was determined to reduce it to 2 is all that need be done at present.

The Court has been transacting considerable business, both civil and criminal, since Monday, and laid down sundry new rules which will in future prevent all jury and other loafing. Parties who bring cases into court will also have to be ready when called on, as putting off suits from one term to another for years is at an end. From present appearances there will be six candidates for a visit to Philadelphiatwo old ones (Riddle and McNeal, who escaped some years ago before sentence and were lately re-arrested) McConahy, Wilbur, Buchanan, and Valentine. A vagrant boy, indicted for setting on fire a wagon load of furniture near town while being removed, was acquitted yesterday.

F. A. Neupert, who has just commenced the baking business on his own account, sends us a specimen cake, which has beeen duly cut up and divided among all hands.

The canal is now filling with water, and several boats, heavily laden with produce, are ready to depart.

The Intended Assassin of President Lincoln. Many persons affect to believe that there was no intention to assassinate President Lincoin before he assumed the duties of his office. Recent developments have not ouly established that fact, but point directly to the person who was to perform the bloody deed. A short time since a Baltimore gambler, named Byrne, was arrested in Richmond for keeping a gambling house, and for his supposed dis loyalty to the comfederate government. To prove his loyalty, Byrne summoned Wigfall, who testified that Byrne was not only loyal to the confederate cause, but was the captain of a band who were to murder Mr. Lincoln. It was for a long time supposed that an Italian barber of Baltimore had agreed to become the Orsini for the murder of the President, but he was probably only one of the conspirators.—Wash. Republican.

Married.

At the residence of the bride's father, on the 3d inst., by the Rev. M. R. Fleck, DAVID BESHOAR, jr., of Juniata county, to Miss ELIZABETH BRENEMAN, of this county.

[From the New York World.] Countenancing Treason.

There are certain journals here in the North, which, whether they mean it or not, pression. are doing all they can to counteract the efforts of Governor Andy Johnson and his coadjutors to remimate the loyalty of Tennessee and the other border states. They do it by daily holding out that the Republicans and abolitionists are the real authors of this rebellion, in direct contradiction to the declarations of the Tennessee govern-or, in his addresses to the people, that the rebellion is owing to the deceptions and machinations of Jeff Davis and his crew. While Governor Johnson avers that the rebel leaders had no cause, these prints he endeavors to infuse confidence, all their language goes to strengthen distrust .-While his work is to win back into the Union, their work is to repel from it.

Most assuredly, if it be true that the dominant party at the North is responsible for this rebellion, it is unreasonable to expect that rebels will drop their character so long as that party is in power; and it will be in power in every department of the government until at the very least, the termination of the present Congress eleven months hence. If there was any reason for taking up arms at the outset, that reason still continues. There is no evidence that the Republican party is willing to strike out a line of its Chicago platform, or prepared in any particular to treat slavery with any more respect or forbearance than was manifested in their campaign which elected Lincoln, and which according to these newspapers, provoked the re-bellion. Governor Johnson stoops to no such pretence. He utters not a word conveying the faintest idea that the President, or the Republican members of Congress, or the majority of the northern people, have changed their sentiments or purposes so as to better favor southern institutions. He practices no such deception. He adfrom the appearance of the mountains in heres to the truth, and asserts without reserve or qualification that the Republican President, the Republican Congress, and the Republican majority of the northern people have never violated the constitutional rights of the Southern States, and this morning the ground is covered to the that all the terrifying language of Jeff Davis & Co. was a base hypocritical imposture. He deals in no harsh language toward any party or any person at the North. He tenders the rebellion no salvos for its guilt. He holds no recantations, he promises no concessions. He simply tells the truth of the causelessness and the wickedness and the madness of secession, the proceeds will be handed over to the and appeals to reason and conscience and for renewed devotion to the glorinterest ious old flag. Of course we are free to admit that there has been a great deal of improper language from the hot anti-slavery zealots of the North. We have never been slow to condemn and denounce it. But we would scorn to offer this language or any other language as an extenuation of the infernal crime of treason. We would as soon think of excusing the man for murdering you and your whole family in cold blood because one of your children treated him with hard words. It would be just as decent to say that your young sauce box was responsible for the murder, as to say our anti-slavery hot heads are responsible for this treason. The abusive language may be all wrong: but there is an infinite dis proportion between the provocation and the retaliation. No right-minded man wills. 'this will yield enough to clean up would for a moment think of mentioning the streets, pay outstanding orders, the the one in connection with the other in east of lighting, high constable, &c., which any manner, -infinitely less of presenting them in the relation of natural cause and Take even the worst of railers-Philips and Garrison-unwarrantable as has been their talk against slaveholders and against the Constitution which protects them, there is yet an immeasurable distance between their offence and the red-handed traitors against whom the government is now struggling for its existence. There is all the difference between words and acts -between articulate breath that simply sets agape, and the blows that smite very seat of life. The framers of our Constitution knew what they were about when they ignored all treason but that 'overt act;' and it is that, above all, to which every true man in these times will direct his unsparing denunciations. Guilt rests where the actual crime was committed. To go back of that is idle .-But if we were to inquire into the ultimate conditions which made the crime a practical thing, we do not think it would fare well with the newspapers in question. Grant that it was the violent abolition talk of the North that so excited the popular mind of the South as to make it easy for the southern conspirators to fire it into assent to any traitorous work, yet the question comes back: Who was it that acquainted the southern people with this ab-olition talk, and caused them to believe that it expressed the ruling feeling of the North? It was notoriously the same northern journals that are now seeking to lighten up the responsibility of the rebel leaders by imputing the original guilt to the North. Their standard mode of party warfare was to catch up, on the instant, every hot fanatical utterance and blazon it forth as a genuine specimen of the spirit and purpose of the party seeking power. The people of the North knew better, and elected the Republican candidates by over-whelming majorities. But the people of the South, among whom no other northern journals circulated, knew no better. They believed what they read, and were thus prepared to become the tools of the disunion plot. We say then that whatever guilt may attach to the anti-slavery ultras of the North, a greater guilt attaches to those who girculated their tirades where they could do the most harm-nay, far greater guilt, for there was the atrocious falsehood added that those tirades expressed the mind of Abraham Lincoln and the party which supported him. If these fanatical declaimers are in any sense the authors of this rebellion, then these northern editors were the abettors of it; for without them the abolition talk would have made no im-

But it is all superfluous to go back upon these matters. It is enough that we know that the actual perpetrators of the treason are now at the head of the councils and the armies of the 'confederacy.' All true men will acknowledge that they deserve the severest punishment, and will not say one word to shield them from it. All true men, too, will cordially second the efforts of the government to disabuse the betrayed people of their delusions, and to convince them that they can live peaceably and securely with the North under the unrepresent that they had strong cause. While broken shelter of the Constitution erected by their fathers and our fathers. > Revival in a Regiment.—The Sixty third Pennsylvania Regiment, Colonel Alexander Hays, now in service at the South, has had quite a revival of religion. Most of the mem-bers are from Pittsburg. A correspondent thus describes taking the sacrament: "A small rude table was used; common bread, wine made of grape jelly and water, and two glasses were placed in the centre. Our tents were lighted by three candles, swung from the centre. Familiar words were well sung. A few introductory remarks and a prayer, then eight stalwart soldiers kneeled around the table and were baptized; the bread and wine were then passed to communicants; even outside the tents all eager to obey the command, "This do, in remembrance of me."-Everybody was weeping; twenty nine joined on profession, the whole membership now being one hundred and eighty.eight. We had sweet singing while Elder Danks (Captain) and myself distributed the sacramental ele

> Warning to Minors .- U. S. Commissioner Tuttle has recently decided in a case before a him that a minor, falsely representing him self without parents living or legal guardian, and thereby becoming enlisted in the military or naval service of the United States, with the view of receiving the advance pay from the Government, and then getting discharged on a habeas corpus, commits an offence pun-ishable within the meaning of the acts of Congress. The United States authorities have resolved to put a stop to the intolerable an noyance of being continually imposed upon by these minors, who, by these false representations, get into the service and cause so much delay and expense to the government.

Singular Case of Hydrophobia.—At Newton, L. I., a woman died on last Thursday evening, after four days suffering, from hy-drophobia. It is said she was bitten or scratched, in January last, by a cat, which it is supposed had been bitten some time before by a dog whose actions placed him under sus-picions of madness. The cat for some time acted very strangely, but was supposed to be only suffering from fits, such as cats are subject to. One day in January last, she suddenly leaped upon the arm of her mistress, and held so tightly with her claws, that a neighbor, who happened to be in the house, had to use considerable strength to pull the animal off. The wounds made by the cat's claws healed up, and no unpleasant consequences apparently ensued, till Monday of last week, when a spasmodic attack began, which was declared by competent physicians to be clearly hydrophobia in its character.
