Attempted Murder—A Man Found Near the Pennsylvania Railroad in an Insensible Condition.—On Tuesday afternoon, lith instant, the repair hands on the Pennsylvania Railroad discovered a man lying near the track, about eight miles east of Lewistown, in the "Narrows."—His head was shockingly beaten, and his ace presented evidence that he had also sen shot, there being a bullet mark across he forehead, and one of his cheeks was surned with powder. He was alive, but nable to give any account of himself. It believed an attempt had been made to nurder him, as near by were stones coved with blood—supposed to have been sed in striking him on the head. The following letter addressed to the Mifflintown Sentinel, gives some items of news respecting the murderers of a former citizen of Juniata county:

PATTERSON, June 3, 1867.
MR. EDITOR—Dear Sir:—Knowing that the friends of Mr. David Switzer, formerly a citizen of this county, who was murdered in Johnson county, Missouri, are anxious to know whether the murderers have been brought to justice, I now give them the facts in the case: On the night following the burial of Mr. Switzer, the Vigilance Committee, some Switzer, the Vigilance Committee, some two hundred strong, went to the house of Dick Sanders, one of the murderers, took him out, and after giving him a trial by twelve good citizens, hung him. During the trial it was demonstrated that the trial it was demonstrated that the which prevail all over the land.

The Clearfield Journal says Mr. Samuel Williams, of Burnside township, was drowned in Chest Creek, on Monday, May 2d. It seems that Mr. W. and a neighbor were fishing, and as evening approached the neighbor went to his house to order supper—leaving the deceased at the creek. When supper was ready the neighbor stepped to the door and called, but receiving no answer, went to the creek and to his surprise found Mr. W. lying in the water, close to the bank, dead. It is supposed that Mr. W. took a fit and fell into the stream and drowned—he being somewhat subject to spasms. He was about sixty years of age.

As an instance, we see it stated that, eight years ago, on that portion of the little liver Sibble, in England, which lies be tween the borough of Preston and the sea, only 96 salmon were taken. Last year the number caught in the same part of the river was 16,000. This is the result of stocking the river anew, of preventing the throwing of noxions substances into its waters, and of other wise attending to the habits of this finny species. The report of the English Commissioners tells the same story about several other British streams. In many of them the value of the fish taken in one season is estimated at ten stance, we see it stated that, eight neat measure, whereon is erected a two story FRAME HOUSE, a In many of them the value of the fish as to enable the purchaser to obtain a title taken in one season is estimated at ten for the whole tract.
