

On Friday afternoon, John Marquet was tried for a fiendish attack on John Hassler, who Marquet alleged owed him four dollars.

The District Attorney stated that he had a Surety of the Peace case of Martha Parker against Edward Parker, both parties being colored, and as no one has appeared to prosecute the case, he asked that it be dismissed.

Washington Pyle, complained against for deserting his wife, Anna, was ordered to pay her two dollars a week towards her maintenance.

George Waltz was complained against at the August term of this Court for the desertion of his wife, Jennie Waltz did not then, nor has she since appeared to prosecute the case.

The Grand Jury in their report say that they had passed upon eighty-eight bills—forty-nine being returned "true bills," and forty-nine "ignored."

They speak in high terms of the management of the prison, almshouse and hospital, and warmly recommend that the salary of Mr. Steinheiser, the steward of the hospital, be increased.
