

THE HOUSEKEEPER.

From Godey's Lady's Book for May. Sugar Cake.—Sift two pounds of flour into a pan, and cut up in it a pound of fresh butter.

Plain Cake.—Four pounds of flour, two pounds of currants, and half a pound of butter, with clove, caraway, and coriander seeds to the taste, together with lemon-juice grated; wet it with milk and half a pint of yeast.

Butter Cakes.—To half a pound of butter add the same quantity of brown sugar, three eggs, the rind of two lemons, quarter of an ounce of powdered ginger; work in to it as much flour as will make it a paste; cut it into shapes or leave it whole, and strew over the top some powdered almonds and candied orange-peel. Bake in a slow oven.

Macarons.—Blanch four ounces of almonds, and pound with four spoonfuls of orange-flower water; whisk the whites of four eggs to a froth, then mix it and one pound of sugar, sifted with the almonds to a paste; and laying a sheet of wafer-paper on a tin, put it in different little cakes, the shape of macarons.

Jumbles.—To one and a quarter pounds of butter, well creamed, put one pound of sugar and three eggs beaten well together, one and a half pound of sifted flour, and two spoonfuls of rose-water; mix these well together, and with a fork drop them on a tin, and bake in a quick oven.

Rout Drops.—Mix two pounds of flour, one pound of butter, one pound of sugar, one pound of currants, clean and dry; then wet into a stiff paste, with two eggs, a large spoonful of orange-flower water, the same each of rose-water, sweet wine, and brandy; drop on a tin plate folded. A very short time bakes them.

Ginger Biscuit.—Work well one and a quarter pounds of butter, with the same weight of moist sugar; add eight eggs well beaten; stir in two and a half pounds of flour, one ounce of volatile salts, and quarter of an ounce of ground ginger; mix these well, roll out the paste, cut it in fancy shapes, and bake crisp.

Wine Biscuits.—Rub into one pound of dry flour four ounces of butter, four ounces of white powdered sugar, one egg, and a spoonful or two of this cream to make it into a paste. When mixed, put currants into one half, and caraways into the rest. Cut them as before, and bake on tins.

POLITICAL. The Attempt to Resurrect the Patent Democratic Party. The following letter from 'Occasional,' the well known correspondent of the Philadelphia Press, is deserving of the most serious consideration: WASHINGTON, April 3, 1862. There are none so blind as those who refuse to see. I may be denounced—as indeed, I know I am—by selfish and mercenary partisans, who look forward to a re-organization of the Democracy as one of the best methods by which they are to reassume into their own hands the reins of power.

'Occasional' said: 'There is a strong body of men in the south who are bent upon breaking up the confederacy is now beyond controversy. That these men have determined to make the election of Lincoln, should he be elected, a pretext for the inauguration of this scheme of Disunion is as clear to my mind as the noon-day sun.'

On the 16th: 'One fact ought to be kept constantly in view by the democratic masses in the present struggle, and that is the complete identity between Breckinridge and Buchanan. The leader of the Breckinridge or Disunion party is the President.'

On the 26th of the same month: 'The Breckinridge men not only went out of the National Convention when they found that they had lost the game, but will go out of the Union if they lose the presidency, or the Republicans should win it.'

On the 12th of September: 'Any one at this centre who reads the southern papers, and hears the southern extremists, will be compelled to resort to violent courses should their projects in reference to Breckinridge and Lane be defeated in November.'

Maintaining the same position steadily down to the day of the election, 'Occasional' said on the 24th of October: 'The conspirators in the Southern States are actively at work. Undoubted intelligence constrains me to the belief that a wide spread disunion movement is in process of secret and rapid formation, and that we shall see the first evidences immediately after the November election, should the result prove favorable to Mr. Lincoln. All conservative men will ask, why do not the extreme men of the South wait for the overt act? If Mr. Lincoln is elected, is he to have no chance to show his hand? Is he, in advance, to be proscribed and persecuted?'

And in a speech quoted from Sam. Houston, delivered in Austin, Texas, before the election, this point was made a text of fruitful comment. 'I do not say,' he asserted, 'that all these Southern Constitutional Democrats are disunionists, but I do say that all the disunionists are southern constitutional democrats.'

On the 31st of October I quoted an extract from the Vicksburg (Mississippi) Citizen, announcing the forthcoming speech of Jefferson Davis on the 4th of November, in that city, in which this language is used: 'Jefferson Davis will probably be the generalissimo of the southern army.'

After the Presidential election, when the drama began rapidly to unfold itself, I said, December 6, 1860: 'Well may Jas. Buchanan, President of the United States, employ the language of the great French monarch—"After me the deluge!" We are on the eve of a revolution, bloodless, as yet, to which he furnished alike the initiative and the stimulant.'
