THE UNION LEAGUE, A .- Will meet at wish to buy or not of the Juniata Engine House, Valley street, on Saturday Evening, 9th March, at 7 o'clock. By order,

M. HINEY, Secretary.

The Republicans of Lewistown are invited to attend a meeting of that party at the Town Hall, on Tuesday Evening, 12th March, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Borough

Rouse's Star Combination Troupe lighted audiences. There was at first a disposition to hold back on the part of ladies and others, but as all are now satisling players, but well-behaved persons Bellefonte Press.

"Mr. Rouse who, with his Combination Company, has for some time past been ministering to the pleasure of our citizens, left on the early train on Monday last, for Hollidaysburg, where he proposes to remain for a time. He met with such flattering success while here, that he has concluded to revisit us during the April Court, when under his supervision will take place the dedicatory services of Bush's new hail, now almost completed. He was well patronized here; and in return gave general satisfaction. The community was very favorably impressed with the entire troupe, its members being sober and gentlemanly without an exception; and for this reason we hope that in Hollidaysburg they may meet with the success they deserve. The audiences which greeted them at this place, were invariably large and respectable, and yet, as might be expected, there were—indeed a very few—who protested against it, and bemoaned what they esteemed the demoralized condition of society. Their objections were not urged only against this particular roupe, but against theatre-going at any time or place. In most cases the parties objecting were those who knew practically next to nothing about theatres and it follows that their opinions should not be taken to "Mr. Rouse who, with his Combination Company troupe, but against theatre-going at any time or place. In most cases the parties objecting were those who is follows that their opinions should not be taken to the exclusion of those whose observation has led them to another conclusion. Still every man has a right to entertain an opinion for himself, and that opinion, when hone ty indulged in, is entitled to respect. It is said that we are to judge of the tree by its fruits; and if this is so, what estimate shall we place on the doings of this troupe? The tendencies of their plays were in the right direction, since their object was the inculcation of sound morals, by showing that punishment was sure to follow a vicious course of life while on the other hand was portrayed the reward of integrity, and the happiness attendant upon an upright life. "Truth" we are told, "is stranger than fiction," and lest some may think that the benefits resulting to the community by the presence of this troupe, were purely imaginary, we would beg leave to call their attention to the fact, that during the time the company was in town, there was less riotous conduct, and fewer exhibitions of drunkenness to be seen, than in any other two weeks of the past year.—The play occupied the attention until after Il o'clock, when it was too late to commence drunking, and consequently when the audience dispersed the people went soberly home, as became good citizens, while in the case of many otherwise disposed to drink, the next day was spent in earning the price of admission to the next play. The presence of the company was runnous to the owners of billhard tables and saloons. Indeed we were informed by one saloon keeper in town, that their stay cost him about fifty dollars; as ordinarily he took in from five to ten dollars each evening while after their arrival he made nothing, and in order to save gas and facel, closed his saloon evening while after their arrival he made nothing, and in order to save gas and fuel, closed his saloon and attended the play. In short the troupe proved itself a powerful ally of the Good Templar organization, and this being the ease, who would not wish it well?"

GENERAL Row .- A series of disturbances, comprising smashups, fights, assaults, &c., took place at Yeagertown on Saturday night and Sunhay morning a week, which will result in several suits, such as gambling, selling liquor to minors, riot, assault and battery, &c. Like all similar cases liquor was at the bottom of the whole affair, affording another strong argument for adopting some plan by which the traffic can be restricted within such limits as to preclude evasion of the winter stock at very low prices. Shoes law. In the western end of town we also from 60 to 2.40; boots from 1.00 to 3.75; a hear of serious complaints made against large stock of hosiery, notions, millinery, parties who were but recently before court | gents' hats and caps; now is the time to and escaped with lenient sentences, but who, if these reports are true, have not remember the place, opposite Express Ofabated one jot or tittle of their former practices or changed the character of their visitors. We think the court would do well, in all such cases in future, by changing its practice of giving a minimum sentence into the extent of the law, and perhaps a heavier raid on their pockets and a longer term in jail would bring those weeks ago. He was arrested in Berks who thus defy and contemn the law to county. their senses.

The Henderson H. H. & L. Company on Thursday last thanked Mrs. E. C. Hamilton, Mrs. E. Murphy and others, for their services in securing to the company the elegant Silver Speaking Trumpet at the late festival, and also the Mite Society.

The Apprentices' Literary Society, at their meeting on Saturday last, adopted resolutions thanking the ladies who gave personal assistance, all persons who contributed substantial aid, as well as those who patronized their recent festival. The teachers of Granville township will hold an Institute at School Room No. 6, (Strode's run,) on Friday evening, March 15th. Exercises-Lecture by Levi Garver, subject Education and Labor; Lecture by J. I. Brought, subject Elocution; Lecture by E. W. Rupert, subject Government. The county Superintendent is also expected to be present. The temperance petitions thus far forwarded to the Legislature, including a few signed by "minors, sons and daughters of citizens of Mifflin county?" number from citizens of Mifflin county," number from 1200 to 1500 names. The Good Templars in this county now have seven Lodges, and probably a thousand members, many of whom are regaining health, strength, and home peace and happiness. Scarcely a week elapses in which some letter, circular, or newspaper, addressed papers published in this county, namely, wayville, and is now occupying a cell in the Gazette and Democrat.

FISH.—The preservation of fish in our rivers and streams is drawing public atperformed Uncle Tom's Cabin in the tention, and as it is in the spring, when Town Hall on Monday evening, and last the majority of fish ascend streams for evening Ten Nights in a Barroom, to de- the purpose of spawning, that their destruction is accomplished, we would again suggest the formation of a county association to enforce the laws. From this time fied that this is no mere company of strol- forward we may look for frequent violations of the trout law, which cannot leand withal creditable performers on the gally be fished for in any stream until stage, crowded houses have followed their after the 1st April, and in the Kishacofirst exhibition. Papers in towns where quillas until the 15th April; and as possesthey lately appeared speak highly of their sion of such fish is evidence sufficient to performances, as will be seen from the convict, violators can readily be punished. following which we copy from the last It is also illegal to fish with a seine or set or use any kind of a net in any of the creeks of this county AT ANY TIME, an act which, if carried out for a few years, would stock every creek, and again render fish more plentiful in the river. Col. Worrall, the Fish Commissioner, in speaking of this subject, well says:

"Our law is, as far as I can see, suffi-ciently explicit in its provisions; but if you want fish, those provisions must be enforced, and their enforcement depends enforced, and their enforcement depends upon the people. Piratical fishing must be stopped. You can't "have your cake and eat it," as the saying is. If after the fish get up through our fishways, and deposit their spawn above dams, and when the poor little shad fry are making their way to the sea they shall be caught in fish baskets and sold by the bushel, how are we ever to get shad back into the river? Our law is sufficient to prevent this now, if the people living along the river will take the thing in hand and prevent this wholesale murder.

Every justice of the peace has the pamphlet laws, and the law on the subject, approved 30th of March, A. D. 1866, can be referred to at any time. If only piratical fishing be stopped we will eventually have our fish back—and that can be stopped if our people will be vigilant and do away with the inurderous fish baskets—which they can do under our present law. Now I will give the people due and timely notice that much depends on themselves, if the plans we have adopted prove such as to admit the fish above Columbia."

The remarks relative to piratical fishing will apply as well to trout, pike and other fish in our smaller streams as to shad, salmon, rock, perch, &c., in the Susquehanna and Juniata.
