anniversary of their marriage on the Fourth of July, when all of their family were present. Mrs. Gable's name was Curran. John Heineberger, an inmate of the county almshouse, died suddenly about noon yesterday. He was feeling well at breakfast and ate a hearty meal. When dinner was ready he started down the steps and dropped dead at the bottom. Superintendent Brock sent to town for the coroner. A jury consisting of J. H. Rowe, John M. Breece, Jacob Brubaker, J. M. Van Nastrand, J. M. Ober and David A. Styer was empaneled and a verdict of death from heart disease was rendered. The deceased had been an inmate of the poor house for some time. Reist, the young man who died from the effects of his injuries received on the railroad at Ephrata on Friday evening. A jury was empancled by 'Squire Seltzer, who is deputy coroner for that district. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the facts published before and exonerated the railroad company from all blame. DEATH FROM LOCKJAW.

Frank Dickel Dies from a Pistol Wound. Frank Dickel (not John, as stated before), son of John Dickel, residing on Arch alley near the Harrisburg pike, died of lockjaw on Saturday night about 10 o'clock. On the 3d of July young Dickel, who was about 16 years of age, was firing off a toy pistol which had a blank cartridge in it. The wad from the cartridge struck him in the palm of the hand, causing what was then thought to be a slight wound. The hand began swelling and before it had healed the boy went swimming. He probably caught cold, as he was taken with lockjaw soon afterwards. He continued growing worse for some time and finally died as above stated.

Police Cases. On Saturday Officer Holman attempted to arrest John Fritz, an old offender, who is acquainted with every cell in the station house, and who was drunk, near the Leopard hotel, on East King street. John thought he would not go and began to show fight. After the officer had knocked him down several times he was landed in the station house and the mayor gave him tifteen days this morning. Benjamin Smith, colored, was the only occupant of the station house last night. His crime was drunken and disorderly conduct, and he was discharged upon payment of costs.

Charlotte Grey, colored, has brought suit against Peter Woods, also colored, on charges of drunken and disorderly conduct, assault and battery, and surety of the peace. Alderman Barr held Peter in bail for a hearing.

Scalded in the Pace.

On Saturday the wife of Harry Deichler, residing at 457 South Queen street, was severely scalded in the face. She was engaged in canning blackberries, and put several jars containing water on the stove. The lids were laid loosely on the jars and when the water became hot Mrs. Deichler was unable to get them off with her hand. She picked up one of the jars took the lid off with a fork. As she removed the lid the water and steam struck her in the face, scalding her. Although her injury is quite painful it is not serious.

A Sad Affliction.

Our obituary columns note the death of Mary, the bright, beautiful and beloved daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Breneman, of Cincinnati, and grand daughter of Mr. B. F. Shenk, of this city. It has been but a short time since we noted the death of their younger daughter Sue, and tidings reach this city of the serious illness of their infant-all from that dread scourge diphtheria. DIANO PEDAL GUARD.

The above is a New and Useful Improvement known as a Pedal Guard for Pianos. It can be attached to the lyre of a Square or Grand Piano. It can also be attached to the bottom board of an Upright just above the pedal feet. The "Pedal Guard" has become an absolute necessity, as it prevents the feet from scratchnecessity, as a prevent the feet roll scance, ing or injuring the lyre of the Square Piano, and the bottom or front board of an Upright Piano. Aside from the general utility of the "Guard," it adds to the appearance of the lyre, inasmuch as it is VERY ORNAMENTAL religions it a finish and richness bereto. ore unknown.
The "Guard" is cast from a hard and substantial metal and very richly nicket plated. It can be attached to any piano, and with arcely any trouble, as screws for this purpose accompany each guard.

The price is within the reach of all who can affoord to have a Piano, and is very low when you consider its many advantages; in fact no one owning a piano can afford to be without JOSEPH STEINHAUSER, Matters and Things in the Old Country. LONDON, July 19 .- The Dublin correspondent of the Times says the Flag of Ireland (newspaper) condemns the compensation for disturbance bill entirely, and says it is a "trumpery make-shift." The correspondent says the scare of famine fever in the west of Ireland is rapidly dying out, official investigation having proved that the first reports were exaggerated, and that wherever fever existed it was not from starvation, but ordinary typhus, to which the bad sanitary condition of their dwellings constantly predisposed the people.

Cheering Crop Reports. From all parts of the country come the most cheering accounts of the condition of the crops, which are only darkened by reports of the appearance of potato blight in some districts in parts of counties Dublin, Sligo, Cork and Mayo. The blight, however is confined to old potatoes. The "Champions" have escaped completely; nothing can be more luxuriant than the green crops.

DENVER, Col., July 19.—General Grant, in an interview said: "I can say without hesitation that I will give Garfield my hearty support. There is no reason why any Republican should not vote for Garfield. I know him to be a man of talent, thoroughly accomplished, and an upright man. I have nothing against General Hancock, but Garfield is the man for the office. "He denied the report that he had complained of Conkling and Logan having deceived him, He had received no letter from either of them, either before or after the convention. since his return to America. He said of all men Conkling and Logan were the last for him to find fault with, and he felt more proud of the 312 that had stood by him unfair means.

ARTHUR'S ACCEPTANCE.

Discussing Fraud at Elections-How the Parties are Divided.

General C. A. Arthur, the Republican candidate for the vice presidency, has written a letter to Hon. George F. Hoar, accepting the nomination. In it he says: The authority of the national govern-ment to preserve from fraud and force elections at which its own officers are chosen is a chief point on which the two parties are plainly and intensely opposed. Acts of Congress for ten years have, in New York and elsewhere, done much to the violence and curb to which the ballot and the count have been again and again subjected—sometimes despoiling great cities, sometimes stifling the voice of a whole state, often seating, not only in Congress, but on the bench and in legislatures, numbers of men never chosen by the people. The Democratic party, since gaining possession of the two houses of Congress, has made these just laws the subject of bitter, ceaseless assaults, and despite all resistance has hedged them with restrictions cunningly contrived to battle and paralyze them. The Republican party has strongly approved the stern refusal of its representatives to suffer the overthrow of statutes believed to be salutary and just. It has always insisted, and now insists, that the government of the United States of America is empowered and in duty bound to effectually protect the elections denoted by the constitution as national.

It is a suggestive and startling fact that the increased power derived from the enfranchisement of the race now denied its share in governing the country-wielded by those who lately sought the overthrow of the government-is now the sole reliance to defeat the party which represented the sovereignty and nationality of the American people in the greatest crisis of our history. Republicans cherish none of the resentments which may have animated them during the actual conflict of arms. They long for a full and real reconciliation between the sections which were needlessly and lamentably at strife; they sincerely offer the hand of good will, but they ask in return a pledge of good faith. They deeply feel that the party whose career is so illustrious in great and patriotic achievement will not fulfil its destiny until peace and prosperity are established in all the land, nor until liberty of thought, conscience and action and equality of opportunity shall be not merely cold formalities of statute, but living birthrights which the humble may confidently claim and the powerful dare not deny. The resolution referring to the public service seems to me deserving of approval. Surely no man should be the incumbent of an office the duties of which he is for any cause unfit to perform, who is lacking in the ability, tidelity or integrity which a proper administration of such office demands. This sentiment would doubtless meet with general acquiescence, but than if he had received the nomination by opinion has been widely divided upon the wisdom and practicability of the various reformatory schemes which have been suggested and of certain proposed regulations governing appointments to public office. The efficiency of such regulations has been distrusted mainly because they have seemed to exalt mere educational and abstract tests above general business capacity and even special fitness for the particular work in hand. It seems to me that the rules which should be applied to the management of the public service may properly conform in the main to such as regulate the conduct of successful private business. Original appointments should be based upon ascertained fitness. The tenure of office should be stable. Positions of responsibility should so far as practicable be filled by the promotion of worthy and efficient officers. The investigation of all complaints and the punishment of all official misconduct should be prompt and thorough. These views, which I have long held, repeatedly declared, and uniformly applied when called upon to act, I find embodied in the resolution which I approve. I will add that by the acceptance of public office, whether high or low, one does not, in my judgment, escape any of his responsibilities as a citizen and that he should enjoy absolute liberty to think and speak and act in political matters according to his own will and conscience, provided only that he honorably, faithfully and fully discharges all his official duties.

Gen. Arthur endorses the resumption policy and says every dollar of our money, whether of metal or of paper, should stand the test of the world's fixed standard. He says the national government should en courage popular education so far as the constitution permits; that such changes should be made in the present tariff and system of taxation as will relieve any overburdened industry or class and enable our manufacturers and artisans to compete successfully with those of other lands, and that the government should aid works of internal improvement national in their character and promote the development of our water courses and harbors wherever the general interests of commerce require. In concluding General Arthur says: "There is danger in entrusting the control of the whole law-making power of the govern-ment to a party which has, in almost every Southern state, repudiated obligations quite as sacred as those to which the faith of the nation now stands pledged."
