The jury deliberated in private for a few minutes and then rendered a verdict that John E. Franciscus came to his death from heart disease while chloroform was being administered in the usual way.

sale of the Old Gas Company.

The negotiations which for some time past have been going on between the Lancaster Gas company and the Lancaster Gas Light and Fuel company, having in view a union of the two companies, have resulted in the purchase by the last named com-pany of all the assets, real and personal, of the first named company, the price paid being $160,000. The transfer of the property took place to-day and will be paid for in eash and bonds as soon as the proper papers are executed.

It is understood that the pipes of the two companies will be connected and that as soon as it can be conveniently done, the manufacture of gas will be discontinued at the old works and the entire supply manufactured at the new works, by the process now used at those works. The price of gas will probably be continued at $2 per 1000 cubic feet, so that consumers will lose nothing by the consolidation of the rival companies.

Hit With a Hammer.

A little son of a farmer named Groff, residing at Willow Street, met with an accident which, painful as it was, might have been were serious, if indeed not fatal. He had been playing with a little companion. who was engaged in mending a toy wagon. The other child was in the act driving a nall, tre Square by the Ninth Ward club. and raising the hammer the implement came in sharp and sudden contact with the Groff boy's head, striking him within the fraction of an inch of his temple and inflicting a severe contusion, though the injury is not at all dangerous. Had the blow struck the temple, as it nearly did, instant death might very likely have been eaused. Dr. Carpenter, of this city, dressed to attend as final action will be taken in referthe wound.

Short Telegrams from Various Sources. FATAL FAMILY FEUD.

Missouri Vendetta Results in the Killing of a Former Victim's Son. Louisville, Mo., Sept. 1-Samuel Johnson was shot and instantly killed by Jas. Wheeler last evening, at Danville junction. This is the culmination of an old feud which commenced in 1859, when Jackson's father was killed during a quarrel with Wheeler and others. Samuel Johnson was then a child four years old, and as he grew up swore he would kill Wheeler and others connected with the killing of his father. About two months ago he met Wheeler, and fired three shots at him, none which, however, took effect, and Wheeler made his escape. Yesterday Wheeler learned that Johnson was coming to Danville Junction, and fearing trouble he watched Johnson's movements on his arrival, from a window, and as Johnson stepped on the platform leading to the hotel he fired from the window. The load of buckshot entered Johnson's right side and he sank on the platform and died in a few minutes. Wheeler was arrested.

BAY STATE DEMOCRATS.

Meeting of the Massachusetts Convention-The Era of Good Feeling. WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 1 .- The Democratic state convention was called to order at 11:15 by Col. Jonas II. French. He congratulated the party on its complete recognition and union in this state. Major McCafferty was appointed temporary chairman. Several Butler men entered the hall at this juncture and were tremendously cheered, to which the general himself responded. During the applause the barking of a dog caused considerable merriment. Major McCafferty remarked that that might be a good omen. Geese cackled when Rome was saved. He declared that the day of redemption had come. Committees were then appointed. In answer to a call for a speech from General Butler, the chairman, merely replied: "In the sweet by-andby," and the omission was evidently a great disappointment.
