"Let Us Have Peace."

Timely Extracts from a Recent Address. Twelve years ago the same great con-querer [Grant] when called by his admiring fellow citizens to the highest office in their power to bestow further showed the greatness of his nature by the laconic utterance, "Let us have peace!" It was this word that electrified the nation, and rallied it to his support. How has that aspiration been fulfilled? Have we had peace for the last fifteen years? No; we have had but its hollow semblance; we have had the form of peace with the passions of war. At every election the war has been fought over again. The Southern people submitted honorably to the terms imposed; the Southern states amended their constitutions so as to prohibit slavery and the payment of the rebel debt; they did every-thing that generous men could ask or burn, not Murat at Marengo, not Sheridan at Winchester, and Five Forks, displayed more splendid valor than did Hancock at honorable men grant-everything except Gettysburg. And yet he is to be called change their natures and denounce "the lost cause" for which their brothers, fathers, sons, or husbands fell. The rebellion ceased, and there was no longer a vania, if such partisan meaness is allowed rebel in the land; no longer a man who did not acknowledge the supremacy of the national government and the national flag. On the Fouth of July, 1876, military com panies from all the original thirteen states met in Philadelphia as if no war had ever divided them; and the whole body, commanded by General Heth, a gallant Confederate officer, paraded the streets, marching under the stars and stripes to the music of the Union. Surely this did not look like a state of war. Those gentlemen from South Carolina who fraternally clasped hands with those from Massachusetts were not enemies seeking our destruction, but friends seeking to re unite the bonds of fraternal feeling, to rebuild their desolate homes, to re-establish the prosperity of our common country. Why not give them our confidence and friendship? Why insult them by hurling at them the epithets of rebel and traitor by continually reminding them of their defeat; by representing the whole Southern people as bloodthirsty and cruel? There may have been "Ku-Klux outrages;" doubtless negroes have sometimes been prevented from exercising their newly acquired political rights; but something may be pardoned to the desperation born of despair. Could a high-spirited people be expected to bear with patience the overturning of their local governments by force, the installing in their highest offices of greedy adventurers caring only for their own aggrandizement, the pollution of their legislative halls by a horde of semi-savages, and the heaping up upon them of mountains of debt which they never could What would we have done under similar circumstances? And have there been no outrages elsewhere? No election frauds elsewhere? None in New York? None in Pennsylvania? None, if you please in Lancaster? "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone." "Let us have peace!" Let the bloody hatchet be buried forever. Let ue exercise some charity towaid our "erring brothers. Confidence begets confidence; and confidence is necessary to the building up of a true and permanent Union.

There has been much talk of "a solid South;" but why is a solid South any more dangerous than a solid North, a solid East, or a solid West? Each section has its own local interests; but all sections are equally interested in the prosperity of the republic. What measures do the South desire, what measures can they desire, that are dangerous to the perpetuity of the Union? They do not desire the re-establishment of slavery; it is contray not only to the spirit of the century, but to their own interests. They do not desire to reopen the war of disunion; they have had enough of war; what they most desire is peace. They do not desire the payment of their war debt; not only is it prohibited by the national constitution, but it would impoverish both themselves and us. There is no national bar to a true national Union -a Union not of the states only, but of hearts and hands. Take the war issue out politics, cease to taunt our Southern brethren as "bloodthirsty traitors," and the "solid South" would fall asunder of its own accord. "Like flax that's sundered at the touch of

and new combinations would be formed on other issues.

Bitterness of Political Contests. One of the greatest dangerous to the permanence of our government is the growing bitterness of political contests. As our country grows, offices are more and more eagerly sought for and by more and more violent means. Our elections are often decided, not by the vote of a free people, but by a crowd of roughs hired for the purpose. And the worst feature of it is, that the people seem willing to be thus cheated, and allow the same thing to be done again and again. And this is true, not of one party only, but equally of both. Politics have become disreputable and elections a game—a game abounding in tricks, and in which power and plunder are the stakes. Let the purest man be nominated for office, and he becomes at once the butt of ridicule and the victim of slander. Such was the fate of the lamented Greeley; a man who did more for the education and advancement of his countrymen than any other man of his time. But as soon as he was nominated for the presidency all his good words and deeds were forgotten, and his mistakes held up to ridicule with almost fiendish delight. * * * Such has been the fate of other and more recent. candidates of both parties. * * * Political animosities are even allowed to sever the ties of friendship, to interfere with business relations, to disorder social life, to have weight in the selection of teachers,

The Presidential Campaign. The subject has now become one of im mediate and pressing importance. We are just entering upon one of the most impor-tant presidential elections in the history of our country; one that will determine the political complexion of our govern ment for many years to come; one that will be closely and hotly contested; and one in which every foot of debatable ground will be conquered or yielded inch by inch. How shall it be fought? Shall it be fought on the high plane of political principles, with weapons of fact and reason; or, shall it be fought on the low plane of partisan malice, with weapons of calumny and abuse? Shall it be fought according to the methods of high-minded men and patriotic citizens, or according to the methods of political roughs and 'rounders?" This is the question for American citizens to answer, and the question for us to consider to-day. *

and in a hundred other ways to disturb the peace and harmony of society.

Elnquent Tribute to Hancock. On the 24th of June, in the city of Cincinnati, the other great party of our country, through its representatives, chose as its standard bearer a distinguished son of Pennsylvania; a soldier "without fear and without reproach;" a man who on a hundred battlefields—at Williamsburg, at Carpets made to order at short notice. Antietam, at Spottsylvania, and above all at also pay to cents for Extra Carpet Rags. Gettysburg, proved his heroic valor and his devotion to the grand old flag for which his grandsire fought in the Revolution a man who under the most trying circumstances has proved himself cool and sagacious; a man who, under the strongest temptation to exercise arbitrary power, de-liberately put it aside, and maintained the supremacy of law and justice; a man who in his semi-civil experience has shown such breadth of comprehension and such a 110-1yd grasp of statesmanship, as have excited the admiration of the ablest lawyers and jurists; and, above all, a man who in his private life, in every relation of hus-band, father, friend and citizen, has maintained a reputation as spotless as his sword. What can be said of such a man? What ingenuity of party malice can glut the greed for scandal in such a career? And yet, in a few weeks since his nomination, the N. Y. Times has discovered that he is but "a pretentious nobody!" and a Philadelphia newspaper has found that he is unworthy to be called a Pennsylvanian, and is in fact but little better than a traitor! Is Is this kind of detraction to be tolerated by respectable men and women? Is the fair fame of a great soldier to be the cast aside like a worthless thing, because a great party chose honor him as they hor-ored Jefferson? Are his scars to count for nought? Is the blood be shed at Gettysburg to save our state and nation to be thus scoffed at and despised. Not the Black Prince at Crecy, not Bruce at Bannck

"a pretentious nobody "! Oh, shame upon American manhood, shame upon Pennsylto go unpunished! A Fool Once More. "For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of aliments that no doctor could tell what was the matter or cure her, and I used up a small fortune in humbug stuff. Six months ago Isaw U. S. flag with Hop Bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more. I tried it, but my folly proved to be wisdom. Two bottles cured her, she is now as well and strong as any man's wife, and it cost me only two dollars. Such folly pays.—H. W., Detroit, Mich.
