FATHER ABRAHAM

"With malice towards none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in; to bind up the nations wounds; to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and a lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations." - A. L.

Poetry. [COMMUNICATED.] Editors Father Abraham.—I find the following in an old Boyer's French and English Dictionary, London, 1814, and thinking it may interest some of your readers, I copy it for you:

"This Book belongs to— If thou art borrowed by a friend, Right welcome shall he be To read, to study, not to lend, But return to me; Not that imparted knowledge doth Diminish learning's store, But books, I find, if often lent, Return to me no more. Read slowly, pause frequently, Think seriously, keep cleanly, Return duly, with the corner's Of the leaves not turned down." W. H. T. F.

Miscellaneous. HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY.

It was six o'clock in the afternoon, when the great wholesale warehouse of Messrs. Hubbard & Son was wont to close, unless the pressure of business compelled the partners to keep open until later.

There was an older sister who assisted her mother to sew, and this, with Edward's salary, constituted the entire income of the family. Yet, by means of untrusting industry, he had contrived thus far to live, using strict economy, of course.

But Mary Jones—Edward's sister—was sick. She had taken a severe cold, which had terminated in a fever. This not only cut off the income arising from her own labor, but also prevented her mother from accomplishing as much as she would otherwise have been able to do.

It was with the memory of this scene that Edward went to the store in the morning. All around were boxes of rich goods representing thousands of dollars in money.

The long day wore away at last, and Edward was about to close the warehouse. But as he passed the desk of his employer, his attention was drawn to a bit of paper lying on the floor beneath.

"It isn't mine," he sighed. It must be Mr. Hubbard's. This is his desk, and he must have dropped it. "Skill," urged the tempter, he will never know it. And after all, what are ten dollars to him? He is worth a hundred thousand."

He determined to go to Mr. Hubbard's before he went home. The sight of his sister would perhaps weaken his resolution, and this must never be. He must preserve his integrity at all hazards. He knew where Mr. Hubbard lived. It was a fine looking house, on a fashionable street. He had passed it several times, and wondered whether a man must not feel happy who is able to live in such style.

"I am in his employ," said Edward, quietly "and I have come from the store. I think he will see me if you mention this to him."

"Very well, you can come in." Edward was left standing in the hall, while Mr. Hubbard was sought by the servant. "Well?" he said inquiringly, "has anything happened?"

"No, sir," said Edward, "but I picked up this bill near your desk; and I suppose you must have dropped it. I thought I had better bring it here directly."

"You have done well," said Mr. Hubbard, "and I will remember it. Honesty is a very valuable quality in a boy just commencing a business career. Hereafter I shall have perfect confidence in your honesty."

Edward was gratified by this assurance, yet as the door closed behind him, and he walked out into the street the thought of his sister sick at home again turned upon him and he thought regretfully how much good could have been done with ten dollars.

"Tell me frankly, did you not feel an impulse to keep the bill which you found last night?" "I hope you won't be offended with me, Mr. Hubbard," said Edward, "if I say I did."

"Tell me all about it," said Mr. Hubbard with interest. "What was it that withheld you? I should never have known it?" "Then what withheld you from taking it?"

"First I will tell you what tempted me," said Edward. "My mother and sister are obliged to depend upon sewing for a living, and we live but poorly at best. But a fortnight since Mary became sick, and since then we have had a hard time. Mary's appetite is poor, and she does not relish food, but we are able to get her nothing better. When I picked up that bill I could not help thinking how much I could buy with it for her."

"And yet you did not take it?" "No, sir, it would have been wrong and I could not have looked you in the face after it." Edward spoke in tones of modest confidence.

Mr. Hubbard went to his desk and wrote a check. "How much do I pay you now?" he asked. "Fifty dollars a year," said Edward. "Henceforth your duties will be increased, and I will pay you two hundred. Will that please you?"

"Two hundred dollars a year!" exclaimed Edward, his eyes sparkling with delight. "Yes, at the end of the year that will be increased, if, as I have no doubt you will, you continue to merit my confidence."

Father Abraham's Chips. A RECENT invention that has been patented is a head rest, attached to paws, and called the snorer's companion.

THE "harbinger" season has come along again, and it is said that they bode a very severe coming winter. SOME malicious writer remarks that the reason why so many people join secret societies is that they may have an ostentatious funeral ceremony.

IT is said that a young lady, dancing at a fashionable ball, will travel about forty miles during the evening. Something of a "hop." A CORRESPONDENT of the Bridgeport Farmer "took tea" with a Mormon elder at Salt Lake City the other day, at which six wives "presided," and twenty-seven children sat around the table.

THE sparkle of the female eye is stronger from 18 to 21 than at any other period of life. This has never been scientifically accounted for, but it is nevertheless a positive fact. JOSE BILLINGS, who has been called "the greatest business man" who ever lived, knows enough about steeling so'th there kaint ennybody steel from him, and enuff about law so that he can do his own steeling legally.

AND now the Republican majority in Iowa has increased to 37,000. All hail to the loyal and enterprising West! Out there, the old fog Democracy are not only dead, but buried. By next October election every American citizen will be a voter, whether in Maine, Texas, Kansas or Pennsylvania.

THESE are great numbers of people out of employment in New York. A business house which advertised for a porter last week had two hundred and forty-eight applicants by eleven o'clock in the forenoon. AN eminent Professor takes strong ground against the premature development of the memorizing faculty, and affirms his belief that mental arithmetic kills off more children than any of the diseases of childhood.

THE older a ship is the more barnacles cling to its bottom. The ship Democracy is so old that the people, who formed its passengers and crew, have pronounced it unseaworthy, and abandoned it. It has been deserted by all but the barnacles. "MY AIM," says Secretary Boutwell, "is to improve the credit of the country, collect the revenue, place the loan at a lower rate of interest, and all without impeding the prosperity of the country."

AN attempt has been made to murder the County Treasurer of Erie county by giving him a poisoned apple. He ate of it, and was dangerously sick. The apple was given him by a man he did not know. Eating apples is sometimes a dangerous luxury, as was experienced a very long time ago.

THE internal revenue tax received from whisky between March 1st and September 1st, 1869, is increased 95 per cent. over the same months last year, and there is an increase of 66 per cent. in the receipts from the tax on tobacco during the same time over the corresponding months in 1868.

TEN insane occupants of the Licking county (Ohio) Infirmary, near Granville, were burnt to death on Friday morning last. The buildings took fire and were consumed, and the poor creatures being confined in a strongly barricaded room, could not be rescued.

A YOUNG lady, who desired to become a student in the Columbia Law College, has had her application rejected, on the ground that the presence of ladies in the lecture room would distract the attention of pupils and professors from their duties. The admission is not very flattering to the profession.
