----A Military Organization.

The last Legislature passed a military bill, but with the usual want of foresight made its operation prospective instead of present. Had proper officers been designated to make an effectual enrollment at once of all the able-bodied men in the State, or even adopted the enrollment made by U.S. officers, which might easily have been corrected, and the men organized into companies, there would have been no trouble in procuring the necessary number wanted for an emergency like the present. Had these companies been numbered in each county by lot or otherwise, with the understanding that No. 1 should go first, then No. 2, and so on until the quota was filled, every member of the first, second, and perhaps third companies would know that in case of a raid or invasion he would be wanting, and thus be prepared to go or furnish a substitute. For such men the State ought to provide at least $10 or $15 per month additional pay to that of the United States. Captains and Lieutenants might be elected, but not commissioned until examined by a military board. As for battalion or regimental officers. none would be wanting until such troops got into camp. We want laws to meet actual service, not for mushroom drills or parades; and as such a law would do away with all bickerings as to who should go, and bring rich and poor together, we hope some one will yet take hold of the matter at the special session and see whether there is sense enough left to pass it or one equally effective. ....

Northern Copperheadism.

Coupled with the fact that it was published just at the time when the rebels are making their last desperate effort to invade the North, we leave own deductions as to the motives of those who print and those who circulate such a sheet.

As time passed on, however, this jumbled mass of nonsense, reflecting but little credit on city publishers, began to assume shape, and came round precisely to what the President had stated to Gov. The first certain indication of a considerable rebel force was made apparent at Martinsburg, Va., from which bama. place Gen. Sigel retreated to Harper's Ferry, saving all his supplies. JOHN A. WINSLOW, Captain. United States Steamer Kearsarge, which has been indicated by the repub Cherbourg, France, June 20, 1864 .- licans of two of the counties of the dis-Sir : I enclose herewith the Surgeon's triet, and that is to nominate Mr. Barker,

The Selinsgrove Times lately acknowledged the receipt of six more subscribers from this county, through Dr. Cummings. In a late issue of that paper, its readers are treated to the following tirade of disunion, low abuse of the President, and tory advice:

"How any man who has a just appreci ation of the principles of the Declaration of Independence and a sublime inspiration of human rights, can for a moment consent to aid, either by his voice or by his hand, in the subjugation of eight millions of people who, by every right and sacred principle that ever had an abode in the human breast, are entitled to their independence, we are at a loss to comprehend or realize, and we are unwilling to believe that human nature can ever sink to such an abject state of total depravity. Twenty millions of people under the absolute control of a notorious buffoon is testimony, however, that cannot be ignored, and no amount of penance can ever erase the indelible disgrace. When twenty millions of people consent to be controlled by a buf foon, we cannot well underestimate them, and there is nothing in the descending scale of dishonor and injustice they are incapable of doing. There are those, however, who stand upon a higher plane; whose love of truth and sense of justice cannot he swerved by any selfish considerations, and who stand by the right as firm as the rock of Gibraltar. These men will never consent to bear arms in the cause of despotism, but rather will expatriate themselves, or, if fight they must, fight on the side of right and liberty. Let every one, then, act according to his sense of right, and if his sense of right forbids him to take up arms in a cause that is steeped in injustice, and as black as the expired embers of Tartarus, let him refuse to do so whatever fate may await him."

If this is not TREASON then there is no longer meaning in words. There are but two sides to fight for, the legitimate government of our country or the rebel, yet this sheet, which is upheld as democratic and represented as one of the "best papers ever published." openly advises a refusal to bear arms in defence of the Union cause, or if fight they must, to fight for the rebels-for as the whole tenor of the article is aimed at denunciation of the powers that be at Washington, no one number of bridges, &c. They then proceeded to Magnolia station on the Philadelphia and Baltimore Railroad, captured two passenger trains from Baltimore, robbing the passengers and burning the baggage, &c.

The 19th Army Corps, numbering some 16,000 men, arrived at Baltimore last week, and are now either there or at Washington. These with other troops and the citizens are probably strong enough to hold those cities against the rebels, out leave the whole country subject to their marauding parties. The wires between Baltimore and Washington having been cut, there is no telegraphic communication, so that we are without any late information from that quarter. Reports state that Gen. Sullivan is in communication with Sigel, and Hunter cannot be far off. Were the militia of this and other States to respond as patriots ought, this invasion might yet result in the destruction of the rebel force now north, and the defeat of Lee, but we fear the cold indifference of too many, fostered by the snakes in our midst, will compel Gen. Grant to weaken his army.

It is now reliably ascertained that the rebels have strongly fortified themselves in the South Mountain passes.

It is also stated in semi-official sources, on information derived direct from Maryland, that 38,000 rebel troops passed through Frederick. The force of artillery was composed of more than one hundred guns.

The persons who report the number at Frederick, say that rebel officers informed them that Hill's corps was approaching in large force, and that a junction was expected to be made at or near Leesburg. In connection with this report we have a rumor that the rebels were falling back into Virginia ers. below Harper's Ferry. The impression created by these reports is varithe movement of crossing is a feint on effect a junction with the approaching forces under Hill.

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Sore Eyes.
From Harrey Sickler, Esg., the able editor of the Tunkhannock Democrat, Pennsylvania.
"Our only child, about three years of age, was attacked by pimples on his forehead. They rapidly spread until they formed a loathsome and viruleus sore, which covered his face, and actually blinded his eyes for some days. A skillul physician applied nitrate of silver and other remedies, without any apparent effect. For fifteen days we guarded his hands, lest with them he should tear open the fes-tering and corrupt wound which covered his whole face. Having tried every thing else we had any hope from, we began giving your SARSAPARILLA. face. Having tried every thing else we had any hope from, we began giving your SARSAPARILLA, and applying the iodide of potash lotion, as you direct. The sore began to heal when we had given the first bottle, and was well when we had finished the second. The child's cyclashes, which had come out, grew again, and he is now as healthy and tair as any other. The whole neighborhood predicted that the child mast die."

 Mr. Chas. S. Van Lizar, of New Brunswick, N.
