With forty thousand men he rode: The fields were bare, the meadows brown, The starving cattle faintly lowed. But conquering hero he rode down-As if to hawk and bells he rode-

While fields were bare and meadows brown And starving cattle faintly lowed. And just without the 'leaguered town They pitched their tents along the road, Or in the fields and meadows brown

Where starving cattle faintly lowed. Day after day they stormed the town; Day after day he laughing road Across the fields and meadows brown

Where starving cattle faintly lowed. One day from out the 'leaguered town There faltered forth along the road, And by the fields and meadows brown

Where starving cattle faintly lowed, A wretched throng. The leaguered town Has cast aside its useless load, And by the fields and meadows brown Where starving cattle faintly lowed.

They faltered up, they faltered down, Half dazed with tear, along the road,

Then, by the fields and meadows brown Where starving cattle faintly lowed,

The hero who had stormed the town Day after day, and careless rode Day after day by meadows brown Where starving cattle faintly lowed

With swift sharp strokes came riding down Along the white and dusty road, Unheeding still the meadows brown The starving cattle as they lowed.

His face was set beneath a frown: His laughing eyes, that had bestowed No glance upon the meadows brown Where starving cattle faintly lowed,

Now fierce yet soft looked shining down Upon the groups that thronged the road. Blind to the meadows bare and brown, Deaf to the cattle as they lowed,

His great heart suddenly bore down The conqueror's pride, and back he rode, Past all the fields and meadows brown Where starving cattle faintly lowed.

He fed the people of the town-These famished groups that thronged the road. And through the fields and meadows brown He called the cattle as they lowed,

And fed them all. Then from the town He turned away, and lightly rode Past all the fields and meadows brown With face that shone and eyes that glowed,

" Fire Dieu!" he cried, "I'll take no town By famine's scourge; a fairer road Most Henry of Navarre ride down To find his triumphs well bestowed." -Nora Perry, in Harper's Magazine for At

HANCOCK, 1776-1880.

New York World. There have been mighty names. Hancock

Signed first the charter of our liberty. Tow'ring in front with those immortal men, Who pledged name, fortune, life-to make us

And now another Hancock! Tow'ring too. But in the battle front; as when Navarre Blazed out, his white plume streaming: breaking through The surging war-clouds, like some tempest

Yet not his martial deeds alone we praise, Or knightly soul. Oh! nobler be our theme "The sword once sheathed, no bay'net rule." he says,

"Free speech, free triai, civil law supreme." There Plymouth Rock spoke out, there Bunker Hill! Cling fast to that-and we are freemen still. -Newport, R. I. July 4.

Brandy as a Medicine.

The following article was voluntarily sent to Mr. H. E. Slaymaker, Agent for Reigart's Old Wine Store, by a prominent practising physi-cian of this county, who has extensively used the Brandy referred to in his regular practice. It is commended to the attention of those af-flicted with Indigestion and Dyspepsia. BRANDY AS A MEDICINE.

This now much abused Alcoholic Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine of great potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victims. With a purely philanthropic motive we pre-sent to the favorable notice of invalids—espe-cially those afflicted with that miserable dis-ease Dyspepsia, a specific remedy, which is nothing more or less than Brandy.

The aged, with feeble appetite and more or less debility, will find this simple medicine, when used properly,

A Sovereign Remedy or all their fils and aches. Be it, however trictly understood that we prescribe and use ut one article, and that is

REIGART'S OLD BRANDY,

Sold by our enterprising young friend, H<sup>1</sup> E-SLAYMAKER. This Brandy has stood the test for years, and has never failed, as far as our experience extends, and we therefore give it the preference over all other Brandies, no matter with how many jaw-breaking French titles they are branded. One-fourth of the money that is yearly thrown away on various impotent dyspepsia specifies would suffice to buy all the Brandy to cure any such case or cases. In proof of the curative powers of Reigart's Old Brandy, In cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon num bers of witnesses—one case in particular we cite:—

A hard-working farmer had been afflicted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour eructations constantly—no appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Root Beer. He is a Methodist, and then, as now, preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed earnestly against all kinds of strong drink. When advised to try Reigart's Old Brandy, In his case, he looked up with astonishment, but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stomach capable of digesting anything which he chose to eat. He still keeps it and uses a little occasionally; and since he has this medicine he has been of very little pecuniary benefit to the doctor.—A Practising Physician.
