The Hay Crop.

Those who live near populous centres have always a great advantage over those at a distance, in the comparative ease with which they can dispose of bulky articles. A man who has a pound of gold dust to sell could get it to the Philadelphia market from the Rocky mountains at almost the same percentage of cost as another would from North Carolina. There would be very little difference in the profit to each Engine No. 253 left here on Tuesday night with a train of high class freight Before reaching Philadelphia it passed twenty one trains of slow freight. Re-turning, it passed, about half way between the termini, trains east bound which had left Columbia a couple of hours before it.

William Foss, jr., of Silver Spring, is wanted before 'Squire Becker, to answer a charge of assaulting his sister with a butcher knife. She received a deep cut on her forearm.

The E. E. Lutheran festival in the armory opened auspiciously last evening, and will continue until to-morrow night. The snow spoiled the skating but the sleighing is tip-top, and everybody is out that can harness up an outfit. Owing to the snow P. R. R. trains are cut down about one-third in the number of cars. Squire Evans has started on a drive to West Chester, Pa., to see his daughter, Miss Lillie, who is a student at Darlington's seminary.

Runaway Accident.

On Wednesday while Jacob Espenshade was driving near Eden, his borse slipped and fell and threw Mr. Espenshade out of his wagon, very seriously injuring his left elbow. The horse then ran off, breaking the wagon to pieces. Mr. Espenshade's injuries were attended to by Dr. Bolenius.

Wanamaker's Big Business.

The rapid approach of the Christmas holidays, and the increased trade always occasioned by this season of giving, finds the most extensive preparations to meet it at the Grand Depot of John Wanamaker, 13th and Market to Chestnut streets, Philadelphia. As will be seen by Mr. Wanamaker's attractive advertisements elsewhere printed, the immense stock of this famous establishment is beingleonstantly supplemented and improved by judicious additions and the person desiring to purchase anything suitable and appropriate for a gift, whether his tastes may run to the utilitarian alone or to the beautiful and ornamental, cannot fail to be suited in Mr. Wanamaker's large establishment, which may truly be said to comprise every branch of commercial business. The proprietor of the Grand Depot by his many years' experience in serving the publie has acquired a keen insight into just what that public wants, and his enormous stock always includes the latest novelties in every line as well as the staple goods that hold their own in the market all the time. A feature of Mr. Wanamaker's great business is the complete mail system he has established for the accommodation of his patrons. Persons living at a distance and unable to go to Philadelphia have every assurance of being promptly and satisfactorily served by merely dropping a line and stating their wants. By some some strange thirty years these Troches have been in use, with annually increasing favor. They are not new and untried, but, having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. The Throat.

stand the shadow of a chance in Philadelphia with a New Jerseyman. Transportation would eat the whole thing up. So we find the vegetable gardening generally and the more bulky articles of farm produce are generally those which find the most favor. Of these in the Philaphia market, the hay crop is the most sub-stantial. We doubt whether within a circuit of fifty miles from Philadelphia there is any other crop which as a rule pays bet-ter. Yet it is singular that so profitable a crop does not receive more attention from progressive farmers. To be sure enough of "hay" is brought in to supply the gen-eral want, but if any one drives through the district we have referred to in the growing season, or even stands on the roads leading to the city and notes the stuff which goes under the name, he will surely see that there is an immense field for improvement in judicious grass culture. Still, we must admit that there is from year to year more or 'less improve-

Some years ago we suggested that our agricultural societies might venture to take off a few dollars from the heavy premiums for race horses and devote some little to encouraging the growth of hay; but we have seen no movement in that direction yet. Still it should be done. No better agricultural encouragement could be offered than premiums for good, clean hay, with well-authenticated affidavits as to the quantity yielded per acre. In the absence of any such encouragement our farmers would do well to turn their individual attention to it. What is wanted is some system by which pure grass can be raised-grass free from weeds and worthless trash-and more than this, the nature and wants of the grass-plant in various soils might be so studied as easily to bring up the crop to at least double that which the land now yields in a majority of establishments, has also prepared for the approaching active campaign, and this famous clothing house, at Sixth and Market, Philadelphia, was never better supplied with men and boy-' wear than at present. From the immense stock of clothing here stored it is the next thing to an impossibility not to be able to make a satisfactory selection and to procure a com-plete outfit from the "buff" outward in less than no time. At Oak Hall they sell male apparel of every description, underwear as well is outer clothing, and in this present season as in f rmer days fearlessly challenge competition. Messrs, Wanamaker & Brown, who have so successfully conducted the business of this great house for a period of years, guarantee every article of clothing to be exactly what it is represented to be, and are thankful when persons bring back clothing that is found to be detective in material or make, and thus permit them to rectify the mistake. The same admirable system of mail orders prevails here as at the Grand Depot, and persons in want of clothing at once durable, henest and cheap, find it to their advantage to deal at Wanamaker & Brown's, Oak Hall, Sixth and Market, Philadelphia.

Outer circle, Thirteenth street entrance.

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR. Our assortment of all muslin undergar-ments is as full as at any time of the year; and when the demand for such is not generally strong we are often able to buy at unusual advantage. We have very nearly the same goods the year round ; but prices vary more or less. Now, for example, probably, there is not to be found in this city or in New York muslin undergarments equal to our regular stock except at higher prices. We know of no exception whatever.
