We hope therefore that at all such assemblages hereafter some one will see to the collection of the probable amount.

Notices of New Advertisements.

Grelogis "American Conflict" is generally pronounced the best and most interesting history of the ferea Rebellion which has yet been written. Its statement are candided, liberal and impartial. Its success is in praifieled, 125,000 copies having already been sold. No library will hereafter be complete that does not contain a copy, and no family should be without it See advertisement in another column.

The President's Policy.

The best test of the soundness of President Johnson's new policy for conciliating rebels is to take the opinions of those Union men who were nearest to rebel sentiment, and then the opinions of rebels themselves.

The Baltimore American, a paper which became particularly inimical to the Maryland rebel cutthroats on account of its extended influence and strong Union proclivities, thus speaks of Johnson's speech :

The sentiments expressed on the occasion brought exultation to their (rebel aympathizers) hearts equal to that occasioned by the tidings of the first rebel victory at Bull Run, and will be hailed by their confederates at the South with as much jubilation as they would have felt during the war, if Lee had routed Grant, or Sherman had been driven into the ocean with all the gallant and loyal hosts that followed him from Atlanta Though those who now rejoice did not succeed in electing McClellan, they have secured a more unexpected victory, but one that will very likely yield bitter fruits as it will cement and concentrate the Union sentiment of the country, and give to the South, in the end, harder terms than they might otherwise have obtained from the present or succeeding Congress.

While the loval men of the country w lament over the defection of a President whom they trusted, and whose utterances had heretofore given hope that he would prove equal to the trust reposed in him, the tone, and temper, and language em ployed by him on this occasion will cause a deep shock of humiliation and sorrow. We have no heart to further allude to the subject at this time. We are in the midst of a political revolution that will at once eause the concentration of opinion and the formation of parties, and keep the country in a turmoil of excitement during the next three years.

In corroboration of the American's view, we copy the following from an article in the Norfolk, Va., Post, a reconstructed rebel sheet, all of which is of the same tenor:

Since the morning of July 22, 1861, when the news of the great Southern victory, achieved by Beauregard over Me-Dowell; and the awful rout of the Federal army on the plains of Manassas, was borne through the South, on the wings of the wind, as it were, carrying joy and jubilation into every loyal Southern household. and gladdening every true Southern heart, there has been no news received with so much rejoicing by the people of the South as that contained in the despatch informing them the President had vetoed the Freed men's Bureau bill. This is the greatest victory they have achieved during the war greater than any of the feats of arms of Stonewall Jackson or of Robert E. Lee; and it has given them more pleasure than had General Lee been elected Governor of Virginia. They have found an ally in the President worth more to them than the alliance of France or England, and they now begin to see, even as they saw foreshadowed at Manassas, the FINAL TRI-UMPH OF THE GREAT SOUTHERN CAUSE.

The democracy showed their love for President Johnson at Harrisburg on the 4th by nominating Hiester Clymer of Berks county for Governor. No man in the State abused Andrew Johnson more than Clymer did when the copperheads refused to let Andy apeak in the Senate Chamber. He is slso of that stripe which could justify or palliate anything among rebels, but could see nothing constitutional in Lincoln, his generals, or his soldiers who were fighting battles ior the Proceedings of Congress.

In the Senate on Friday evening, the following joint resolution, which had previously been adopted by the House, came up on its final passage:

"Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring, That in order to close agitation upon a question which seems likely to disturb the action of the Government, as well as to quiet the uncer tainty which exists in the minds of the people of the eleven States which have been declared in insurrection, no Senator or Representative shall be admitted into either branch of Congress from any of said States till Congress shall have declared such States entitled to representation."

This resolution against which so much ire is expressed by the copper heads, and with which the President found fault as an assumption by Congress, was ably vindicated by Mr. Fes senden before its passage by showing that the very Senators who now denounce it, last winter voted for a precisely similar proposition "declaring the States in rebellion disqualified from representation in Congress, until authorized to do so by proclamation issued Congress?" This already forgotten record fell like a bombshell among the truculent tools of power, and covered them with shame.

President Johnson, although already called on three times to furnish documents relating to the organization of State governments south, has thus far paid no attention to the matter. These documents are deemed essential to a proper understanding whether those States have, as the constitution directs. "republican constitutions."

In the House, on Monday, Mr. Bingham presented a report from the Joint Committee of Reconstruction, closing with a resolution to admit the members from Tennessee. The report gives much testimony in relation to that State, generally concurring that East Tennessee is loyal, but that the other portions are rebellious, and the military officers all concur in the opinion that it would be unsafe to withdraw and contains articles as follows: Cornelins Vande the troops.

Kent, Santee & Co's, and some other stores on Third street, Philadelphia, were destroyed by fire on Monday a week. Four firemen were killed and others injured by walls falling. Loss, $700,000.

Gen. Scott was somewhat injured, but not seriously, by a fall from his berth on the trip from Key West to New Orleans. He recovered slowly and attended church on the 25th ult., though still feeble.

Mr. Rogers, of New Jersey, the leader of patent democracy at Washington, declared on Monday in the House that to prohibit the payment of the Rebel Debt "is the very emblem and quintesserce of despotism and tyran-

The Germantown Telegraph advocates the sale of the old main line to the Schuylkill Navigation or some other great monopoly. We don't care who buys it, but we should like to see the ditch deeper and wider, so as to pass boats of larger tonnage.

The large steam tannery, together with a large quantity of bark, belong ing to Samuel A. Peal, of New Bloomfield, Perry county, were destroyed by fire, on Saturday morning, at 3 o'clock. The fire was occasioned by a defective engine. There was an insurance of $5,000 on the property.

Col. McClure is mistaken in attributing free passes to editors generally .-Mr. Lewis, then superintendent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, some years ago refused to pay a bill of ours for advertising, and expressly declared that the pass was given in consideration of publishing arrivals and departures of trains, &c. The Juniata valley editors at least, so far as our knowledge extends, are not altogether deadheads.

BOOK NOTICES,

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for March is filled with choice reading. Among the articles are, Passaon Hawthorne's Note Books, a Ramble through the Market, The Freedman's Story, which gives an account of the Christiana Riot in 1851, Nantucket, the Snow Walkers. Also a highly interesting sketch from the pen of Mrs. Agassiz, who accompanied Professor A. on his scientific expedition to Brazil, entitled "An Amazonian Pienie," which gives an account of the scenery of the Amazon, the luxuriant vegetation, the orilliant-plumaged birds, the almost countless species of fish before unknown to science, but now assuming rapidly their proper places and names under the skil-ful touch of the Prof. It also describes the inhabi tants and their mode of living. The freshness of the ubject, the great interest attaching to the expedit and the clear, picturesque style of the writer, give to nis article unusual attractions. Also, of Charle Reade's story, "Griffith Gaunt," which possesses a vigor and vivacity that rank it among the very best serials of the day. The story of Dr. Johns, and Mrs. Stowe's suggestive Chimney Corner Discourses, are ontinued. Mrs. Child gives in "Poor Chloe" a sad picture of the inevitable woes of slavery, as it used to in Massachusetts. Terms $4 per annum. Ticknor & Fields, 124 Tremont street, Be

O, say not that our Georgie's dead, He-lives beyond the sky. Where all is joy and sunshine, And his soul can never die.

'Tis true his body is consigned,
To the cold and silent tomb,
And that from us he's taken
In his boyish pride and bloom.

True that his voice will no more ring, And fill the house with joy, And that in life we'll ne'er again Behold our darling boy.

Our little Georgie knew not sin, His heart knew aught of wrong. The little prattings of his tongue To God they did belong.

Then say not that he's dead:
Ah, no, although from us he's flown,
He singly now with the angels,
Round the Almighty's throne.

And asking him to give us grace,
And lead us safe to where
He now does dwell, our angel boy,
And hopes to meet us there.
