Its value to the population of the South can only be measured by the estimate to be put upon their lives; for without it they must have perished by famine. And yet without military protection the freedmen would have fled from their old masters and sought security and employment in the free States. Congress did not send us there to compel the rebels to pay the expenses of the war, as Bismarck would have done. The North is paying the costs of the rebellion after winning the victory, and we have been helping our victory, and we have been helping our former adversaries to feed and clothe themselves, and to recover from the ruin in which they have involved themselves.

A Dead Lady Brought to Life. An interesting and astonishing event ranspired on the 22d ult., at the house of Ir. George Chandler, a farmer living near the Lowell road, between Nashua and Tyngsboro, Mass. A physician, Dr. stroinski, stopped on the afternoon of the day mentioned at Mr. C.'s house to feed his horse. On entering the house, Mrs. Chandler informed the doctor that her daughtef Susan died on Saturday, and that the body had been placed in a coffin for interment on Sunday. The doctor on looking into the coffin remarked that the girl was not dead, but only in a fit. He placed it in a warm bath. After a long struggle the girl was brought to life.—
