

RECIPES.

Protecting Trees from Rabbits.—The Prairie Farmer says that newly set fruit trees may be protected from rabbits in winter by cutting up cornstalks into lengths of seven or eight inches, and tying them around the trunk with twine, bass matting or willow bands. The method is stated to be better than smearing them with fresh meat or liver.

Cure for Frosted Flesh.—We are informed on good authority that nothing is better for withdrawing the frost without any injury to frozen ears, cheeks and fingers, than the immediate application of kerosene—rubbing it on gently a few times. In one instance, both cheeks were frozen, and this remedy produced immediate relief without the usual inflammation. The same person repeated the application at another time with equal success. In another case the remedy was applied to a badly frozen ear, which, as in other instances, it cured without inflammation. It is indispensable that the application is made before thawing. This remedy is the more valuable because it is always at hand in every house.

Glycerine.—In an interesting article in the Country Gentleman of February 8, 1866, descriptive of the nature and uses of Glycerine, there is omitted an application of it, which I venture to commend to the use of those of your lady readers who, during the winter, are afflicted with chapped hands and lips. I have used it for this purpose for several years, and found it very healing in its nature and more cleanly than most of the applications recommended for the purpose, as a very small quantity is required, and it keeps the surface soft for a long time, while it also serves to exclude the air. In the nursery I have found it invaluable.

NOTE.—It may be well to say that glycerine does not explode or even burn. The recent prominence which nitroglycerine has acquired might lead some of your readers to confound it with that substance and thus carefully avoid it. It can be procured at any drug store and is not expensive.

Remedy for Rheumatism.—I saw some weeks since a request in your paper for a cure for rheumatism. Not having seen an answer, I take the liberty of sending you the following prescriptions, which I know from experience to be effectual remedies:

1st. Take pure alcohol and rub the part affected briskly with it for some minutes. Then wrap flannel around it, and outside the flannel wrap a piece of oil silk. This must be only taken off at night and morning, in order to have the alcohol applied. Very few applications will cure the disease. Both the flannel and oiled silk must be worn very loose, in order not to stop the circulation of the blood. Cotton batting is a good substitute for the oiled silk and flannel, and more convenient to wear. A still better remedy, if the patient is strong enough to bear it, is a large Spanish fly blister, six inches by nine, to be applied as follows: If the rheumatism is above the waist, put the blister on the arm, above the elbow; if below the waist, put it on the leg, as near the ankle as possible. This is to prevent the disease going to the heart. After wearing the blister twelve hours, take it off; let it discharge; then put on a hot ground flax seed poultice; this poultice must be renewed night and morning for three days, after which a dressing of simple cerate or hog's lard on linen, with oiled silk or flannel outside, will heal the part rapidly.—R. E. M. Glen Ellen, Rockland Co., N. Y.

Six Rowed Barley.—A few years ago, Mr. Taylor, Seaton West Mains, procured from a friend in the Cape of Good Hope a small parcel of six-rowed barley. This he has since carefully cultivated, and the results have been very gratifying, inasmuch as the cereal has not only preserved its distinctive character, but had produced abundant. A sample of this year's crop was shown in Edinburgh market on Wednesday, and the grain was highly thought of by judges. The field from which the sample was taken was thinly sown with the barley about the beginning of December last—not with the object of gaining a crop off it, but that the bird might afford a succulent nibble to sheep in spring. Finding that the bird came away freely after it had been eaten off, Mr. Taylor resolved that instead of breaking up the land for turnips, he would allow the barley to stand. When the sheep were taken off, he top-dressed it with nitre. Considering the thinness of the seed, the crop is a fair one, and the quality of the grain excellent.—Scottish Farmer.

The new mode of preparing for negro suffrage in the Carolinas, which was exposed by Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, viz: whipping every freedman and then enforcing a law disfranchising all persons who have been subjected to that punishment, is one of the latest stratagems adopted by the rebels to shut off the ballot forever from the colored men of the South, and to give the world a new illustration of the chivalric disposition of the ruling classes of the unreconstructed States.

'Thou rainest in this bosom,' as the chap said when a basin of water was thrown over him by the lady he was serenading.

ETWAS FUR Die Leute.

COMMON SENSE is the most uncommon thing in the world. In proportion to the amount men have, do they succeed in their undertakings. No acquired knowledge can supply the want of it. In the matter of business, it suggests to us, being merchants, the following considerations, which shall control our actions in all dealings with the public:

First. We shall endeavor to keep and sell only PRIME GOODS, that we can guarantee. If we warrant our calicoes, they must not fade. We will not sell for ALL WOOL, what is part cotton.—Sinks that cut, for DURABLE WEAR.—Muslins, thick starched, for well bodied. Our Groceries must be pure, and fresh, and clean.

Secondly. We shall sell always at fair prices,—as cheap as fair living will allow.

Thirdly. Our stock shall always be full,—new, of the best quality, adapted to the wants of the public, and suited to every variety of taste.

Fourthly. Our Clerks and Assistants must be polite, kind, honest, and industrious men, who will delight to show our goods, and treat customers DECENTLY, whether they buy or not.

Lastly. We shall closely attend to business, ourselves, see that our customers get exactly what they want, and keep them in a good humor generally. Our bow!

GOOD NEWS TO HOUSEKEEPERS!!

WINDOWS CLEANED

Without Soap or Water, Time or Labor, by using WOODSUM'S Instantaneous Window Polish.

IT DOES away with soap suds or hot water, thus avoiding the slops upon the floor or adjoining paint, and the disagreeable sensation of the water running down the arms under the sleeves, and setting them to the shoulders. It leaves no dirt upon the glass, and gives it a more transparent and clearer appearance than can be got with ten times the amount of labor and time in washing. For polishing Mirrors, or any kind of Silver, Brass or Tin-ware, it has no equal. The polish is warranted to contain no acids, nor anything of a poisonous or injurious character, but is perfectly harmless in every respect. For sale by J. A. W. McKEE, Old Fellows' Hall Building, opposite the Clear Hotel, Lewistown, Pa. nov14-1f
