full the honey runs out and they set themselves to work to replenish it again. Whether they deposit this honey in their great general reservoir among the rocks to draw from it as occasion may require or hold and use it as individual property we are not informed. Here is a curiosity that we believe has heretofore escaped the eyes and pens of our celebrated naturalists.

RECIPES.

Cocoanut Cake .- Grate one large nut, rub half a pound of butter, and half a pound of sugar; with one pound of sifted flour, and three well-beaten eggs. Add the cocoanut by degrees, so as to make a stiff dough Flavor with rose water. Bake in a quick oven from five to ten minutes.

Choc late Caramels - Take half a pound of chocolate, three cups of sugar, two cups of molasses, one cup of milk, and half a cup of butter. Boil out in buttered dishes, and cut in squares.

Hickory Nut Cake. - One pound of sugar, half a pound of butter, four eggs, half a pound of raisins, half a pound of currants, one cup of sweet milk, one teaspoonful of soda, one gill of brandy, and five cups of flour; one quart of kernels, which will take about half a peck of nuts.

Early Tomatoes.

Tomatoes brought into market by the Fourth of July, are worth ten times as much as those ready for delivery a month later This is a fact of which some of our market gardeners do not appear to be fully aware. But this, of course, does not alter the fact. The prominent question with the tomato grower, should be, will it pay me to bring tomatoes to market two weeks earlier than my neighbors? I think it will, and if any of your readers feel disposed to try the experiment, here is the method:

To have early tomatoes, do not set out the plants too early. This, doubtless, sounds strangely to some, but the principle is a good one. All observant tomato growers are aware of the fact that the first blossoms of the tomato, after transplanting, usually drop off, and with them, of course, perishes the hopes of early fruit. To obviate this, let the plants remain in the hot-bed (for my method presupposes a hot bed) until the fruit has set on them. Set out the plants on a wet day in May, and if necessarily near the end of the month, that fact need not alarm. To render the process still more certain, after the plants are, say, from eight to ten inches high, put them each in a flower pot, and let them have a vigor ous start before the final transplanting is done. When ready to transplant from the pots to the bed, the operation can be performed without injuring the fibrous roots, and if the plants have been gradually hardened by leaving the frames off in mild weather, they will not wilt or suffer any drawback from a complete and full exposure to the open air in the beds .- Hummonton Culturist.

Experience Proves there are only

TWO VALUABLE

Machine Stitches: THE GROVER & BAKER

ELASTIC STITCH

AND THE

SHUTTLE OR LOCK STITCH.

THE Grover & Baker Elastic-Stitch Sewing Machines are superior to all others for the following reasons:

1. They sew direct from the spools, and require no rewinding of thread.

2. They are more easily understood and used, and less liable to derangement than other machines.

3. They are capable of executing perfectly without change of adjustment, a much greater variety of work than other machines.

4. The stitch made by these machines is much more firm, elastic, and durable, especially upon articles which require to be washed and froned, than any other stitch.

5. This stitch, owing to the manner in which the other stitch.

5. This stitch, owing to the manner in which the under thread is inwrought, is much the most plump and beautiful in use, and retains this plumpness and beauty even upon articles frequently washed and ironed until they are worn out.

6. The structure of the seam is such that though it be cut or broken at intervals of only a few stitches it will neither open, run, or ravel, but remains firm and durable.

7. Unlike other machines, these fasten both ends of the seam by their own operation.

8. With these machines, white silk is used upon the right or face side of the seam, cotton may be used upon the other side without lessening the strength or durability of the seam. This can be done on no other machine, and is a great saving upon all articles statched or made up with silk.

9. These machines, in addition to their superior merits as instruments for sewing, by a change of ad justment, easily learned and practiced, execute the most beautiful and permanent embroidery and ornamental work. 7. Unlike other machines, these fasten both ends of
