

Lancaster Intelligencer.

SATURDAY EVENING APRIL 24, 1880.

The Colonel's Coffee Mill. Detroit Free Press. Yesterday old Joe Hemlock, one of the darkest colored men in Detroit, was promoting through the editorial rooms of the Free Press, in search of money enough to buy a new pair of boots, and the sight of him revived an old recollection. In 1861, after the retreat from Bull Run, the third Michigan infantry went into camp at Hunter's Place, and old Joe, then a middle-aged dandy, came into camp as a runaway. Col. McConnell seized upon him for a cook, and after instructions Joe was given charge of the colonel's kitchen. His first meal was dinner and about time for it to appear he was called in on the colonel, making a very low bow and said: "Kernel, Ize not quite up to the situation jist yet. You tole me to bake beans, didn't you?" "I did."

"Werry well, sah; de beans am baked. You tole me to fry ham, didn't you?" "I did."

"Werry well, sah; de ham am fried. Now, did you say I war to hile de coffee in de kernel or no?" "No—no—no—ever heard of making coffee that way?" "Well dat's what I fought, but kernel, I am an awful slow job for a nigger to crack all dat coffee 'tween his teef and dinner's gwine to be half an hour late sah's yer bo'n?"

The Custer Statue. Of MacDonald's statue of Gen. Custer the general's widow says: "The face is a man of 60 years, and the dress so un military that his brother officers shudder in looking at it. He is represented with full dress coat and top boots, that only belong to an undress uniform. The whole costume is incongruous and incorrect. Then, he is armed, like a desperado, in both hands, while some of the general's best charges were made with no fire-arms about him. I realize that I am the last one on earth to be satisfied with any representation of my husband. Nothing could portray to me in any form, my idea of him. But his friends and artists, all have but one story to tell—that the statue is a failure as a likeness, as the representation of a soldier, and as a work of art. You know what intense indignity General Custer had. His quick movements, his active step, his riding, the very way he wore his clothes, were so totally unlike any one else, he could not fail to be well represented if a man of genius once tried to represent him. It seems as if I could not endure the thought of this wretched statue being repeated, and I hope that your voice may influence those upon whom the decision rests."

Given up by Doctors. "Is it possible that Mr. Goffrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy? I assure you it is true. He was entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters; and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die."

Well-a-day! That is remarkable! I will go this day and get some for my poor George. I know hops are good."

Cause and effect.—Saw it advertised, bought it for fifty cents, swallowed it for a cough that had troubled me four months, two boxes left on—half bottle cured. Recommend it to all. I refer to Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 127 and 129 North Queen street, Lancaster, Pa.

Malaria Destroyed. G. A. J. Gadous, of Brockville, Canada, certifies that he was prostrated by a malarial disease contracted in Texas, and was completely cured by the use of Warner's Safe Pills and Safe Bitters. He adds: "I shall never travel in that climate without your Safe Pills and Bitters as a part of my outfit."

H. E. McCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, Ontario, writes: "I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, in doses of two drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for rheumatism. For sale by H. B. Cochran, druggist, 127 and 129 North Queen street, Lancaster, Pa."
