who roamed over the country without doing any work or pretending to do any, and subsisted by begging. He was abused several women after begging food age of 82. from them. The defense called Kelley, who testified that he was traveling around in search of work when arrested; he did not beg but said he got his meals through the generosity of the people.

The defendant was deaf, or at least claimed to be, and under the law such persons are excepted. The court instructed the jury to the effect that if they believed him to be deaf he should be acquitted. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty.

Com'th vs. William S. Brendel, violating liquor law, five cases. The defendant was returned by a constable at August court and true bills were found against him, charging him with selling liquor without license, to minors, and on Sunday. At the November court two more bills were found against him. They charged him with selling on Sunday and without license, as he continued in the business. The defendant lives at Red Run, in Brecknock township, in a house which formerly was licensed as a hotel, but which has not had a license of any kind for two years. A number or witnesses, including several minors, testified that they bought liquor at Brendel's house on Sundays and at other times. Some of the witnesses were unable to state what it was they drank : some said it tasted like whisky and others that it did not.

The grand jury returned the following bills :

True Bills-Augustus Glass and John T. Warden, fornication and bastardy; Gideon Williams, felonious assault and battery; Philip J. Fertig, carrying concealed deadly weapons.

A hard-working farmer had been afflicted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour eructations constantly—uo appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Root Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as now, preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed earnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try Reigart's Old Brandy, In his case, he looked up with astonishment, but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stomach canable of digosting anything which a stomach capable of digesting anything which he chose to eat. He still keeps it and uses a little occasionally; and since he has this medicine he has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the doctor.—A Practising Physician.
