#67 All kinds of Country Produce taken in exchange for Goods. BY JAMES G. CLARK. There's a land far away mid the stars, we are told, Where they know not the sorrows of time; Where the pure waters wander thro' valleys of gold, And life is a treasure sublime; And life is a treasure sublime; is the land of our God, 'tis the home of the soul Where ages of splendor eternally roll, Where the way weary traveler reaches his goal On the evergreen mountains of life. Our gaze cannot soar to that beautiful land, But our visions have told of its bliss. And our souls by the gale from its gardens are fann'd When we faint in the desert of this. And, we sometimes have longed for its holy repose. When our spirits were torn with temptations and woes, And we've drank from the tide of the river that flows From the evergreen mountains of life. change for Goods. Thankful for past favors, he hopes by strict atten-tion to business to merit and receive a continuance of the patronage of a generous public, may10 Attention! Attention ! A Word to the Wise.

O! the stars never tread the blue heavens at night, But we think where the ransomed have trod, And the day never smiles from his palace of light But we feel the bright smile of our God. We are traveling homeward thro' changes and gloom, To a kingdom where pleasures unchaningly bloom, And our guide is the glory that shines thro' the tomb, From the evergreen mountains of hfe.

MISCELLANY.

Sights in China

After inspecting shops and elbowing and being elbowed in the crowd till af-ternoon, when I was ready to drop with heat and fatigue, my pilot steer-ed me to a small square, flagged with stone, on which the sun shone fiercely. He called it 'beggar's square,' and told me that all the destitute abandoned sick in the city crawled, if they could, to this spot, because those who died there received burial at the expense of government. While he spoke, my eyes were fixed upon some heaps of dirty, tattered clothes upon the ground, which presently began to move, and I discovered to my horror three miserable creatures, lean, covered with odious filth, lying in different stages of their last agony, on the bare stones, exposed to the burning rays of the sun. They came here to die, and no one heeded them, or gave them a drop of water, or a morsel of food, or even a little shelter from the noontide glare. I had seen shocking things of this kind in India, but nothing so horrible. To insure a climax of disgust, my guide led me straight to a dogbutcher's shop, where several of the nasty, fat, oily carcasses of those animals were hanging for sale. They had not been flayed, but dangled there with their smooth, shining skins, which had been scalded and scraped clean of hair, so that at first I took them for sucking pigs.

There were joints of dog ready roasted, on the counter, and in the back of the shop were several cages in which live dogs were quietly sitting lolling their tongues out, and appearing very unconcerned. I saw several cats also in' cages, looking very demure; and moreover I saw several customers decorous and substantial-looking householders, inspect and feel the dogs and cats, and buy those which they deemed fittest for the table. The cats did not like being handled, and mewed loudly. 'What Cappen think o' that !' said my guide. 'Cappen, s'pose, never eat dog? Dog very good, very fat, very soft. Oh, number one dinner is dog !' 'And are cats as good ?' I ask-'Oh, Chinamen chowchow everyed. thing. Chowchow plenty cat. Chinaman nasty beast, I think, Cappen, eh ? My cicerone had so long mixed up with European and American ship captains and missionaries that he had learned to suit his ideas to his company, if his ideas had not actually undergone great modification, as is the case in India with those educated natives of the present day known to you as specimens of Young Bengal.'-All The Year Round. An amusing little episode re cently occurred in a railroad car in England. Shortly after the train had left the depot, an old lady jumped up and addressed a gentleman seated behind her, with, 'How dare you? What are you at?' The astonished gentleman replied that he had done nothing. The lady again seated herself, but in a few minutes, arose full of rage and terror, and declared her neighbor was a 'villain,' and on arriving at the next station was about to have him arrested, when luckily, the cause of her agitation was discovered-in the shape of a goose, which, placed in a basket under the seat occupied by the lady, had during the voyage, amused itself by pecking at her 'understandings." The discovery of the criminal created great laughter among the passengers. NOBLE SENTIMENTS .- Condemn no man, says John Wesley, for not thinking as you think. Let every man enjoy the full and free liberty of thinking for himself. Let every man use his own judgement, since every man must give an account of himself to God. Abhor every approach, in every kind of degree, to the spirit of persecution. If you cannot reason or persuade a man into the truth, never attempt to force him into it. If love will not compel him to come, leave him to God, the Judge of all.
