- BOSTON TO BANGOR.
- Where sails you ship away ?" I said to the mariner old. As a gallant bark stood out of the bay And into the night so cold.
- "And what takes she as freight ?" I said to this mariner gray. And why sails she at night Instead of at break of day
- "Steers she for the tropic land, Where fragrant spices grow, And o'er whose golden land, The balmy breezes blow?
- "Where luscious fruits abound, With flowers of gorgeous hue,
- And precious stones are found, With smiling skies of blue? "Or, when from land she's free,
- Think you her prow will turn Up towards the Polar Sea,
- From which so few return "Where the North King's icy hand The shivering waves uphold, And spreads o'er all the land
- His mantle white and cold : "Speak, then, my silent tar. And tell me what I ask; And why she sails atar
- To brave the stormy blast "" The tarry soul no word replied. But taking from his vest Some chalk, upon the sand inscribed.

"The wind is from the West :

"Her course is laid for Bangor, Maine: Her captain's name is Slaters ; Her name itself is Mary Jane; Her cargo is potatoes.'

Destroying Weeds. Germantown Telegraph.

Every once in a while we read that the way to destroy noxious weeds is to haul loads of earth and cover the places where the weeds grow a-half a foot or so deep. Sometimes these instructions are varied so as to read rubbish instead of earth, and then again rubbish is defined as straw, cornstalks or even brush. Now, we have no doubt in the world that weeds can be destroyed in that way. We know that weeds are to feed on air, and all that sort of thing, and that if they are smothered they can't breathe, and if they cannot breathe they die. All this is so plain to the thickest skull that one may feel perfectly safe in recommending it as something that will surely do. And yet we would like to know how many who recommended it have ever done so, or seen their plan tried by others? We very much doubt whether it was ever done. Some one may have noticed that under a brush heap everything was killed, and that after remaining a year the brush heap's removal would show the spot bare of all vegetation. If the recommendation ever had any ground at all it was surely this. Our remedy for noxious weeds thorough cultivation. If a piece of ground is full of briers, milk-weed, couch-grass, sodom-apples, Canada thistles, sorrel toad-flax, or other miserable stuff that so often tries the mettle of our good farmers, let them put the ground in corn for a couple of years or so, keeping the cultivacontinually, and especially going in the earliest parts of the season, and the toughest character among these weeds will fail to stand the ordeal. If the hand-hoe can be spared to go in among the hills of corn occasionally, where the teeth of the harrow cannot reach, or to cut off here and there one which the har. row may miss, a bad case may be cured in a single season. But if this cannot be done, a couple of successive years with a sharp-tooth cultivator among a corn-crop will generally do the business for the worst case that ever was. Let anyone who has a weedy field before him resolve another season to put the whole tract in corn and keep clean, and he will soon give up all the common ideas of smothering-out with great layers of earth, cutting up in the full of the moon, putting salt upon their tops, or the many other recommendations started in the interest it is believed of laziness, but which really call for more trouble and hard work than a thorough and systematic cleaning, such as we have indicated, does.

Women Never Think! Women Never Think!

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.

The Doctors Yielding. Ever since Prof. Green wrote to the Medical Record advising physicians everywhere to use the Saie Kidney and Liver Cure in their practice, it has been gaining in tavor with the pro-fession. They can find nothing which is a sub-stitute for it. R. Caulkins, M. D., of Rochester, stitute for it. R. Caulkins, M. D., of Rochester, N. Y., says he would now prescribe it to all who are afflicted with serious kidney and liver
