CHRISTMAS: One week from to-day will be Christmas. The little folia can now count on their little flugers and toes how many days the merry Christmas is off. Our storekeepers, too, have mede calculations, and the holiday goods are being displayed in abundance. Here and there sprigs of evergreen adorn the parlors of our citizens, and all things give promise of a merry, happy time in prospective for old and young. Thrice happy is it for the aged when they can with cheerful hearts look forward with pleasant anticipation to the occasion, and not to be reminded of it by some little piece of human roguery suggesting that he or she is going to hear up a stocking for Krist Krinkle, who is always hind to good little girls and hoys, at least cities a year. The growing old one have Christman their all the year round, frincy will only prevent their hearts from growing old by earthbuting to the pleasure and happiness of the young.

"PETROLEUM V. NASBY" IN LANCASTER: By invitation of the Lecture Committee of one of the churches of this city, Mr. D. R. Locke, better known as the Postmaster at "Confederit X Roads," Kentucky, will lecture in this city, in a few weeks, on the favorite theme of "Cussed be Canaan," and we have no doubt will be favored with a large audience. He lectured to crowded houses in the Western cities and towns last winter, and is now on a lecturing tour in the Middle and Eastern States, and is greeted with much enthusiasm. The Boston Transcript thus notices his lecture in that city:

Eastern States, and is greeted with much enthusiasm. The Boston Transcript thus notices his lecture in that city:

"Nasby's bluft humor, keen political perception and wit, fertile invention, with his indignant rebuke of prejudice and wrong, received an enthusiastic greeting at the Music Hall last evening. His lecture, throughout, sparkled with humorous passages and witty sayings. Nothing could have been more ingenious than the description of the relations of that "old navigator," Noah, to humanity and the race, and the consequences of Noah's inebriation, upon the political parties of this country. The theological opinions held at Confederate Cross Roads respecting the curse, and which at one time prevailed extensively at the North, were so ironically presented, that their absurdity was acknowledged in continuous peals of laughter. The production will add much to Nasby's fame in this section of the country. Paradoxical or not, Petroleumitself struck ile last night that flowed smoothly all over Music Hall."

DEATH OF A WELL-KNOWN HORSE: A gray mare belonging to Mr. Lewis Sprecher, of this city, died on Friday at the advanced age of thirty-six years. The mare, known as "Fan," had been in the possession of Mr. S. for a period of twenty years, she being in her sixteenth year when he became the owner. She was a remarkably sagacious animal, and in her early days a fast trotter, having made a mile in 2:40. Years ago when Mr. S. was in the cattle business, she would follow the drove and keep the cattle from straying as well as a man. For years past she had been very little used, occasionally being driven out in a light wagon. When not in harness she had the freedom of the stables and yards connected with the Leopard hotel, a halter never had the freedom of the stables and yards con-nected with the Leopard hotel, a halter never being required for her. Of late years she be-came somewhat exclusive in her notions, and would not associate with other horses, with but one exception. When moving around she took a wide circle to avoid the horses in the stables or yards. The exception men-tioned is a spirited young mare belonging to Jonathan Sprecher, for whom she formed a warm attachment, and the two would fre-quently eat in the same stall together. An-other whim was never to drink the hydrant other whim was never to drink the hydrant water provided in the stables, but when she wanted a drink she would go to the pump in the hotel yard, sometimes making consider-able detours to avoid any horses which may have been in the yard. "Fan" was quite a favorite in the family, and her death was greatly regretted greatly regretted.

Dentistry.

LANCASTER, June 25th, 1868.
EDITORS EXPERSS: Dr. Wm. M. Whiteside, the enterprising Dentist, has purchased from me a large stock of teeth and all the fixtures, the instruments formerly belonging to me, and also those used by my father, Dr. Parry, in his practice. In the purchase, the doctor has provided himself with some of the most valuable and expensive instruments used in dental practice, and has beyond doubt one of the bost and largest collections of teeth and instruments in the State. Persons visiting the commodious offices of Dr. Whiteside, cannot fail to be fully accommodated. The Doctor loses no opportunity of furnishing himself with every late scientific improvement in his line of business.
