The subscriptions to the 10-40 U. S. Loan are the best evidence that can be offered of the ultimate re-establishment of the Union, for unless this feeling prevailed capitalists would not invest their means at the rate of millions per day. A remarkable contrast also is presented between Buchanan's "Union as it was" and now. Then, with but a small debt and in a time of peace, government had to pay a ruinous rate of interest; now, with a stupendous war and heavy debt, millions are daily poured into the lap of government at five per cent!

Our Country and its Destiny. The great events now transpiring in Virginia will, nay must, result in the weal or welfare of this country for all time to come. With the rebel papers we believe this will be the last year of the war, and it will either end in the supremacy of the National Government and the re-establishment of its power over the traitorous fields of the South, or in the ruin of both. That such is our impending fate is taught by the lessons of all history, and wo to that man who disregards it. Our own faith in the ultimate success of our armies is strong, but the work before them is not one of an hour, a day, a week, nor a month. Let every true patriot then bide his time with patience, and not expect too much. Bat. tles have yet to be fought-temporary reverses may be sustained-thousands of lives sacrificed, before the desired end can be seen to gleam on the horizon. And we would, above all other matters warn our readers not to be dispirited by the blackhearted wretches who like birds of ill omen go croaking along the streets and by-ways predicting that their rebel allies cannot be conquered, whose malicious smiles almost show that they inwardly rejoice at any reported rebel success, or who even in a time like the present, when the life blood of a nation is at stake, will like demons howl at the government which is using all the means in its power to preserve our country from ruin, its credit from the assaults of its enemies, and to secure each man in the peaceful possession of his property-for let all remember that if the restraints of Governmental law be once broken, no living can tell what the end will be.

-A great female riot occurred at Savannah, on the 17th ult. The women collected in a body with arms and marched through the streets in procession, demanding bread or blood, and seizing food whereever it could be found. The soldiers were called out, and after a brief conflict, the ringleaders were arrested and placed in WAR NEWS.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, May 4-6 A. M.-The grand movement is inaugurated at last. The Army of the Potomae is on the march!

Inasmuch as the present movement will be known-and perhaps felt-by the entire Re bel army in our front before the close of the day, there can be no barm in making it pub-

The order to march was issued from Gen. Meade's headquarters yesterday morning, and was disseminated through the army by 2 P. M. Gen. Gregg's Cavalry Division, ac companied by a portion of the canvass pontoon train, moved yesterday afternoon toward Richardsville, and were engaged till late at night repairing the roads to Ely's Ford. Soon after midnight that division moved to the ford named, to establish a crossing. About midnight the 3d Cavalry Division, with another portion of the canvass pontoon train, left for Germania Ford, five or six miles above, there to establish another crossing. It is reported at this hour that both efforts were successful. The advance of the 2d Corps, Major Gen eral Hancock commanding, broke camp at midnight, and moved down the Stevensburg and Richardsville road toward Ely's Ford The entire corps were on the march before 3 o'clock this morning in the same direction. and were expected to effect a crossing soon

The 5th Corps, under Major General War-ren, commenced moving at midnight. The advance, consisting of two divisions of in fantry and a portion of the artillery, passed through Stevensburg at midnight, closely followed by the remainder of the corps-all marched towards Germania Ford.

The Fifth Corps was closely succeeded by the Sixth, under General Sedgwick, which quitted its camp at 4 a. m. Both the Fifth and Sixth Corps are understood to be crossing the Rapidan at Germania Ford.

The entire movement of the army resolves itself into the crossing of the Rapidan river at two fords, toward the right flank of the enemy, placing itself crossing, on a line near ly parallel with the river, between Orange Court-House and Chancellorsville. At the present hour the movement is under way and there is a probability that it will be sue cessfully accomplished without severe opposition by Lee, to whom this bold push must be more or less of a surprise. It is not prob able that any serious engagement will be fought to-day. Cavalry skirmishing and artillery dueling are likely to make up the day's fighting, unless the enemy contests the advance in force.

Thus the event for which the country and the army have waited for weeks tranpires. All night the sounds of preparation and departure have been heard upon the roads, and in the encampments, now almost desert ed. The rattle of forage wagons, the lowing of cattle, the slow movement of ambulan ces conveying sick to the rear, the clang of galloping hoofs, and, later still, the deliberate and ponderous tumult of thousands of armed men moving into line and thence away over the hills toward the enemy, have filled the hours.

The Battle of Thursday.

The Tribune's letter from the army, dated Thursday night, says:

Early this morning the march was re sumed in the direction of Todd's tavern, which point was reached before noon, and the troops placed in line of battle at noon. Gen. Wilson, commanding Gen. Kilpatrick's former cavalry division, made his whereabouts known by a brisk cannonad ing several miles southwest of the tavern and in the vicinity of Shady Grove church. where for three quarters of an hour he was sharply engaged with a large body of rebel cavalry and a considerable force of infantry, by whom he was gradually forced back upon the 2d Corps. Had not the manœuvres of the enemy prevented, night would have found Gen Hancock's command at Shady Grove church, connecting with Gen. Warren on his right. By this manœuvre we would have occupied the pike running in a porthwestern direction from Germania Ford on the Rapidan. The movements of Lee soon revealed his real design.

Gen. Warren was directed to attack him at once, which he did about 11 a. m., and a determined musketry fight of an hour and a half ensued, in which Warren handsomely drove him from his position, inflicting great loss. Gen. Griffin's division, of the 5th Corps led the attack, and suffered severely, near ly 1,000 being killed, wounded, and miss ing. Finding his effort to break our cen tre futile, the enemy next attempted to interpose an overwhelming force between Warren and Hancock, the latter of whom in accordance with orders, was marching his corps rapidly to form a junction with the former. Fortunately his advance, consisting of Gen. Birney's division, came up just in time to circumvent the rebel gen eral, who at 21 p. m. commenced a terrific onslaught on the divisions of Gens. Birney, Gibbons, and Getty, the latter of whom-had been temporarily detached to form the extreme right of Hancock's command .-The fight raged hotly until some time aft er dark, and resulted in the complete repulse of the enemy at all points. Our loss in this engagement does not probably exceed 1,000 men. Scarcely any artillery was brought into requisition, the character of the ground rendering it useless. The battle-field is covered with a thick growth of underbrush and medium-sized oak trees, and it is owing to that fact that our losses are comparatively light. Our captures in pris-

When General Hancock's corps retired towards Parker's store, 300 of the 18th Pennsylvania Cavalry, under Major Brin ton, sent to relieve the pickets, seven miles below, on the Spottsylvania road, were attacked by a large body of rebel troops, and driven back to Todd's tavern, in confusion, and quite a large number were taken prisoners by the rebels.

A great and perhaps decisive battle will be fought to morrow (Friday). All are enthusiastic over the success of to day, and speak confidently of the movement.

GENERAL BANKS' COMMAND. At the latest dates General Banks was at Alexandria, and no intimation has been given that he designed to leave that position. Positive orders from General Grant required General Banks to afford protection to the gunboats in the Red river.

Official Dispatch from the Secretary of War.

By Telegraph to General John Dix N. Y. WASHINGTON, May 8, 9 a. m .- We have no official reports from the front, but the Medical Director has notified the Surgeon General that our wounded were beng sent to Washington, and will number from 6000 to 8000. The chief Quarter-Master of the Army of the Potomac has made requisition for seven days' grain, and for railroad construction trains, and states that the enemy is reported to be re-affords an inference of material success on our part. The enemy's strength has always been most felt in his first blows, and their having failed, and our forces not only having maintained their ground but pre paring to advance, lead to the hope of full and complete success; for when either part fails, disorganization by straggling and desertion commences, and the enemy's loss in killed and wounded must weaken him more than we are weakened.

A dispatch from General Sherman, dated at five p m. yesterday, states that General Thomas had occupied Tunnel Hill, where he expected a battle, and that the enemy had taken position at Buzzard's Roost Pass, north of Dalton. Skirmishing had taken place, but no real fighting yet.

There is nothing later from Gen. Banks. You may give such publicity to the information transmitted to you as you deem proper. It is designed to give official accurate statements of what is known to the Department in this great crisis, and to withhold nothing from the public.

(Signed) EDWIN M. STANTON. Secretary of War.

A despatch from Cairo states that the enemy captured on the 25th ultimo Gen. Steel's wagon train while returning to Pine Bluff.

The Red river advices states that Commodore Porter was endeavoring to get the gunboat Eastport off a sand-bar some sixty miles above Alexandria. A later despatch says that he was unsuccessful, and the Eastport, were attacked while returning to Alexandria by the enemy, who lined the banks of the river on both sides, and fired ed without trampling upon them. upon them from a twelve pound battery, and it was found necessary to destroy the transports, which were burned. Several of the crews of the iron-clads were killed

Friday's Doings. Gen. Grant has won the first move in the tremendous game, and though there is hard work and severe fighting yet to be done, he starts with a decided success as the initial movement. The forcing of Lee to retreat on Richmond is a mortal as well as a strategetical victory. It gives General Grant the advantage of pursuing the campaign on the plan of his own choosing, and to the gallant Army of the Potomac it gives the triumph of having forced Gen. Lee and the Rebel army to retreat from a position naturally strong and which they had strengthened with fortifications. The accounts of Friday's battle are not yet full enough to speak accurately of its principal points. It was however, undoubtedly a victory for us, in that it demonstrated General Grant's ability to hold a position that menaced Lee's communication with

The centre was at Ringgold, the left wing Richwood and forced upon him the necesat Catoosa Springs, the right wing at Kidd's sity of a retreat. Our own accounts speak tanyard. It was expected that a battle of the battle as a series of attempts, all would be fought on Saturday at Tunnel of which were repulsed, to break our lines and force us back. General Lee's report of the operations, published in the Rich-The War Department has received no mond papers, and telegraphed to the War Department by General Butler, on the contrary, speaks of advance being repulsed. ed. from information derived from other The rebel retreat is a substantial fact that carries its own evidence of the result of ter of General Banks and the fall of Red | the fight. In high officers the Rebels suffered severely. General Lee "grieves to announce" that General Longstreet was severely wounded, General Jenkins killed and Generals Pegram and Stafford wounded. On our side we have Generals Wadsworth and Hays killed, and General Webb wounded.

The official despatches from Generals Grant and Meade show that Lee commenced his retreat on Friday night, and that on Saturday our army started in pursuit, General Hancock passing through Spottsylvania Court House at daylight. At noon on Sunday the general headquarters were twenty miles south of Friday's battle-field. The rebel army was on the direct road to Richmond. We had occupied Fredericksburg, to which the wounded had been sent, and from which the army would draw supplies. Of the proportionate losses in the battles of Thursday and Friday we have no accurate figures. The rebels left their dead and many of their wounded on the field. We have taken two thousand prisoners and also lost some, the balance probably being in our favor.

The movement under General Butler, on the south side of the James river, is also progressing favorably. Our forces have not moved towards Petersburg, and of course do not occupy that place, as reported. It is still asserted however, that This indicates Gen. Grant's advance, and the rebels have evacuated the city after setting fire to the extensive mills and fac tories there. General Butler's forces had, after some severe fighting, succeeded in destroying a portion of the railroad between Richmond and Petersburg, and burning two bridges. Other important operations were also in progress in that direction.

WASHINGTON May 9, 1864 Dispatches have just reached here from Gen. Grant—they are not fully deciphered—he is "on to Richmond!" We have taken 20,00 prisoners. EDWIN M. STANTON.

Fighting at Spottsylvania. The Star says: A messenger got in ast night from the army, who left Spottsylvania Court House yesterday at thelve clock, and came back to Aquia Creek, and thence came up on a gun boat. At noon yesterday a heavy fight was going on at Spottsylvania Court House. We held the place at that time.

Lee gave evidence of being weakened, and of falling back.

The messenger had an escort of one hundred and fifty cavalry, and guerrillas were frequently encountered on the way, and it is not improbable that many of the escort were captured when returning to the army.

Our wounded are reported at fifteen accordingly blew up the gunboat. Gen. Butler's Movements &c. WASHINGTON, May 10-8.30 p. m.

Extras just issued contain the following: Secretary Stanton produced another sensation in the Senate and House to day, based upon, and supported by a telegram from Gen. Butler, that the latter had established himself finally upon the Sacred Soil south of Richmond, on the line of the Petersburg and Richmond railroad, destroying the bridges on the same; had divided Beauregard's army; whipped A P. Hill, commanding a division of Beaure gard's forces, and his cavalry forces had formed a junction with him-they having swept the Chickahominy country and cleared out all the rebels therein.

Gen. Butler's black troops have successfully crossed the Black Water and separated Beauregard's army.

Gen. Butler declares that he will whin that portion of Beauregard's army which is now south of his position.

Information has been received of the death of Major General Sedgwick, who was shot in a skirmish near Spottsylvania. A ball entered his eye and passed through his head, killing him instantly.

U. S. 10-40 BONDS

THESE Bonds are issued under the Act of Congress of March 8th, 1864, which provides that all Bonds ssued under this Act shall be EXEMPTEROM TAX-ATION by or under any state or municipal authority. Subscriptions to these Bonds are received in United States notes or notes of National Banks. They are TO BE REDEEMED IN COIN, at the pleasure of the Government, at any period not less than ten nor more than forty years from their date, and until their redemption FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST WILL dred dollars annually and on all other Bonds semiannually The interest is payable on the first days of March and September in each year.

Subscribers will receive either Registered or Cou-Having obtained the right to manufacture a pon Bonds, as they may prefer. Registered Bonds are recorded on the books of the U.S. Treasurer, and can be transferred only on the owner's order. Couing their Bonds draw interest from March 1st, by paying the accrued interest in coin-(or in United States notes, or the notes of National Banks, adding fifty per cent. for premium,) or receive them drawing interest from the date of subscription and deposite As these Bonds are Exempt from Municipal or State Taxation, their value is increased from one to three per centper annum, according to the rate of tax levies in va rious parts of the country. At the present rate of premium on gold they pay

Over Eight Per Cent. Interest n currency, and are of equal convenience as a per manent or temporary investment.

It is believed that no securities offer so great induce ments to lenders as the various descriptions of U.S. Bonds. In all other forms of indebtedness, the faith or ability of private parties or stock companies of separate communities only is pledged for payment while for the debts of the United States the whole property of the country is holden to secure the paynent of both principal and interest in coin.

These Bonds may be subscribed for in sums from $50 up to any magnitude, on the same terms, and are thus made equally available to the smallest lender and the largest capitalist. They can be converted into money at any moment, and the holder will have the benefit of the interest.

It may be useful to state in this connection that the total Funded Debt of the United States on which interest is payable in gold, on the 3d day of March, 1864, was $768,965,000. The interest on this debt for the coming fiscal year will be $45,937,126, while the customs revenue in gold for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, 1864, has been so far at the rate of over $100,000,000, per annum.

It will be seen that even the present gold revenues of the Government are largely in excess of the wants of the Treasury for the payment of gold interest, while the recent increase of the tariff will doubtless raise the annual receipts from customs on the same amount of importations, to $150,000,000 per annum.

Instructions to the National Banks acting as loan agents were not issued from the United States Treasury until March 26, but in the first three weeks of April the subscriptions averaged more than TEN MILLIONS A WEEK.
