But dire ill-fortune soon began To visit the astounded man. His hens declined to lay their eggs: His bacon tumbled from the pegs, And rats devoured the fallen legs: His corn, that never failed before, Mildewed and rotted on the floor; His grass refused to end in hay; His eattle died, or went astray ; In short, all moved the crooked way.

Next spring a great drought baked the soc And roasted every pea in pod; The beans declared they could not grow So long as nature acted so; Redundant insects reared their brood To starve for lack of juley food; The staves from barrel sides went off As if they had the hooping-cough, And nothing of the useful kind To hold together felt inclined ; In short, it was no use to try While all the land was in a fry.

One morn, demoralized with grief, The farmer clamored for relief; And prayed right hard to understand What witcheraft now possessed his land; Why house and farm in misery grew Since he nailed up that "lucky" shoe.

While thus dismayed o'er matters wrong An old man chanced to trudge along, To whom he told, with wormwood tears. How his affairs were in arrears. And what a desperate state of things A picked-up horse-shoe sometimes brings

The stranger asked to see the shoe, The farmer brought it into view; But when the old man raised his head, He laughed outright, and quickly said, "No wonder skies upon you frown-You've nailed the horseshoe upside down! Just turn it round, and soon you'll see How you and Fortune will agree."

The farmer turned the horseshoe round, And showers began to swell the ground; The sunshine laughed among his grain, And heaps on heaps piled up the wain : The loft his hay could barely hold, His cattle did as they were told: His fruit trees needed sturdy props To hold the gathering apple crops : His turnip and potato fields Astonished all men by their yields; Folks never saw such ears of corn As in his smiling hills were born; His barn was full of bursting bins ; His wife presented him with twins: His neighbors marveled more and more To see the increase in his store. And now the merry farmer sings "There are two ways of doing thing; And when for good luck you would pray, Nail up your horseshoe the right way." -James T. Fields, in Harper's Magazine for December.
