The Veto - Its Assumptions - Singular Speech of the President.

We said last week that to the mere fact of vetoing the Freedmen's Bureau Bill there was no objection, but to the arguments appended thereto reflecting upon Congress for not admitting the rebel States into full communion with the government, in fact denying the right of Congress to act as judges, few will assent.

The passage by the House of the joint resolution declaring that the principle adopted without objection a year ago in reference to Louisiana should be applied to the other rebel States, was a consequence of the President's declaration in his veto message, and well would it have been had he suffered this difference of opinion, for such it was, to rest here. But copperheadism, aided by a few political weather-cocks like Montgomery Blair, Reverdy Johnson, &c. hoped they at last had found an entering wedge to create a feud between the Administration and Congress.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD.—The annual meeting of the Stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad was held on Monday a week. The report of the directors shows that the net earnings, during the year 1865, were $4,189,110.95. A resolution approving of the establishment by the company of a line of steamships between Philadelphia and Liverpool in connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad, was adopted.

Proceedings of Congress. In the House, on Tuesday of last week, Mr. Stevens, from the Committee on Reconstruction, reported a current resolution that, in order to close agitation on a question which seems likely to disturb the action of the Government, as well as to quiet the uncertainty which exists in the minds of the people of the eleven States which have been declared to be in insurrection, no Senators or Representatives shall be admitted into Congress from either of said States until Congress shall have declared such States entitled to such representation.

So far as Messrs. Stevens and Sumner are concerned, they will probably pass by the charge unheeded, for although singular and radical in their views, no two men in Congress more faithfully stood by the Union than they did throughout the rebellion—a fact the people have not forgotten if Andrew Johnson has.

The Legislature reassembled at Harrisburg yesterday. The headstons which marked the graves of Union soldiers at Savage Station and Petersburg, Va. have nearly all been destroyed by reconstructed rebels.

A food-preserving company has been organized at Baltimore, under a patent process by which it is claimed to preserve meats and fruits in preserved fresh and good for an indefinite period in any climate.

The Democrats at New Haven, Conn. fired thirty-six guns in honor of the veto of the Freedmen's bill. The Democrats at Washington have received an invoice of foreign seeds, which will be distributed to farmers on application.

The Republic American telegraph is being rapidly extended. The wires have been run to a point four hundred miles north of New Westminster, in Fraser river, and it is expected that full communication with Europe and Russia will be had in another year.

A Pennsylvania patent copperhead says the appearance of Fred Douglas in the gallery of the Senate Chamber at Washington was asserting his equality with white men. There is a sound copperhead in this town who talks in a similar strain, but has no scruple in taking a drink of whisky with a darkey black as ebony.

That trouble apprehended from the course adopted by the President in emboldening the hostile weathercocks still more to trainize over the unfortunate negro population, may be inferred from the fact that Gen. O. Howard, the Christian hero and leader in view of such difficulties.

Should Gen. Grant resign, what would be thought if the President would nominate Lee or Beauregard as Commander of our Armies? Is there a loyal man who would say such an appointment would be a disgrace to our flag, and a dishonour to our country?

The bill now in operation will probably be continued.
