Average length of visits 1½ hours. On his official round the Superintendent, assisted by teachers and citizens, frequently held evening meetings, at which iamiliar lectures were given, and educational topics were discussed. These meetings generally were well attended, and, at times, quite a degree of interest was awakened. In my opinion in no other way can a Superintendent do so much to popularize the superintendency,—to convince the people that it is not merely an excrescence somehow formed on the outside of the school-system, but that it is a genuine out-growth which in the development and growth of the system, as naturally appeared as the branch from the trunk of the tree. It has its functions, and no other arm or branch of the system can perform them. The people ought to know this. The evils of irregular attendance, and paying all teachers without respect to qualifications the same salaries, were made the objective points of the Superintendent's last winter's campaign.—Against these all the powers at his command were thrown, and although the effect has not been commensurate with the Against these all the powers at his command were thrown, and although the effect has not been commensurate with the amount of powder wasted, it is gratifying that some impression has been made. In some schools the attendance has been greatly improved. Were it not for exciting a weak envy on the part of a goodly number of teachers, I would gladly mention the names of those teachers who labored so earnestly to secure this, and were it is place here, I should take delight in glving the names of those boys and girls who made such noble sacrifices to be at school every day of the term. In some schools the attendance was nearly 100 per cent. for some months. In May it was over 90. I furnished the teachers of the county blank reports on which to record in the spring.

of Common Schools.

KISHACOQUILLAS, Pa., July 10, '67.

Educational work done by other agencies.—We have some very active, intelligent and public-spirited school directors, and some who are not so much so, which to a considerable extent, neutralized the action of the others, and accounts for the slow progress model is built. Hon. J. P. Wickersham, Supt. Com. Schools, Harrisburg, Pa.—Sir:—In compliance with duty I submit the following report of the Schools of Mifflin county:

Educational Progress in the County.—
While we look in vain for such proofs of educational progress as we think we ought to have, we are gratified that some progress has been made.

Progress, in so far as it relates to building school houses, to school furniture and apparatus we have but little, if any, to report for the year. One good house has been built in Bratton, but hardly equal to the one destroyed by fire a year ago, in whose stead it was built. A new school-house which was built a few years ago ws also opened in Decatur, adding one more to the schools of the county. This is but an ordinary house, though perhaps well enough suited to the place.

While but little actual work has been great done, the subject of building has been greatly agitated in different parts of the county, and two houses now are in progress of ed. The gentlemen of that paper have respectfully informed the teachers that have little of the bouses is such as too be feared, however, that evil counsels have prevailed, and that perither of the bouses is such as too be feared, however, that evil counsels have prevailed, and that the tither of the bouses is such as too be feared, however, that evil counsels have prevailed, and that the tither of the bouses is such as too be though worth of a place in their color to a single built of clay an immortal soul reaching only with its tiny hands, like the young built of they ount that that they ount it is the secretary of the Lewistown Schools. Kishacoquillas Seminary, under the charge of the Superintendent, affords the charge of the Superintende erection, one in Milroy, the other in Belleville. It is to be feared, however, that evil counsels have prevailed, and that neither of the houses is such as to do honor to those flourishing villages.

Brown district is inflicting a grievous wrong upon her children by compelling them to attend sohool in such miserable old huts. At best four new houses are greatly needed in that district. Other districts also need new houses, but none so badly, or so many of them, as Brown.

Lewistown, to her discredit, and with injustice to a portion of her pupils and teachers, still continues the use of the "old armory," and from present indications may do so for the next quarter of a century. If the town had any educational pride it seems to me it would be wonderfully humbled at a sight of the old structure, and would lose no time in erecting in its place a building which would have duacational machinery. All other agencies are valuable only or chiefly, so far as they strengthen, build up, enlighten, inspire and elevate him.—In this important agency we can searcely claim to have made any improvement. We have gained on the part of a few others who, drawn by higher salaries, came to us from adjoining counties. We have lost in others who left their structure, and wwould lose no time in erecting in its place a building which worthy of a place in their columns. It is due to the editors of the master-wheel in the educational machinery. The true ture is choose to teachers less experienced and skillful, to engage in other fields of labor. So it will be, of course, until the ideas of enterprise of its people. exponent of the intelligence, wealth and enterprise of its people. Has Lew'stown no educational pride?

Progress made.—We claim to have made progress in three things:

(1) Recognition of the principle of justice in the employment of teachers.

(2) Better salaries to teachers worthy of them.

(3) Improvement in the uniformity of text books.

The directors of Armagh have the hop.

The directors of Armagh have the honor of initiating in our county the proper method of employing teachers, namely, paying them according to qualifications and skill in teaching. They paid from $25 to $40 per month, not as high as we could wish, though we thank them for the principle they have thus recognized, and carnestly recommend their action to all the school-boards of the county. Thus employing teachers enables directors to pay better salaries to good teachers, and the same time, to stimulate young and poorly qualified teachers to earnest and faithful effort in securing the qualifications necessary to higher salaries.

The directors of Union, also, deserve mention for recognizing the claims of their own hands. If they choose to remove the prejudice still existing in some them the elements of good teachers, and with more experience would no doubt succeed well.

Fifty-six male, and 39 female teachers were employed last year, a slight falling off of female teachers, as may be seen. In one district a resolution was passed by the board last fall to employ none but male teachers, the reasons for which I have never understood fully. In another disciplination to employ none but female teachers the result of female teachers as may be seen. The directors of Union, also, deserve mention for recognizing the claims of their old and efficient teachers to higher salaries. They paid to some as high as $45 per month. They graded the salaries, however, rather according to size of schools.

The citizens of McVeytown, too, have acted nobly in raising $100 in addition to the salary paid by the board to secure a first class teacher, paying him in all $70 per month. For this they do not claim any particular credit, further than what credit is due to any man who is shrewd enough to see his own interests and is willing to use the means necessary to promote them.

It were well if citizens of other discredif is due to any man who is shrewd willing to use the means necessary to promote them.

It were well if citizens of other districts, especially of our villages, where if there may be any differences, schools should be the best, were wise enough to follow their example, thus saving to themselves the expenses of several sessions of school from home, and, at the same time, aiding others who are not able thus to send away to give their children a thorough English education. We thank the McVeytown people for this wise action.

I stated in my last report that measures were taken to establish a uniform series of text books in the schools of the county. Lewistown, Derry, Granville, Freedom Forge, Oliver, Wayne, McVeytown, Armaph and Brown adopted, and put into their schools all the books recommended by the committee last fail. Decatur, Bratton and Union adopted them partly intending to put the balance in next fail. This has been attended with some labor and expense, but the benefits, I am satisfied, will be an ample compensation for all.

Educational Work Done by the Superintendent:—Examinations—A held nime public and three private examinations examined in all 118 applicants; granted 106 provisional certificates, 3 professional, and rejected 8 applicants. Examinations were both oral and written. Experience has taught me that either the oralor written methods alone has objections which a judicious combination of the two avoids. Average grade 1;

Examinations were attended by directors, sometimes by cliziens, and frequently considerable interest was manifested in them.

Fisilations.—The county was travelled twice. Six of the 95 schools were visited twee. Six of the 95 schools were visited twee of the proposement are foot to the term of county institutes. There will still be made to make an effort to have them as int shriveled-up, narrowly-contracted, selfish little minds, is due to the kind of food they received when young and growing. Lead the child into the contract of the child into the broad fields of nature and of science, and feed it with the truths fresh from the store house of Heaven, and you will see the inherent beauties of the mind and heart unfold themselves like sea-green is said to be the prevailing hair the rose of summer. A mind thus fed in youth forms a taste for the pure, the beautiful and the true, and as long as soul sit on the rocks and comb their green locks assiduously and body are one, will continue to grow and expand. This is no fancy sketch; it

To the class of persons who have risen to views something similar to this, we must look chiefly for aid in advancing the educational interests of the country. If by some means, ministers of the Gospel, who constitute a large portion of this which is class, were made to feel it a duty to use head in class, were made to feel it a duty to use their influence, to a larger extent, in favor of this cause,—if they were to speak from the pulpit occasionally on the subject of education, which they acknowledge to be a part of religion,—if they were to visit schools occasionally and give words of encouragement to teachers and pupils, it is believed a grand step forward would be made, not only in elevating the minds of the people in relation to this matter, but also, in promoting the religious interests also, in promoting the religious interests of the country. Even with this agency in full and vigorous action, we could scarcely expect an immediate change for the better. Men who have passed the meridian of life are but seldom unsettled in their way of thinking and acting. Our hope is with the young and rising gene-ration. It seems to me ministers of the Gospel would act wisely if, instead of wasting their energies so much on old sinners who, when they have them, are about as much trouble to keep as they are the education and religious instruction of person perhaps; in the other they do the same thing, and, besides, put in operation in the world a force for good which continues to move on, gathering strength and efficiency for years, even for ages after the minister is laid in the grave. The atten-tion of ministers is respectfully called to this matter.

this matter. Teachers who are themselves properly educated, from their relation to the chil-dren, can do more than another class of persons, towards inculcating in their minds correct views of education. From this we see the importance of liberally ed-ucated teachers. Children certainly are the hope of the world. Whatever ideas are instilled into their minds now, are the ideas that will govern the world in the next generation, and it becomes the duty of those who are the representatives of broad, liberal ideas, whatever be their sold broad, liberal ideas, whatever be their profession, their calling or position in life, to engraft those ideas upon the young and vigorous minds of the land, and when they come to control the educational interests of the country a new era will dawn be the country a new era will dawn be the country and the country can be the country and the country can be considered. We cannot aggest what is wanting to make a musteal instrument more perfect, although we are slow to admit that the limit of improvement can ever be attained.

Before they had brought their Pianos to their present excellence, they had submitted them to competition with instruments of the best makers of this country and Europe, and received the reward of merit, over all others, at the celebrated World's Fair. It is but justice to say that the judgment thus pronounced has not been overruled by the musical world.

Still, by the improvements lately applied by them to their Pianos, it is admitted that a more perfect instrument has been made. They have accordingly achieved the paradox of making excellence more excellent. Surely, after this, they are entitled to the
