mits Suicide, and Leaves Two Children to Starve and Freeze to Death. A terrible tragedy was developed in the village of Bainbridge, Conoy township, on Saturday, though it had been enacted several days previously.

Levi Lane and his family, for two or three months past, occupied an almost untenantable shanty in the village of Bainbridge. As none of the family were seen by brilliant, that has assembled at the opera the neighbors since Monday last, and the house was locked, some uneasiness was certainly a deserved tribute of welcome to felt, and on Saturday it was resolved by the tall, broad-shouldered, big-chested Fulton. Finding the front door locked, she went around to the back door, which was unlocked, and left the iron. On returning home she told her mother that all the family were Dedication of the New Reformed Church. "sleeping in daytime" except Laac, who had not committed suicide until Thurs-

No deadly weapon of any kind was found about the premises, but blood wife and drove her out into the yard, or that she ran into the yard to escape him, as there were evidences that she had been in the yard. It is supposed that he dragged her back into the house, dashed her against the bedstead until her neck was broken and her skull fractured, and then threw her upon the bed, and killed the five-year-old child to prevent its giving an alarm. There were no marks of violence on the body of this child except the broken neck, and it appeared to have been dislocated by being seized in a powerful grasp and twisted out of place.

Squire Erb has not yet returned his verdict to the county commissioners, though it is said to have been completed, and is to the effect that Mrs. Lane and the oldest daughter came to their death by violence at the hand of the husband, Levi Lane; that he came to his death by poison administered by his own hand; and that the infant came to its death from starvation and exposure.

The four dead bodies were interred on Saturday evening, it being impossible to keep them longer on account of the rapid decomposition. The doctor retained the stomach of the murderer for further analysis, should this be found necessary.

The three-year-old child is in a most pitiable condition, its lower limbs being so dreadfully frozen that they have turned for gratification. Lane told a number of persons at different times that his wife had rich relations, but he did not tell them who they were, or what his wife's name was. It is also said that he has a brother residing in or of their good wishes for the young lady's near Youtztown, this county. Efforts are future. being made by 'Squire Erb, to find the relations of the unfortunate woman and children. Meantime the good people of Bainbridge are bestowing all possible attention on the only surviving child of the family.

The murderer and suicide left behind him nothing to indicate the cause of his terrible crime. Some think it may have been on account of his extreme destitution, but if this were so, would he not have killed outright the whole family, and not have left the babe to starve to death, and the 2 o'clock train from Columbia and it the three-year-old boy to almost perish was interred at the Lancaster cemetery.

THE DRAMA.

Mr. B. Macauley as "Uncle Dan'l." "Standing room only" was the watchword that greeted late-comers to Fulton opera house on Saturday night. When the curtain went up every seat in the parquet, parquet circle, and gallery was occupied, while all the available space in the rear aisle was utilized by unfortunate persons who had neglected to secure their scats beforehand. Birthday Party. On Saturday evening about twenty boys and girls, mainly pupils of the high schools, visited the residence of Mr. Henry M. Geiter, on South Water street, and treated to a "surprise party" that gentleman's niece, Miss Mamie E. Sharp, and congratulated her upon the attainment of her fifteenth birthday. Of course, they had a 'splendid time"-when were a score of boys and girls assembled together, who didn't? The evening was pleasantly spent in games and social festivities until all hands were summoned to the dining room, where a most tempting repast had been spread, and where the sharpened appetites of the lads and lasses found ample means

During the evening Master Harry Snavely, of the boys' high school, in a few well chosen remarks, on behalf of the visitors presented Miss Mamie with a handsome writing desk well stocked with fine stationery, together with an elegant floral horse-shoe, as a token of their regard and

Death of C. M. Hostetter, Esq. Christian M. Hostetter, esq., a farmer of Eden township and member of the Lancaster county bar, died at the Stevens house in this city, last evening, after a lingering illness from internal cancer. He was about 37 years of age and was a native of Manor township. Inheriting a handsome estate he came to this city and studied law with J. W. F. Swift, esq., but never engaged in active practice. He was one time an agent for the Centennial board of finance and endeavored to promote a scheme for establishing a local park and monument to Robert loaned money, and removing there, engaged in agricultural pursuits. He was an active member of the county agricultural society and attended its meetings regularly. He has been in failing health for nearly a year, and though treated by eminent Philadelphia surgeons his malady proved fatal.
