LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A letter from Samuel Tice, one of the prisoners taken on the 2d of July last, during the three months service under Lieut. Hutchinson, addressed to Porter Hawker, was received last week. It is dated Salisbury, North Carolina, April, and states himself and other prisoners are all well. He says he has written home often and got no answer, ascribing it however to the proper cause, their not receiving his letters. He sends his respects to all inquiring friends, and asks his father to send him "a gold dollar to look at for past time." His direction is "Samuel Tice, prisoner of Carolina. He adds-" We have a hard life of it here; I hope we will be released

Gen. Burnside, it will be remembered, released 2,300 prisoners taken at Roanoke, with the understanding that all the prisoners then held by the rebels, being a much less number, should be exchanged; but the entthroat crew at Richmond have thus far failed to fulfil their part, and still keep our mark, that while northern locofocos have much to say about the Union as it was, and about confining northern tories to prevent their aiding the rebels, not one of these constitution loving editors that we remember has ever denounced the southern traitors for these brutal acts to one-half the extent that they do the government at Wash-

The weather is quite pleasant, with occasional rains, which give a fine appearance to the grass and grain fields. There was a little ice on two mornings last week, and a heavy frost on another, but as few fruits are as yet in blossom, it is not likely that the crop has been seriously injured.

We commence using this week the paper manufactured by the Messrs. Given, at Papertown, Cumberland county, being among the first run off on their new machinery, which we judge to be of the most improved kind. F. G. Franciscus of this place is their agent for its sale, and if they continue to furnish a similar article, there will be little reason for complaint either by pressmen or readers.

A Historical Event-Visit of the President to a French War Vessel.

The President's visit to the French frigate Gassendi, yesterday was an event of historical importance. It was the first time a President ever went on board a foreign vessel of war, and the first French vessel-of-war that ever came to Washington.

The yards were manned, the ship was dressed with flags, the American national ensign floated at the main, and the French flag at the fore and mizzen peak. The national sa-lute was fired on the President's arrival and again on his departure.

Admiral Reynaud received him at the foot of the landing, and the seamen shouted "Vipe le President!" on his arriving and leaving. Capt. Gautier entertained him hospitably in his cabin, and presented the officers of the ship. The President was attended at the landing by a full guard of marines and the band, who played the National airs, Captain Dahlgren and the other officers of the yard stamp ought to be treated in the same man- it greater brightness and in all that is joyseceiving him in a body.

The President was accompanied on board State of Affairs at New Orleans-The by the Secretary of State, and Captain Dahlgren. The French minister was aboard to receive him, and present his countrymen. The reception was a gratifying one to the President, and the affair passed off to their mutual satisfaction, and was deemed a happy augury for the amicable relations of the two

A Letter from Colonel Corcoran.

RICHMOND, Virginia, April 19, 1862. My Ever Dear Friend-Your letter of the 8th inst. reached me, and I avail myself of the articles herein mentioned: the earliest opportunity to reply. I feel deep regret for the sad intelligence it conveys to my highly esteemed friend and fellow prison er, Lieut. Dempsey. I have been using my best endeavors to console him, and I am happy to say that he looks upon the matter in a truly Christian manner.

We have been officially notified that we are now detained in consequence of General Wool having failed to comply with terms of agree-To say that I am not anxious to be honorably released from my present position, would be something more than might be expected from human nature, but to say that I am not perfectly content to patiently await proper action, would be equally untrue .-Therefore be not uneasy, for my heaith is good and my spirits buoyant, and I hope I may hereafter profit by my present experience. know and appreciate the vast amount of trouble, &c., that my friends have taken in order to obtain my release, and I trust all will Hams and sides at wholesale, not be guided by past experience, and let the war, Co. A Thrilling Romance.

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION-A Dying Soldier Prays for t e President.—Never until we stood by the grave of the Green Mountain did we realize how much stranger is truth than fiction. Your readers will all recollect last summer a private was court-martialed for sleeping on his post out near Chain Bridge on the Upper Potomac. He was convicted; his sentence was death; the finding was approved of by the General and the day fixed for his execution. He was a youth of more than ordinary intelligence; he did not beg for pardon, but was willing to meet his fate. The time drewnear; the stern necassity of war required that an example should be made of some one; his was an aggravated case. But the case reached the ears of the President; he resolved to save him; he signed a pardon and sent it out: the day came. "Sup gose," thought the President, "my pardon has not reached him." The telegraph was called into requisition; an answer did not come promptly. "Bring up my carriage," he Lidies and Gentlemen, selected with care, ordered. It came, and soon the important which are offered at low figures for eash.—

State papers were dropped, and through the hot broiling sun and dusty roads he rode to the camp, about ten miles, and saw that the soldier was saved! He has doubtless forgotten the incident, but the soldier did not .-When the Third Vermont charged upon the rifle pits, the enemy poured a volley upon them. The first man who fell, with six bul lets in his body, was Wm. Scott, of Company K. His comrades caught him up, and as his life blood ebbed away, he raised to heaven, amid the din of war, the cries of the dying, and the shouts of the enemy, a prayer for the President, and as he died he remarked to his comrade that he had shown he was no coward and not afraid to die.

He was interred, in the presence of his regiment, in a little grove about two miles to the rear of the Rebel fort, in the centre of a group of holly and vines. A few cherry-trees, in full bloom, are scattered round the edge. In digging his grave a skull and bones were found, and metal buttons, showing that the identical spot had been used in the Revolutionary war for our fathers, who fell in the same cause. The Chaplain parrated the circumstances to the boys, who stood around with uncovered heads. He prayed for the President, and paid the most glowing tribute to his noble heart that we ever heard .-The tears started in their eyes as the clods of earth were thrown upon him in his narrow

The men separated; in a few minutes all were engaged in something around the camp, as though nothing had happened unusual; but that scene will live upon their memories while life lasts; the calm look of Scott's face, the seeming look of satisfaction he felt, still lingered; and could the President have seen him he would have felt that his act of mercy had been wisely bestowed. But the cannon' roar is to be heard towards Yorktown, and we must be off to the scene.-Philadelphia In-

Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, whose choice products are found at almost every toilet, says:

"I am happy to say of your Cathartic Pills, that I have found them a better family medicine, for common use, than any other within my knowledge. Many of my friends have realized marked benefits from them, and coincide with me in believing that they possess extraordinary virtues for driving out diseases and cuting the sick. They are not only effectual, but safe and pleasant to be taken—qualities which must make them valued by the public, when they are known."

The venerable Chancellor WARDLAW writes from Baltimore, 15th April, 1854:

"Dr. J. C. Avra. — Sir: I have taken your Pills with great benefit, for the listlessness, languor, loss of appetite, and Bilious headache, which has of late years overtaken me in the spring. A few doses of your Pills curted me. I have used your Cherry Pectoral many years in my family for coughs and colds with unfailing success. The widely renowned S. S. STEVENS, M. D., of Wentworth, N. H., writes:

"Having used your Cathantic Pilla in my practice, I certify from experience that they are an invaluable purgative. In cases of discretered functions of the liver, causing incidache, indigestion, consiveness, and the great variety of diseases that follow, they are a surer remedy than any other. In all cases where a purgative remedy is required, I confidently recommend these Pills to the profile, as superior to any other I have ever found. They are sure in their operation, and perfectly safe—qualities which make them an invaluable article for public use. I have for many years known your Cherry Pettoral as the best Cough medicine in the world; and these Pills are in no wise inferior to that admirable preparation for the treatment of diseases."
