DR. SWENTZELL'S PIN.

He recovers it through the Agency of a Friend.
Dr. Swentzell, of Pittsburgh, late of this city, has recovered the diamond pin which was taken from him by a couple of garrotes on Penn street, a little over a month since. Thos. Godfrey, the saloon keeper through whose agency the pin was returned to its owner, tells the following remarkable story of the manner in which its recovery was accomplished:

"About a week ago he (Godfrey) received information that the doctor's pin had been sent away from Pittsburgh after it had been taken from its owner, and sent to Cleveland where it had fallen into the hands of some well-known fence men."

"Conceiving that he had struck upon a plan by which he might recover the valuable trinket and motivated by the desire of personal friendship for Dr. Swentzell, Godfrey left with two companions for Cleveland last Monday afternoon. Learning that the party in whose possession the object of his search was supposed to be could be found in Penny's saloon, on the corner of Bank and Lake streets, Godfrey went there with his companions shortly after 10 o'clock on Monday night and was rewarded by seeing the pin in the possession of a stranger who refused, however, to deliver it up, and succeeded in making his escape while Godfrey made an attempt to take it from him by force. In attempting to prevent the escape of the man with the pin Godfrey became involved in a row with several of his accomplices, which he was obliged to leave, and upon his return to the saloon he found the door of the saloon to prevent his escape. The display of the revolver, having effected his release from the dangerous predicament in which he was placed, Godfrey proceeded to his hotel and, upon that point of going to bed when he was arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, and taken to the central station where he remained until a friend went his bail in the sum of $200. His treatment while in the police station at Cleveland, Godfrey describes as barbarous in the extreme, the turnkey, a man by the name of Miller, refusing him proper food and declining to allow him to communicate with his friends in any way. After his release Godfrey continued his efforts to recover the pin, which he had lost, and through agencies which he claims were totally unknown to him in getting possession of the pin on Wednesday afternoon. The centre stone is missing."

The men who were on the rear car did not put on the brake in time and a collision occurred. #### COLUMBIA NEWS.

OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE.

The younger members of the Vigilant fire company desire trading their large Claff & Jones engine for a smaller engine of the same make, and to that end are thinking of holding a fair towards the last of the present year. The engine now in use is most too heavy to make good headway with in going up hill.

We are at this writing having the long-looked-for rain.
It is reported in Columbia that the company who appeared here about a week ago with the Leonberg dogs has gone to pieces.

Marriott Brosius, esq., of Lancaster, Pa., is announced to speak to the Republicans of Columbia on Thursday evening next.

Mrs. James Nowlen, of Lancaster, Pa., was visiting friends in Columbia yesterday.

Miss Lizzie Graver, residing on Don Cameron's farm, is visiting her cousin Miss Annie Grant.

J. W. Thomas, superintendent of the Shawnee rolling mill of this place, arrived in Columbia this morning, and informed a prominent citizen with whom he had conversation that the mill would certainly resume operations on Monday morning next. This information is about as reliable as can be had.

The following communication is handed us with the request that it be published:
"Last evening two ladies went to Mount Bethel cemetery to visit the graves of the children of one of the ladies, and remaining a little later than usual, they reached the gate at the Locust street entrance to find it closed and locked. They say Mr. Sneath, the sexton, and others were sitting on the bench in the sexton's house and did not offer to open the gate to admit of their passage through, and but for the assistance of a friend they might have been compelled to remain in the home of the dead all night. As it was, they were compelled, with the aid of a chair, to jump the high fence encircling the cemetery. We know nothing of this matter ourselves."

JIM BLAINE, OF MAINE.

He Passes Through on a Morning Train.
Hon. J. G. Blaine, of Maine, passed through Lancaster on the 11 o'clock train this forenoon. While the cars were standing in the depot, Mr. Blaine appeared on the platform and was received with applause by the crowd in attendance.

Andy Kauffman, of Columbia, who voted 36 times against Blaine, at the Chicago convention against the wishes of his constituents, jumped upon the platform and insisted on shaking hands with him. Hay Brown, who also voted from first to last against Blaine, was less brazen-faced, and dodged about uneasily in the crowd. Wash Jack, of the Sixth ward, was the only other local politician who pushed forward to shake hands with the defeated Maineace. The real friends of Blaine stood back, wishing to hear what he had to say.

Mr. Blaine expressed surprise at seeing the crowd, and asked how they happened to find out that he was on the train. He then said he was glad to meet Pennsylvanians; was born in the limits of this great state, in which he could trace back his ancestors. He said that he looked upon the election of Gen. Hancock as a triumph to the industrial interests of the country, and he felt sure that whatever other states might do at the coming election, Pennsylvania would have the good sense to stand by her own interests and give Garfield a majority she had never given a candidate for the presidency.

Bidding an affectionate adieu to Wash Jack, Mr. Blaine entered the car and the train moved off.

He speaks at Pittsburgh to-night and then moves on to Ohio and Indiana to explain to the Buckeyes and Hoosiers how to terrify slip-up in Maine took place and to prepare them for the Democratic deluge that is sure to overwhelm them in October.

What It Led To.
This afternoon Andy Kauffman, the party attorney from Columbia, and the only politician, besides Wash Jack, who had "said" enough to shake hands with Senator Blaine this morning, was passing Lew Hartman's cigar store. Lew, who is a strong Blaine man, shook hands with Andy and congratulated him because he shook hands with the Maine senator, but told him that he thought he displayed a good deal of cheek in doing so. This led to a wordy dispute, and it attracted the attention of many passers-by. The two men almost engaged in a quarrel, although both pretended to be in a good humor. As Andy was blowing himself off he said: "Well, Garfield was not my candidate and I did not vote for him." About this time Kauffman noticed that an INTELLIGENCER reporter was standing near, and he said: "I heard of this as soon as I left the depot and I hear that the INTELLIGENCER has it all. It is water for their mill."

Common Pleas Court.
This morning the first week of common pleas court began.

The list was called over and it was found that 20 cases were ready for trial. The following were disposed of:

Isaac D. Stauffer, now for the brand of Jacob Breunman vs. John L. Brandt. Settled.

Lancaster County national bank vs. Amos Rhoads. Plaintiff suffers non-suit.

Thomas B. Claffin, Edward E. Eames, Horace J. Fairchild, William S. Dunn, Dexter N. Fone, Daniel Robinson and George Claffin, trading as H. B. Claffin & Co. vs. H. B. Raker & Son. Judgment was entered in favor of the plaintiff for $89.94.

Mary M. Reese vs. John Hildebrandt. Judgment was entered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant with defendant to pay costs. This was an issue to try the right to certain property levied upon by the sheriff.

Watch Stolen.
Conductor George W. Fortney, of this city, was one of the crowd in front of the Union League building, corner of Broad and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, who wanted to hear Blaine, of Maine, make a speech. He knew that there were pick-pockets in the crowd, and cautioned several persons near him to look out for their watches. Then feeling for his own he found that an adroit thief had stolen it by cutting the ring attached to the stem of the watch and leaving the chain dangling to the vest. The watch was an open faced Elgin with heavy silver case.

U. B. Conference.

A ministerial meeting of the Lancaster district of the United Brethren in Christ will be held in the U. B. church, at Ephrata, on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, September 28th and 29th. About sixteen ministers of the district will be present.

Sunday School Celebration.

At Willow Street on Saturday the M. E. Sunday school held their celebration in Randolph Harnish's woods. All had a pleasant time and the ladies of the Sunday school deserve much credit for the manner in which the affair was got up.

Foot Crushed.

Wm. Kantz, plumber, Manor street, while attempting to board a train near the West King street station on the Reading railroad, made a misstep, and getting his foot under the wheel of a moving car had it badly crushed, the boot being almost torn from his foot.

WAR IN EUROPE INEVITABLE.

THE SULTAN'S DEFIANCE.

Latest News From Home and Abroad.

THE WAR CLOUD.

An Implied Declaration of Hostilities By the Porte.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Manchester Guardian's correspondent at Grasse telegraphed at 5 o'clock on Sunday evening, as follows: "Yesterday the Prince of Montenegro received an official intimation from the Porte that an advance to Duligno would be regarded as a declaration of war. The Prince of Montenegro consequently has telegraphed to Admiral Seymour that he is not prepared, without the aid of the land troops of the powers, to attack the Albanians, reinforced as they are by Turkish regulars and artillery." The correspondent adds: "This step of the Porte's must be regarded as tantamount to a declaration of war against Europe, and the powers can never submit to disperse the fleet at the mere fiat of the sultan."

The Daily News this morning says though France may possibly not take part in the bombardment of the Turkish positions, she will not withdraw her ships or disassociate herself morally from the enterprise.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

How It Works in Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—The spirit of recklessness is becoming more intense at the palace. The sultan has ordered that any official expressing a contrary opinion to the policy which he has adopted shall be dismissed and exiled. Never since the time of Mahmood the Terrible has such an order been issued.
