DEATH OF REV. W. V. GOTWALD: It is DEATH OF REV. W. V. GOTWALD: It is our sad duty this evening to record the death of Rev. Washington V. Gotwald, Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, which took place on Wednesday, about midnight. Mr. Gotwald's health had been perceptibly failing for some months past, and the Church Council recently granted him leave of absence for two months, with a view of recuperating his prostrated system. In the meantime, however, e grew weaker and weaker. Hisaccustomed became shorter and shorter, and the invalid was confined to his room, and for a lew days past, to his bed. He seemed to have had no specific organic disease. His nervous system was completely prostrated, carrying down with it the physical energies of life. Though so weak as to be scarcely able to articulate distinctly, he was conscious of his approaching end, and died the triumphant death of the Christian: his last thoughts and words relating to the Master's work to which he had given the vigor of his manhood and his more than ordinary talents. He died at the residence of Mr. D. S. Bare, being ministered to in his last hours by his mother, his brothers, Revs. Luther and William Got-wald, and a number of devoted friends of his parish.

The deceased was the son of the late Rev. Daniel Gotwald, and was born at Petersburg, (York Springs) Adams county, Pa., on the 10th of November, 1836. He gratuated in Pennsylvania College in 1860, studied The-ology in the Lutheran Theological Seminary, at Gettysburg, and was ordained to the Min-istry by the Pennsylvania Synod, at Reading, istry by the Pennsylvania Synod, at Reading, in 1862. His first charge was at Emmettaburg, Md., where he officiated about four years. In 1866 he was called to the Pastorate of St. John's Lutheran church, and was installed in that charge on the 8th of July of that year. He served his congregation here for nearly three years with much ability, zeal and faithfulness, and the church prospered greatly under his ministrations. Being fearless and outspoken in his convictions of duty, Mr. Godwald, like all positive men, had some enemies, but their opposition only increased enemies, but their opposition only increased the number and attachment of his friends. His loss to this community will be deeply felt, and to his congregation will be almost irreparable.—Express of the 10th inst.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE REV. MR. GOTWALD: On Saturday the funeral ceremonies of Rev. Mr. Gotwald, late pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, took place, and were of the Lutheran Church, took places, and were of the most solemn and impressive character. From eight o'clock in the morning until after the funeral services, the remains of Mr. Gotwald lay uncovered in the coffin, placed upon a bier in the main aisle at the foot of the altar, thus in the main asse at the foot of the altar, thus affording the congregation and the many friends of the deceased in the community, an opportunity of taking a last look of a minister so universally beloved and respected. The remains were clothed in a black dress suit, and were placed in a black coffin with silver mountages and lined with with satisfy. Then the remains were clothed in a black dress suit, and were placed in a black coffin with silver mountings, and lined with white satin. Upon the coffin lid was a plain silver plate, bearing the following inscription: "Revd. W. V. Gotwald, born Nov'r 10th, 1836. Died June 10th, 1869." The features of the deceased were deeply sunken and emaciated, bearing traces of deep suffering. Upon the breast and at the feet loving hands had placed elegant crosses of white flowers; upon the head and foot of the open coffin hung wreaths of snowy blossoms, while a beautiful lily was placed in the hands which not long ago in the pulpit above had often pointed the way of life, but now lay cold and pulseless in death. The pulpit, chandeliers and altar railings were draped in black, with the inscription, "He being dead yet speaketh," in black letters upon the front of the pulpit. During the day the church was thronged by the bereaved members of the congregation, who came to take a last look of a face whose light would shine no more in their midst.

The funeral services took place in the church, The funeral services took place in the church, which was filled to its utmost capacity, hundreds being unable to gain admission. At half past two the exercises were opened with a beautiful and appropriate authem—"Rest, Spirit, Rest,"—exquisitely rendered by the Choir of St. Paul's Reformed Church, which had been specially invited. Dentistry. LANCASTR, June 25th, 1668.

Editors Express: Dr. Wm. M. Whiteside, the enterprising Dentist, has purchased from me a large stock of teeth and all the fixtures, the instruments formerly belonging to me, and also those used by my father, Dr. Parry, in his practice. In the purchase, the doctor has provided himself with some of the most valuable and expensive instruments used in dental practice, and has beyond doubt one of the best and largest collections of teeth and instruments in the State. Persons visiting the commodious offices of Dr. Whiteside, cannot fail to be fully accommodated. The Doctor loses no opportunity of furnishing himself with every late scientific improvement in his line of business.
