THE BAPTISTS IN LANCASTER: Rev. Isaac Bevau, late pastor of the Baptist church in this city, publishes the following in the last number of the National Baptist: "On March 20th, I closed a brief term of labor with the recently-organized church in Lancaster. I was with them a little over two months, and left them with the deepest regret. I was there long enough to become very warmly and sincerely attached to the members of that church and other Baptists in members of that church and other Baptists in the place, who, I trust, will soon unite with them, and to members of the congregation. The brethren and sisters there fully secured my esteem and confidence. I believe that through the blessing of Cod, and with the labors of a good pastor, they will prosper and be a useful church. They deserve the sympathy, confidence and prayers of the denomination throughout the State. I say all this unhesitatingly. They are disposed to work, to contribute liberally according to their means, and in every way to help themselves. I trust that through the efficient and fraternal co-operation of the committee appointed by the Board of the General Association, they the Board of the General Association, they will soon be favored with an able and faithful pastor. As a little band, they are well and lovingly united. They have a promising Sunday school, which has increased from five to about sixty. They have prayer-meetings on Monday and Wednesday evenings, which are well attended; they observe the monthly concert, and contribute to missions. The congregation gradually increased while I was with them, and a few appeared to be much interested in the Word. May God bless the dear little church in Lancaster, and may all dear little church in Lancaster, and may all Baptists in the State say, Amen. On the first Sabbath in April I expect to commence my pastoral duties with the Baptist church at Clark's Green, from which I have received a unanimous call."
