Our National Responsibility.

enior Oration by Albert D. Elliot, of York

Delivered in the Chapel of Franklia and Marshall College. Every nation has within itself an impelling principle, by which it tends to progressive change in its social and political condition. Its history, like the life of an individual, is exhibited in youth, maturity, and decrepitude. At times it passes through these several changes in a comparatively brief period. In other cases, centuries must clapse before a similar course is gone through. America exhibits one of the few examples of a country still in its youth. She has grown up unnoticed, and while the attention of mankind was directed elsewhere, suddenly assumed a most prominent place among the nations, and the world learned her existence and greatness at almost the same time. The maintenance of that greatness, the preservation of the unity of the republic, the banishment of the follies and Inxuries of foreign nations, involve a responsibility, deep and serious, to each one of her citizens. Not only on the feeling of that responsibility does the present safety of the country depend, but also our brighest anticipation of her future pros-

Elated by our success in the past, we have selfishly forced the growth of our country with more haste than wisdom. We have so complicated our laws that our clear and simple constitution has become under the hands of designing politicians a riddle of mystery. Freedom of speech and of the press has been abused by prejudice, selfish ambition, and party spirit. It is on account of these evils that the true American citizen looks upon our future with alarm ; that he feels the great responsibility resting upon him of keeping unsullied the honor and purity of his constitutional liberty. That there are evils in our political system, no one will deny "yet evil is inseparable from human nature." We should, however, make a distinction between the errors of honest men and those of the demagogue. Of the former, we should ever remember that our countrymen; like ourselves, are frail and erring men, and though they make mistakes, it is only through them we learn wisdom and forethought. Should we forget the advantages that our constitution affords us, or point out in the near future the downfall of our republic, on account of the common imperfections of man? No! Our faults are our own, and our misfortunes the consequences of our faults; but our political advantages are gifts from God, and it is our great duty not only to improve them, but to guard and retain them in all their former purity. All of our defects can be remedied, and surely, there is no danger that they cannot be avoided by a proper care. We should not yet look for perfection. It is only through perseverance that we have reached the position we now hold, so that our disasters, just as those of the past, should teach us more plainly the great responsibility resting upon us. There is, notwithstanding an occasional agitation in our political circles, still a calm, quiet sense of duty among our people, sufficient to maintain the equilibrium. This calm, quiet sense of duty is not seen around places of national election; it is not heard vociferating and applauding in party meetings : nor, it is to be regretted, is it often seen during our political troubles, when ambitious and greedy politicians struggle rather for personal advancement than their country's presperity. But it lives with those who from daily labor are too independent to be bribed, or who are too well content to aspire to popular favor. It is found in the con-scientious man. It is found in the God-fearing one. It deliberates around the domestic fireside, when he, knowing his responsibility as a father, thinks of the posterity who are to live after him. "It is like evil upon the waters of troubled quiet sense of duty is the true citizen. He it is whose presence the man in power trembles. The corrupt politician finds his clear eye fixed upon him, and quails beneath his searching scrutiny. The demagogue hears his voice of warning, and is alarmed for his own safety. It is not surprising in these times, that the party of the honest and truly patriotic is small, smaller than we even think, but it still has without doubt the controlling power from the divisions of the rest. The former are the true citizens. They are the men who hold the country together, and their influence saves the mass from utter corruption. With them we should look above the dust raised by scuffling partisans, to Him on high; look back upon all the triais through which he has safely guided us, and trust our future to Him and to those knowing their responsibility as American citizens. It is not only necessary that we guard ourselves against all corruption of a political nature, but we should at all times encourage principles of peace, both with ourselves and with foreign powers. Our country, separated as it is from the rest of the world, gives us a feeling of security. The blessings showered upon us by peace would be many and no one could set limits to our success as a nation. Truly, the world as it advances in civilization, seems to point to that time when peace shall be universal. War is one of the greatest crimes, and the declaration of war brings with it manifold evils, but not a single redeeming result. It drains our national resources, corrupts our people, and weakens all branches of indus-

In addition to these evils we must beware of all follies and luxuries; for we are never a free people as long as encircled by

Perhaps of all dreaded calamities these are most to be feared. We have but to look back and lift the veil of the dim past to see the ruin that the follies and luxuries of foreign nations have brought upon them. If America persists in time to come in encouraging them as much as she has in the past, it will not be safe to predict her future prosperity. Her fate in that sad event would be the same as that of other countries. Her history would be a blot upon the pages of time. It is the duty of each one of us as citizens, to banish all folly and luxury, that their en-feebling influence may not be felt, that the country may be preserved in all its ancient vigor. When we reflect on America's past and present, we surely cannot help feeling our deep responsibility as a nation All other nations jealous of our success and prosperity rejoice at every symptom of internal dissensions.

We may safely say that our destruction as a people would not only please the enemies of liberty, but would crush forever the hopes of all future republics. When we are able to feel this deep responsibility; when we learn that it is our duty (not as partisans, but as a people) to preserve the nation from all evils, whether of a political or social nature; when Christianity, peace and education shall reign everywhere throughout this broad land : then may we lay aside all fears as to the permanancy of our government, and hand it down to posterity as a trust, sacred not only on account of its hallowed memories, but sacred as a gift from God.

DR. GREENE has successfully treated over 1,000 of the most difficult chronic (so called) incarable cases during a nine month's practice. The most of them had been the rounds of the leading physicians of Lancaster county. DR. GREENE is ready at any time to meet a committee of the Lancaster County Medical Society at the Opera House or clsewhere to discuss the merits of Omnipathy and prove its superiority over all other pathies in vogue.

The people are greatly interested and demand the fullest investigation. Invalids are every week dying in this county whose lives could be saved. Is there any subject about which the masses are more concerned than restoration to health, and the prolonging of their lives?

Dr. G. originated and is now the owner of 29

A BOON TO BOTH SEXES. A REMEDY WITHOUT A RIVAL for all diseases arising from Nervous Debility, Sexual Disorders, over Indulgence of Vicious Habits, Disorders, over Indulgence of Vicious Habits, as well as from the prostration of old age. Its curative properties in violent and chronic forms of the following diseases have been attested to by the most Eminent Physicians:
Dyspepsia, Self Abuse, Headache, Dizziness, Sexual Exhaustion, Spermatorrhæa, General Debility, Impotency, Premature Decay, &c.
It has been in use for over forty years, and is to-day the most popular remedy for the diseases above mentioned in the WORLD. It can be used without regard to diet, is pleasant in onstbility as a lather, thinks of the y who are to live after him. "It stands upon its own merits, as any trial will amply demonstrate. Since 1836 this remedy has always been sold for a much larger price than that for which it is now sold; but owing to the act that the time for the payment of an enormous royalty upon its manufacture has expired, it is offered to the suffering of both sexes at one doilar per package, so as to be within the reach of all; at which price it will be sear to any address tree of further charge.

of Life.

In fact it has proved to be the greatest and best remedy that has ever been discovered. It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach.

It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.
