FRY LOCHER'S RENOWNED COUGH SYRUP.

Lancaster Intelligencer.
SATURDAY EVENING, AUG. 21, 1880.
A MOUNTAIN IN LABOR.
AND THE MOUSE IT BROUGHT FORTH.

Last Night's Special Meeting of City Council, on the subject of the proposed resolution, "A Mountain in Labor," was a most interesting one, and was especially so inasmuch as the subject was one of such importance to the city, and the importance of the subject involved, he thought, entitled it to full and free discussion on both sides.

Mr. McMullen offered a resolution providing that in the event of the square of North Queen street being paved with Orange and Chestnut being paved with Belgian blocks, property owners along said square be required to increase the width of their sidewalks to the dimensions of those on the first square. The resolution was adopted.

Select council members of business proposed in the call were respectively postponed, for the manifest reason that the friends of the measures in common council, who were largely in the majority, were afraid to allow them to go before select council, where there was every probability of their meeting short shrift, in the absence of Messrs. Franklin, Shenk and Sales from that body greatly weakening their chances of passage there. The only features of interest transpiring were a desultory and entirely irrelevant discussion concerning the proposed certain blocking of the second square of North Queen street. Mr. Keeler, of the Ninth ward, tried to impress upon the minds of his colleagues the prime importance of macadamizing West Lemon street, a work which he represented to be of far more crying necessity than the North Queen street project. Mr. Keeler's effort to get up a Ninth Ward boom was coldly received, and the representative of that flourishing section of the city subsided with a very disgusted expression of countenance.

With regard to the proposition to remove permanent awnings, nothing tangible manifested itself except a vigorous protest against the project signed by a number of prominent business men of the leading thoroughfares. Mr. McMullen said he was not aware of the existence of any resolution looking to the object protested against in this petition. The matter had been generally discussed in committee, but about the only direct manner of getting at it that he knew of would be to call the city authorities to tear down one of the obnoxious awnings and then allow a test case to be made up and settled in a court of law.

Thus, after a vast amount of work out and an infinitesimal quantity accomplished, common council adjourned, leaving to the charge of a number of the city fathers and to the especial disgust of Mr. Beard, the handsome member from the Second ward, who had come all the way from Philadelphia to attend the meeting.

Do Bees Injure Fruit?
It is the opinion of many fruit growers that bees will eat into and destroy grapes and other sweet fruits. The editor of the Lancaster Farmer has been watching his grape vines and gives the following as the result of his observations:

"As regularly as the autumn comes around we are treated with long accounts of the depredations committed by that industrious honey-gatherer, the bee. The charges brought against them are not only many, but as serious as they are numerous. Nine times out of ten they are brought by persons incapable of pronouncing an opinion, but who swell the hearsay cry of denunciation merely because it is popular, or in consequence of some unreliable information received at second hand. The result of all this is that the poor bees have a hard time of it. It is to relieve them from at least one, and that the most serious of all the accusations against them, that we write this article.

"No opinion seems to be more generally prevalent than that bees open the outer skins of grapes, plums, peaches and other fruits for the purpose of feasting on the sweet juices within. Because they are found on these fruits in the act of committing a trespass, they are condemned without a hearing, or any consideration whatever. It is most commonly said they sting the fruit. This is the result of sheer ignorance. Neither the bee, nor any other insect, employs its sting for such purposes; they have them for other uses, as a means of defense against enemies, and use them solely as nature designed that they should. It is as impossible for a bee to sting open a grape as it is for it to open a walnut or a shell-bark by the same process. Its only means of committing the crime of which it is accused is the King proboscis with which it is armed; but this, although perhaps capable of tearing open skins of ripe fruit, is never used for that purpose, its functions, like that of the sting, being far different, and confined exclusively to the ends designed by nature.

"Although the charges are based mainly on the fact that at this season large numbers of bees are seen on the grapes on our vines, busily employed in helping themselves to the palatable juices, yet we assert very positively that the bees do not sting grapes and other fruits to burst, and it is to the fruit thus injured that the slandered bees pay their attention.

"The result of a close investigation of the question, lasting through a series of days, are:—On the grapes growing in our yards hundreds of bees were literally swarming, their home being in a neighbor's yard not twenty paces distant. We sat hour after hour watching closely the proceedings of the industrious insects. There was not a single raceme on the whole vine but was visited by dozens of bees, who examined every grape on it, in search of a bursted one whose juices were accessible. After a most careful search, and finding none such they would immediately leave and such time their search elsewhere until the berry they desired was found. On all the defective fruit clusters of bees were gathered, but we failed utterly in detecting in a single instance anything like an attempt at trying to tear open a perfect berry, their investigations were hasty, but thorough, and when the time of day was over, no trace was visible of their presence. There can be no mistake about this matter; our observations were careful and prolonged, and must certainly have resulted in detecting the harm complained of had any been done. That none was done we are positively certain, and we feel that these hard workers deserve a good word in return for the odium cast upon them by theorists and careless observers."

"Another writer says: 'I have several colonies of black bees, and close by several varieties of grapes, and never before this summer did they in large numbers visit the grapes; but this season, when the grapes ripened, the Clintons in particular being the most perfect, full and large for the kind, burst their skins, many half way round, from some cause unknown to me, so that the air around was filled with the delicious sweet smell of the ripe fruit, which naturally invited the bees to come and regale themselves and sip the nectar now open to them. Concord near by, and were not near so perfect this year, and few burst their skins when ripening, and few bees gathered about the Delawares, nearest to the vines, were also very perfect, but none burst their skins, and no bees visited them. Now, if the bees had cut the grapes open, is it not natural and reasonable that they would have also cut the other and sweeter kinds, as more to their taste, particularly the Delawares?"

SALT RHEUM FOR A LIFETIME.
I have had a most wonderful cure of Salt Rheum; for seventeen years I suffered with Salt Rheum; I had it on my head, face, neck, arms and legs. I was not able to walk, only on my hands and knees, for one year. I have not been able to help myself for eight years. I have not tried hundreds of remedies; not one had the least effect. The doctors said my case was incurable. So my parents tried everything that could be tried to try CUTICURA REMEDIES. The first box of CUTICURA brought relief, and in a few days the skin was clear. It would drop off of its surface out, until now I am entirely well. All I can say is, I thank you most heartily for my cure.

I have been completely cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

MALT BITTERS are prepared without fermentation from Canadian BARLEY MALT and HOPS, and warranted superior to all other forms of malt or medicine, which free from the objections urged against malt liquors.
