GEN. REYNOLDS'S FUNERAL. Masonic Ceremenies-Large Impressive

Funeral Cortege. The funeral of Gen. James L. Reynolds took place this morning at half past 10 o'clock. The body encased in a handsome burial casket, lay in state in Masonic hall attended by a guard of honor.

The lodge was regularly opened at 10 o'clock and the funeral service appointed | canvassed for by a host of aspirants if it for deceased brothers was conducted by S. W., Prof. E. O. Lyte and J. The funeral cortege was then formed by Marshal P. M. Jere. Rohrer, of Lodge 43, and moved to Lancaster cometery. The remains were deposited in a vault in the northern end of the Reynolds lot, where the final Masonic services were performed by Lodge 43, closing with the hymn, "Solema strikes the funeral chime." At the close of the hyma each of the brethren passed around the grave and deposited upon the coffin a sprig of evergreen, after which the cortege reformed and returned to the lodge room and was dismissed.

That Tremendous "If."

Philadelphia Times. If either of the Lancaster judges should the following properties of J. A. Sprenger: ever come before the people for re-election, what a severe time they would have under the law of Judge Patterson in the Steinman and Hensel cases. The leading newspapers are all conducted by lawyers, Messes, Steinman and Hensel are the editors of the INTELLIGENCER ; Mr. Hiestand, a member of the bar, is editor of the Eraminer, and Mr. Risk, another lawyer, is known as an Ecominer contributor. Mr. Warfel, a member of the bar, is one of the editors of the New Era, and Mr. Martin, another attorney, is understood to be a contributor to its columns. Mr. Yocum, editor of the Columbia Spy, is a member of the bar, and there are probably a dozen other lawyers who contribute to the various Lancaster papers. Judges Livingston or Patterson would start in the race for a renewal of judicial honors with every newspaper absolutely rity or litness in any of the newspapers would be promptly punished by dismissal from the bar. Nor would Judge Patterson's power end with silencing the press. Any one of the two or three scores of lawyers in the county who should venture to criticise the honesty or competency of the judge on the stump or even in common conversation, would be liable to summary punishment for misbehavior in office, and the lips of every attorney would be sealed by the arbitrary power of the judge. Our people sometimes yent their indignation on the Napoleonic despotism that muzzled the press and allowed free voting when the people voted as power dictated, and they often criticise the despotism of the Czar of Russia ; but Judge Patterson has made both French and Russian intolerance respectable by his equal tyranny that sins against greater light and knowledge and defies every attribute of goverment.
