UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

Speech of Hon. Morrow B. Lowry, in the Senate of Pennsylyania, on the Constitu-tional Amendment, Wednesday Evening, March 10, 1869.

Mr. Speaker, had I followed the inclinaions of my own feelings and been admonished by my want of strength, I would not reply to Senators; but, Mr. Speaker, I have a duty to perform and I will perform it to the best of my ability, with what little strength I have remaining. This scene to-night reminds me of one that occurred in this Senate Chamber in 1866. The matter then under discussion was the question of suffrage in the District of Columbia; and that humane measure was opposed then, as all advances in civilization have been for the last quarter of a century, by gentlemen from the other i suffrage and equal and exact justice to all side of the house.

The then Senator from Berks [Mr. Clymer] made an able speech in opposition to the measure. That speech was intended to carry him into the executive chair. I think it was the ablest effort of his life.

I desired that abler Senators should re-

But were we not charged with the straw box.'

Mr. DAVIS. Will the Senator allow me whether we had it or not? 'Democratic to interrupt him one moment? The Sen-ator was kind enough to send me some of influences were our taskmasters-it was they that burned our stubble, and through his speeches during the campaign, and I did not find that he said in any of them all of our late campaigns we have been charged with aiming at the enfranchisement of the negro race with an carnestthat negro suffrage was the issue.

Mr. LOWRY. Mr. Clymer, when a can-didate, came into my district with his re-of every man that could be induced to didate, came into my district with his re-cord under his arm and charged it upon me with all the eloquence and force he could command, right in the face of m_V tached to this measure in the minds of the people, it has been fastened to our constituents. And now, Mr. Speaker, I will vote for this amendment because it takes a crown of thorns from the temples of a redeemed race.

I will vote for it because the devotees of freedom demand it.

I will vote for it because the traitors throughout the whole land will vote against it.

I will vote for it because I believe it to be the grand design of the Almighty that this govrenment should redeem and regenerate the downtrodden of the earth.

I will vote for it, and against leaving it to the people at this crisis, because I fear that sickly Republicans may become weak¹ and be hissed from their duty at the polls by depraved, brazen-faced Democrats.

I will vote for it because it will promote peace on carth and good will among men. I will vote for it, because it is the liv-

I will vote for it because it is the conquest of the cross over inequality, infidelty, idolatry and barbarity.

I will vote for it, because it is the only way whereby the whole mass of mankind can be impregnated with the blessings of universal civilization.

I will vote for it, because the African cannot be recreated in the image of God without it.

I will vote for this amendment be-cause it will educate the ignorant, expand free principles, protect the rights of the humble, be salvation to the down-trodden, enrich all, impoverish none, elevate mankind, elevate the christian character, heal the ills of the oppressed, be balm to the woes of the unfortunate, stimulate man's conscience to do right, wash away our national sins in the river of life, raise altras to God on the foundation of prison pens, heal discord, baptize rebels with the spirit of freedom, and in the end cause them to join with their enslaved ones in ply to him. They saw proper not to do so, and that duty devolved upon me, and I replied to him as best I could. I will just here give a few extracts of what then passed. In reply to the Senator from Berks [Mr. Clymer] I said:

"The evidence is before us. We must have the loyal votes of all men on this continent, white or black, or with him we perish. Our country-her currency, religion, law, order, justice, humanity-will go down in blood if we refuse to enfranchise the black. Spare us, O God ! from "Bull Run" defeats at the polls! Without the cufranchisement of those who helped us in war, we cannot prosper in who helped us in war, we cannot prosper in peace. Oppression caunot live in a soil warm-ed only by the sun of freedom. The "irre-pressible conflict" is fairly upon us. "This Government caunot exist half'slave and half free," were the words of one who when he them gave utterance, little realized that he was the first public martyr, whose blood is the first seed of the freedmen's church.

Those who would bequeath freedom to our children, must not deny it to a race who has assisted us in maintaining our own. "The Senator from Berks [Mr. Clymer] and

"The Senator from Berks will go to the people upon dead issues; mistaken principles and vulgar prejudices of the past. Let us meet him with living, practical, vital truths. "The equality of man's right to defend himself, his family and his country, is the pivot upon which the approaching political contest turns. Give the Senator from Berks the issue he so ardently parts for. Men in every school house throughout the land will speak with the eloquence of Cicero, for the immortal truths enunciated by Thomas Jefferson. "Patrick Henry will be found standing at every four corners, appealing to the judgment, the justice, the conscience, the patriotism and the pockets of the people. "This question should not have been dodged Suppose, sir, that our stand-ard bearers had fallen—they would have made a more alorique; immortality in such a defeat a more glorious immortality in such a defeat than in such a victory as we obtained."

And I tell the Senator from Berks [Mr. Davis] just here that I never was more willing to go before the people upon any issue than I was upon that. But again I said:

"The Senator from Berks says that voting
