LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Hospitals for the sick and wounded are talked of through the country towns, it being desirable to remove them from the cities during the hot weather. Some inquiries have been made here as to our capacity for affording room.—The young man of friendship bestowed upon them by their whose death by lightning we noticed last whose death by lightning we noticed last and occasionally childish quarrels, yet never week, was Wilson Harman, a son of Isaac, with David McCay. His gravity of deport aged about 20 years. He was killed on the farm of S. W. Taylor, deceased.—A corps of engineers commenced surveying the lines for the projected railroad to the valley, and we suppose as soon as they are of God's commandments, but which too often through operations will be commenced on this end of the road. The river bridge Religion in early life had taken fast hold upwill either have to be purchased or a new one erected .- High Constable Miller has seturned a number of parties for obstructions on the streets and alleys, and is getting them into some kind of order, a move in which all good citizens ought to support him, as this converting public property to private use has been carried to an unwarrantable extent. The greatest nuisance on the streets now is a number of cows whose owners are "pasturing and stabling" them on the streets. Why not drive them out of town, during the day at least?

NATIONAL HORSE FAIR .- The Annual Exhibition of horses for the United States will be held at Williamsport, in this State, in September next, when admirers of this noble animal can probably see a better collection than may be met with again for many years, except at the expense of long journeys.

RELEASED PRISONERS .- Samuel Tice and Geo. W. Threlked, the last of the men from this place held as prisoners by the rebels for nearly a year, returned home on Sunday morning, looking quite well, and were warmly welcomed by their friends. These prisoners had not been paid since their enlistment, and now receive in pay, rations, &c. about $300 each, a sum which, if well husbanded, may prove a good starting point in life.

THE 4TH .- What will be done on the 4th of July? is a question asked by many. No public demonstration has been arranged so far, and unless speedily taken hold of, we suppose it will be celebrated as usual for some years by detached parties here and there, with a few hundred dollars wasted in firing off crackers, rockets, &c.

men In the Educational Column last week "unitarian" ought to have read "utilitarian." The error had been marked in the proof, but was overlooked.

A correspondent of the Press, speaking of the heat of the weather in the camp before Richmond, says: Most of the regiments are somewhat protected from Sol's rays by the foliage of the woods in which they are encamped. Other regiments were compelled to put up shelter, or suffer. The 49th Pa. Regt. is unanimously allowed to have the finest encampment in this vicinity. Large arbors, covered with green foliage, have been erected by the men, under which the respective companies assemble, and the men lie during the day when there is no work on hand. Each tent has its entrance protected by a bower of similar material, and the effect is to give the camp a very pretty and picturesque appearance.

> For the Gazette. Sabbath School Meeting.

A meeting of the friends of Sabbath Schools was held in the M. E. Church, Freedom Forge, on Friday evening, June 13th, for the purpose unanimously resolved to form themselves into a Sabbath School Association, to be known by the name of "The Sabbath School Association of the Little Valleys." The following schools comprise those that were represented: Yeagertown; Cove Mills; Aurand's; Little Valley; Dry Valley; Mount Rock; Freedom Forge; Granville; Wittenmeyer's.

A committee was appointed to nominate and elect permanent officers for the Association, which reported as follows: For President—Col. John A. Wright; Vice Presidents

-A. P. Blymyer, Jas. H. Alexander; Secretary-B. F. Miller; Asst. Secretary-John Hoyt, to be elected semi-annually. It was resolved that the meetings of the Association be held monthly, and on the first Tuesday of each month, at such place as the Association may designate. The next meeting is to be held in the Presbyterian Church, Little Valley, Rev. Mr. Strain, pastor.

The community showed their appreciation of this great and glowing auxiliary of the Church by the large and interesting audience present. A committee was also appointed to form a similar Association in Decatur town-B. F. MILLER, Sec. REV. S. H. C. SMITH, Pastor.

The Late David McCav. The following comes to us from an unknown correspondent, though the handwriting appears familiar:

BUELL'S ARMY, NEAR CUMBERLAND RIVER, TENNESSEE.

It is with profound sorrow that in this far off country I have read the obituary notice of the Rev. David McCay, and I cannot but ask the privilege of saying one word in memory man who perhaps above all others within the circle of my acquaintance has led a epot-less and blameless life. Amiable in his disposition, and possessing a mind of a high order, he early in life was looked up to by his companions, as a counsellor, guide and friend. The few of his schoolfellows and playmates of the Juniata that are left will remember departed friend, that while they had sparring ment and equanimity of temper never carried him into excitements, or lured him into the paths of mischief. Others may have tasted the fruit of their neighbor's garden without is looked upon as a youthful indiscretion, but on him. The example of a father who, if he erred at all, it was by his rigid adherence to the gospel truths, which he did with almos' puritanical rigor; or of a mother who, with christian meekness, lay for long years prostrate on a bed of sickness, had its influence in forming the character of this most estimable man. Forty years since, or more, there was but little church service of any kind in Lewistown. other than that which was held in the old Court House, that quaint old edifice that stood in the centre of the public square. Here, on each Sabbath morning might be seen those venerated fathers of the Presbyterian church, Mr. Walters, Mr. McCay and Mr. Robison, and indeed nearly the who ole town wending their way to hear the Rev. Mr. Kenedy preach from the Judge's bench, and here was the rite of baptism performed on David McCay; and in long after years, when the Rev. gentleman, by an appeal to be received into the ministry of the church from which he had been suspended for many years, young McCay, then but recently in the ministry, sat as one of his judges. In describing the scene to the writer he spoke of it as one that caused in his breast emotions singularly painful, and yet gratify ing, that his first pastor, then a penitent man, could by his vote be restored to the ministry, and could again go forth to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ. That rote was given, and that old man lived to call him blest, and he once more returned to the town where he had so long ministered, to find many changes, and some of them, alas, how sad. That the subject of our sketch took a lively interest in the success of our arms I can read ily believe, and the fact that he followed the army of his country to the tented field that he might minister to his dying countrymen, spoke of a heart in the right place.

Few ever passed to the tomb so well prepa red to meet a righteous Judge at the last great lay, and may the influence of his example be felt in long after years.

Those of his schoolfellows who survive him will remember how excellent he was in his class, how he excelled in his studies, and how readily he drank in knowledge. If by his weak voice he failed to attract the attention of the lover of rhetorical display, yet he never failed to attract the interest of the attentive listener, as his discourses were clear and methodical, evincing a mind of no common order. His was not that of an empty bublle, but a depth of learning that to be

York, Pa., June 23, 1862. The other day I visited Cottage Hill College. This is a fine, large building, beautifully situated on the north bank of the Co dorus creek, just opposite town. It is now occupied by Profs. Heiges and Griffith as a Normal and Classical Institute. These enterprising gentlemen have already done much for the advancement of educational interests in this county. Their liberality in furnishing their school with every necessary convenience, their zeal in the cause in which they are engaged, and their eminently practical methods of instruction have won for them a high reputation and secured them an extensive patronage, although they have not yet completed their first session. I was highly pleased with my visit. It was quite of forming a S. S. Teachers' Association. a relief to get away from the hot and dusty On motion, the Rev. S. H. C. After partaking of an excellent supper, we took a stroll in the garden and among the flowers. We wondered at the quantity of peas in the garden, but ceased to wonder when informed that, when the school is in operation, one bushel (shelled) make but a single mess. The grounds are adorned with a number of shade trees and a great many varieties of beautiful flowers, specimens of which I received in the shape of a handsome boquet. Before leaving, we were entertained with an harangue from a natural orator in the person of a jolly, round faced old man, who came into the yard to exhibit some specimens of soap, receipts for making which he

Ben labored for the good of the people by promulgating principles of economy and truth, and so did heby selling them receipts to make good soap. This traveling Demosthenes professed to be a worn out tallow chandler, but I strongly suspect that he was a traveling jour printer. Prof. H. bought one of his receipts, gave him a bite to eat, and he went on his way rejoicing.

Power of Shells .- Several instances occurred, during the battle of Shiloh, showing the terrible destructive power of shells.-In one place lay five men who appeared to have sheltered themselves behind a tree in order to take better aim at our men. A shell burst just over their heads. One man was struck just on top of his head, and each successive man was struck lower down about the breast and body in regular order. One of the men grasped in one hand a musket, with his cartridge in the other, just in the act of putting the powder in the barrel; another was ramming the cartridge and the other men engaged in similar occupations when the fatal shell burst.
