THE DRAFT .- We learn that the draft is to come off in Pennsylvania shortly, and that many districts which from all the information that could be obtained were thought to be secure, now find themselves subject to a heavy drawback. These deficiencies some suppose are occasioned through the draft of last year, but if so it is singular that they were not made known before so that the number required could have been furnished. BODY EXHUMED .- Considerable talk having been created after the arrest of a soldier named Gates (from Milroy) and another named Latchford last week of violence having been used towards McCann, whose death by drowning we noticed at the time, the coroner's inquest re-examined the body on Friday last, but found no evidence whatever except a slight mark on his forehead to confirm any of the stories got up by the over-curious in such matters. The testimory went to show that Mc-Cann left Wertz's tavern at the lock with a lamp which was set on the gate of the lock, and that the party of soldiers were not near him at the time. It is said he was going back to the army with much reluctance, which leads some to suppose that he committed suicide, but we incline to the opinion that he fell in accidently.
