The Middle Creek Railroad.

The excitement attending the recent election of officers of this company having passed away, it now becomes the duty of all to further its construction.

We do not purpose to inquire whether the old board was right or wrong—whether, as some alleged, individual interests were held paramount to public benefit—or whether Tom, Dick or Harry thus far made anything out of it.

The more important questions are, Can the road be made, and, if made, will it pay? To the first we unhesitatingly answer that it can provide our citizens generally and those along the line will combine in mutual efforts to effect it.

Its course is such that no rival interest is at stake, nor is it in pursuit of a phantom or of a trade to be acquired. On the contrary, it will open a wide extent of country to the conveniences of coal as fuel, both for household and field purposes, and all experience has thus far proved that where such facilities were brought into existence, its consumption has gradually increased until in many cases the supply has scarcely equalled the demand.

If to this be added the wants of furnaces already in existence, or in process of erection, a considerable amount of trade is ready at any moment the road is capable of transporting it.

Trade begets travel, and if those who come over the road to sell coal will find articles they stand in need of, the like it is they will purchase grain and a hundred other matters and take them home by the same mode of conveyance.

One half of the country to be traversed by this road has no market at hand by which advantage can be taken of enhanced prices, except by wagon transportation over bad roads whenever the weather is unfavorable, and vast quantities of bark, timber, lumber, shingles, firewood, &c., will be brought within reach of stations, which otherwise might remain useless and almost valueless for many years.

Lands too would greatly increase in value, not only on the line but for miles on each side, and at a moderate estimate every bushel of grain, whether wheat, rye, oats, corn, or buckwheat, would be worth from five to ten cents a bushel more than now in consequence of the creation of near markets, or easily transported where it could be disposed of to better advantage than at present.

No better illustration of the changes effected in small matters by the construction of railroads can be given than in the case of the Pennsylvania, which has gradually drawn new articles into the vortex of commerce until even raspberries, blackberries and whortleberries, (years ago a mere drag in out of the way places) gathered along its line of hundreds of miles can be disposed of at good prices at every leading station in any quantity offered.

There is then apparently inducement enough to make it, because its eastern and western terminus and more than half, perhaps two-thirds, of the intermediate country, is so much interested that he must be blind indeed who cannot see an ultimate benefit in its construction.

Will it pay? We will not undertake to say that the road will pay 4, 5, or 10 per cent. dividend from the start, because so much depends upon the amount that may be subscribed, on unforeseen obstacles that sometimes arise, upon divided counsels, &c., that it is mere guesswork to venture such an assertion; but there is nothing unreasonable in saying that if the road can be put under contract and constructed at the engineer's estimate, and stockholders furnish the means to pay for its construction so as not to encumber it with the incubus of a heavy debt, there is every probability that it will pay something from the day business is commenced, and once an established fact there can be little doubt of its ultimate success, unless gross and culpable mismanagement should characterize its controlling power.

Several cop papers are finding fault with Gen. Grant because he saves his money and invests it in property. They don't like it, and think he is growing too rich.

Speech of General Cameron.

After the election of United States Senator after the members of the Legislature and other friends of Gen. Cameron met in the Leohiel dining room, and after the General had received the congratulations of his many friends he addressed them as follows:

GENTLEMEN:—Your greeting is very kind and cordial, and I thank you for it. I thank God that in spite of the slanders my enemies have repeated, for twenty years, my fellow citizens, who have seen my life from day to day, have always stood by my side and helped me to repel them. This last struggle of my political life has ended in victory. I desired this as an answer, to vindicate my honesty to my children and my friends. I now propose to put these slanders behind me, and to forget alike, the liars who coined them, and the fact that good men, in some cases by the repetition of them were induced to believe and repeat them.

Of the eighty-two Republican members of the Legislature, my friends assure me that sixty of them preferred me to any other candidate, and would have voted for me, rather than have witnessed my defeat. The character of my supporters is as gratifying to me as their numbers. Any one, who knows anything of our politics, who will read the list of those who voted for me will find names as pure and honorable as that of the purest Christian man of our age. Of course I thought it possible to listen to any corrupt proposal. Just here I leave the whole matter, putting all falsehoods, and animosities, and prejudices, together under my feet; and I go forward to the honorable duties to which my native State has called for the third time.

Six years ago I thought that slavery was the strength of the rebellion, and ought to be destroyed without delay. I wished also to arm the black man who would volunteer. Of course I thought that clothing a black man in the American uniform clothed him also with the rights of an American citizen; and I am always sorry to see a black soldier, and reflect that even Pennsylvania denies him the ballot—the only weapon whereby he can protect himself. I hope to live to see the word "white" stricken from our own Constitution, and the spirit of caste, based upon color, utterly destroyed.

The South, however, is more controlled by social influence than by political principles. If you are wise and firm you may possibly educate the rising generation into loyalty, but there is no method of statesmanship which will make this generation of the South loyal to the Union and to the flag. The poison of thirty years cannot be eradicated by the subterfuge of the President, or by the statutes of Congress. Let us look the truth in the face. The Southern territory is disloyal. The loyal men of to-day must guard their children against another treasonable rebellion. The Constitutional Amendments and impartial suffrage will help to do this, but universal amnesty will help to undo it.

Of Andrew Johnson I said long ago that he was a traitor to his party, and an enemy of his country, and a bad man. He has done many bad things, but nothing worse than offering the offices of the country to those few unprincipled men who agreed to desert and betray the great Republican organization for his patronage. He joined the Democratic party long ago. He has a right to give them the offices, but he has no right to dispose of them at auction to weak-kneed Republicans.

The unprincipled labor of Europe is again competing with our labor, and our manufactures languish for want of protection against it. Pennsylvania needs no assurance of my devotion to her interest in this regard, which is the interest of the whole country. I will continue to labor in season and out of season to protect our manufacturers from ruin, and their workmen from being thrown out of employment, or their wages reduced to starvation point. For I hold that the true welfare of any nation depends on the welfare of its laboring classes.

Gentlemen, I trust that this is my last political struggle. I have nothing more to desire, and I hope we will all forget the bitterness—the unjustifiable bitterness—I think, of the late contest. For my part I will try to act as a representative of all the Radical Republicans of Pennsylvania, without regard to past differences or dissensions. With my temperament I cannot forget my friends who have stood by me so nobly, but I will try to forget—and forgive—the unjust calumnies, and the political opposition I have experienced.

The vote in the Legislature stood, 81 for Cameron to 49 for Cowan. The vote stood in the Senate, Cameron 19, Cowan 12; in the House, Cameron 62, Cowan 37.

Inmates of Poor Houses.

Judge Stowe, of the Allegheny Quarter Sessions, lately had before him three petitions from the Directors of the County Home, setting forth that certain parties therein named had become charges upon the county, and that certain other parties, children and grand-children of the indigent persons, were amply able to maintain them comfortably for the future, and to refund to the county such sums of money as had already been expended for their support. In every case the Court fixed the amount of compensation which was to be assessed upon the children and grand-children.

The principle of law settled in these cases, says the Pittsburg Commercial, is a very important one, and is this: That the father, or mother, if able, is bound to support his or her children or grand-children; and prevent them becoming a charge upon the public—and the like duty legally devolves upon the children or grand-children of aged, infirm or indigent parents or grand-parents. If the parties neglect so to do, the Poor Directors can apply to the Judges of the Quarter Sessions, and if the ability of the parties is established, compel repayment of whatever public money has been expended, and a sufficient sum per week for the future maintenance of the party.

Peter Marie, about 70 years of age, an old and much respected citizen of Lavaca, Texas, died recently at that place. The Commercial says: "While sleeping in the daytime, he was flyblown about the nose, which resulted in the introduction of the screw-worm. They penetrated the head so as to cause his death. This is the first human death we have ever seen recorded from this cause; but it is not at all incredible."

Progress of Treason.

Since the decisions of the Supreme Court by a majority of one that our government must conduct war according to peace laws, and thus leave rebels and conspirators carry out their views until all power to check them will be lost, and that a rebel cannot be subject to a test oath, loyal men are beginning to pause and wonder what new idea will next be advocated and adjudicated by men who seemingly consider treason too great a crime to be punished at all, or else no crime whatever.—Under these teachings the rebel element is daily becoming bolder, and no one need be much surprised to see another rebellion spring up before or shortly after the next Presidential election. As a prelude to such a state of affairs, the rebel papers are moulding public sentiment south precisely as they did before 1861. That our readers may see we are not exaggerating, we quote the following from the Richmond Times of the 11th January, which, speaking of the next Governor of Virginia, says:

"We want no man for that office of doubtful or lukewarm devotion, or that cause over the loss of which even our men are still weeping. We want no successor to Pierpont who was not with us heart and soul during our struggle for liberty. We shall not canonize Hypocrisy as the tutelar divinity of the ballot-box at the spring elections, by electing men who were in sympathy with the Federals when our Confederate soldiers were chasing them from Bull Run and the Wilderness."

"The great popular heart of Virginia throbs at this moment in profound sympathy for the 'heroes of the war.' This sentiment intensifies, grows stronger, and glows with increasing warmth with each attempt of an ungenerous foe to ostracize and punish the Confederate warriors who, for four years, performed such miracles of valor upon our soil. Even if these popular idols were not, in education, executive and legislative experience, the peers of the most distinguished civilians in the State, yet their years of exposure to death, the daily privations, faithful vigils along the lines, fortitude, endurance, and splendid valor, give them a place in the affections of our people which no civilian can venture successfully to dispute."

The men who utter these rebellious sentiments and sneers at our gallant soldiers are welcome visitors at the White House, and how a President can counsel with them, or brook their insolence, almost surpasses belief.

Prize Fight in York County.

One of the brutal prize fights which usually occur near the larger cities, took place on York county soil Tuesday of last week. We append the following notice of the affair, furnished by the Harrisburg Telegraph of that day:

"A prize fight took place to-day, at or near Goldsboro', York county. The combatants were Sam Collyer, of Baltimore, and McLeod, of New York. Collyer, accompanied by several personal friends, arrived at Goldsboro', on Sunday night.—Last night the train from Baltimore brought several hundred rowdies to the same place. No less than seven robberies were committed on the train, and the lives of the men in charge of the train were endangered. McLeod came from New York yesterday, and was accompanied by a large number of the off-scourings of that city. No less than thirteen robberies are reported to have been committed in the cars between New York and Harrisburg. The fight took place in an open field one-half mile above Goldsboro'. Forty-seven rounds were fought in fifty-eight minutes. Collyer knocked down McLeod three times and was declared the victor."

Destructive Fire in Johnstown.

An Entire Block Consumed.—At two o'clock on Sunday morning last occurred one of the most destructive fires that ever visited Johnstown. Some gentlemen passing up Main street at that hour discovered that the hat store of George Turner, three doors from the north-east corner of Main and Franklin street, was on fire, and at once sounded the alarm. The flames spread, till they enveloped the grocery store and dwelling of Frederick Border, the drug store of C. T. Frazer, the book store of Alex. Montgomery, and the law office of J. F. Barnes, Esq., overhead the saddle and harness establishment of H. M. Lewis, the ladies' dress goods store of Miss Mary J. Parke, the clothing store of Isaac E. Chandler, and the adjoining residence of James Williams, all on Main st., and the grocery store and residence of David Creed on Franklin street.

Captain Thomas Gore owned all of the buildings destroyed except the one last named. His loss is not less than $6,000, upon which he has an insurance of $1,400. The other building was owned by Miss Kitty Hamilton and James Williams—loss $3,300—fully insured. Mr. Williams lost $250 in furniture, on which he had no insurance. His other losses are about as follows: C. T. Frazer $2,000—insured; F. Border, $1,000—no insurance; Geo. Turner, $3,200—insured for $3,000; A. Montgomery, $400—insured; J. F. Barnes, Esq., $1,000—no insurance; H. M. Lewis, $2,500—insured; Miss Parke, from $1,000 to $1,500—no insurance; I. E. Chandler, from $500 to $700—insured; D. Creed, $1,800—insured; Henry Walters, goods damaged and lost, value not ascertained—insured; J. Benton, heavy glass front in the store room of J. A. McKinney, on the opposite side of Main st., broken by the heat, $115—no insurance. The Lycoming Fire Insurance Co. loses more heavily by the fire than any other company. Its loss will be over $6,000. The other companies which suffer are the N. American, Blair, York, Cumberland, Cambria and Merchant's Mutual of New Jersey. The cause of the fire is a mystery, and we will indulge in no speculations concerning it.—Johnstown Tribune.

Two families of Carter co., Tenn., named Roberts and Johnstone, have been waging a bloody war between each other for twenty years, during which time fourteen men belonging to these two families have lost their lives. On the evening of the 5th inst., the vendetta came to a bloody end in the streets of Elizabethtown, Tenn., by the sole surviving males of the Roberts and Johnstones. They engaged in a personal altercation which resulted fatally to both. The domestic war originated about a very trifling affair.

Twenty-two negroes were burnt in a jail in South Carolina. The only white convict in it was rescued.

Gone to Rome.—One secular paper of Hagerstown, Md., recently announced that the Rev. Andrew Stewart and wife had been received into the Roman Catholic Church at that place. It is added, that they formerly resided at Burkettville, Md. From this latter fact we infer that the Reverend gentleman referred to must be the Rev. Moses A. Stewart, of the Reformed Church. Rumor had it that such a transition had taken place in his case, and to those who have been familiar with his idiosyncracies for years past, the event will not occasion surprise. All we have to say is, we wish him no harm, but hope he has at last found his proper spiritual home and will be happy in it.—German Reformed Mess.

AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC is now ready for delivery gratis, by Chas. Ritz, to all who call for it. Among the problems of high science which the Doctor presents in it, is the startling assertion that the friction of the tides upon the surface, retards the earth's revolution upon its axis, or holds it back with a force of 6000 million horse powers. Hence it is easy to see that without some counterforce, the globe must rotate slower and slower, until its revolutions wholly cease. Then with perpetual night on one side, and a degree of cold far below any now known, we should have on the other a "fervent heat" from the sun, which would melt the rocks and make the mountains run like water. But we need feel no alarm. He shows a counterpoise which nearly balances this resistance, and will maintain, substantially, the present mundane condition, through ages upon ages yet to come.

One of the most fiendish acts we have read for some time was the cutting out of the tongue of a valuable horse belonging to Dr. Thornton, of Lewisburg. A man who would be guilty of such a deed, ought to be killed by inches.

NOTICE.

The beautiful Piano Fortes of GROVESTEIN & Co. are deemed by all good judges to be the 'Ultima Thule' of instruments of the kind. We cannot suggest what is wanting to make a musical instrument more perfect, although we are slow to admit that the limit of improvement can ever be attained.

Before they had brought their Pianos to their present excellence, they had submitted them to competition with instruments of the best makers of this country and Europe, and received the reward of merit, over all others, at the celebrated World's Fair. It is but justice to say that the judgment thus pronounced has not been overruled by the musical world.

Still, by the improvements lately applied by them to their Pianos, it is admitted that a more perfect instrument has been made. They have accordingly achieved the paradox of making excellence more excellent. Surely, after this, they are entitled to the motto "Excelsior." nov14-ly

ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

LAME BACK. New York, Nov. 23, 1866.

T. Alcock & Co.—Gentlemen: I lately suffered severely from a weakness in my back. Having heard of your Plasters much recommended for cases of this kind, I procured one and the result was all I could desire. A single plaster cured me in a week. Yours respectfully,

J. G. BRIGGS, Proprietor of the Branch House, CURIE OF CIRK IN THE BACK, AND LUMBAGO.

Messrs. ALCOCK & Co.: Please send me a dollar's worth of your plasters. They have cured me of a crick in my back, which has troubled me for some time, and now my father is going to try them for difficulty about his heart.

L. H. SHERWOOD.

Dr. Green, No. 83 Broadway, New York, informs me he sold, on Monday, June 23, 1862, two plasters to a young man suffering very severely from lumbago. On Thursday she called to get two more for a friend, and then stated how the two she had purchased on Monday had relieved her immediately after putting them on, and cured her in two days of a most distressing pain in her back and joints. TO OWNERS OF HORSES

THOUSANDS of horses die yearly from Colic. This evil is not, Dr. Tobias' Venetian Horse Linctum will positively cure every case, if given when first taken. The cure is safe and certain. Every owner of a horse should have a bottle in his stable, ready for use. It is warranted superior to anything else for the cure of Colic, Wind Galls, Swellings, Sore Throat, Sprains, Bruises, Old Sores, &c.—This Linctum is no new remedy. It has been used and approved of for 12 years by the first horsemen in the country. Given to an over-dressed horse, it acts like magic. Great numbers of horses, from every part of the world, are constantly received from the racing and sporting grounds in England for it. The celebrated Hiram Woodruff, of trotting fame, has used it for years, and says it is far superior to any other he has tried. He kindly permits me to refer to him. His address is East New York, Long Island. Recollect, Dr. Tobias' Venetian Horse Linctum is put up in pint bottles. Beware of cheap imitations. Sold by the Druggists and Saddlers. Depot, 50 Cortlandt Street, New York. Jan 21-1m.

So wide is the field of its usefulness and so numerous are its cures, that in all great cities, and in every country, there is a public notice of its efficacy. It is a remedy that is carefully prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass., and is restored by it from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs. When the public are known, the public no longer hesitate what would employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs incident to colds. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted that can never be forgotten, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.
