

Lancaster Intelligencer.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 28, 1880.

The Northampton Lynching.

The proverbial blindness of passion was strongly exemplified by that Northampton county crowd of excited men who hung the brutal murderer of the Gogles.

They believed him guilty of a horrible crime upon evidence which seemed to them conclusive. It seems so to every one. There is no present doubt that the verdict of guilty, rendered summarily by the crowd, was a just one.

President GREVY will hold this year a New Year's reception after the American fashion; that is, that the doors of the Elysee will be thrown open to all comers.

WILLIAM L. PEARSON, esq., son of Judge Pearson, is an applicant for supreme court reporter, a position made vacant by the election of Mr. Norris to the state senate.

A number of members of the legal profession interviewed Governor Hoyt a few days ago in Mr. Pearson's interest.

Mr. JEROME B. STILLSON, a prominent New York journalist, died on Sunday. He was born in Buffalo, and was at the time of his death in his fortieth year.

General GARIBOLDI lies day after day on a small iron bed, in a simply furnished room, looking on the sea. He wears the round cap of his portraits and holds a paper fan wherewith to drive away the flies—strange and piteous occupation of a once so doughty warrior.

His eyes are bright, his complexion fresh and healthy, his hair white, his beard pepper and salt. He is sadly paralyzed, even his hands being stiff and distorted.

BLAINE is preparing for a European tour of eight months, leaving this country in March and returning next November. He would go in February if it were not for the close vote in the Senate after March 3.

An apparent authentic statement is to the effect that Mr. Blaine will join his friend, the Hon. William Waller Phelps in Rome, as early in the spring as possible.

Mr. Phelps is now in Italy and it is known that he has been expecting Mr. Blaine and another friend to join him in the spring.

KIDDER & Peabody, bankers, of New York and Boston, have secured the Metropolitan proxies to vote against the present management of Reading railroad, and it is said that they have selected FRANK S. BOND, vice president of the Texas and Pacific railroad, as their candidate for the presidency.

Mr. Bond has been waiting upon and while declining to enter the list as an active candidate for the position, has signified the willingness to take the office if called by the votes of the stockholders.

The election comes off on January 10. Rev. E. H. CHAPIN, D. D., who died in New York yesterday was the oldest working Universalist clergyman in that city.

He was distinguished as a journalist, preacher and lecturer. He made several European tours, the most notable being his visit to Frankfurt-on-the-Main in 1850, when his speech before the Peace Convention of that year commanded marked and universal attention.

Another of his noteworthy orations was that delivered on the occasion of the delivery of battle flags to the custody of the state at the close of the Rebellion.

In the heat of the presidential election canvass of 1860 Mr. Lincoln wrote the following letter to Mr. J. M. Brockman now of Humboldt, Neb.: "SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 25, 1860.—Mr. J. M. Brockman, esq.: Dear Sir: Yours of the 24th, asking 'the best mode of obtaining a thorough knowledge of the law,' is received.

The mode is very simple, though laborious and tedious. It is only to get the books and read and study them carefully. Begin with Blackstone's 'Commentaries,' and after reading it carefully through, say, twice, take up Chitty's 'Pleadings,' Greenleaf's 'Evidence' and Storey's 'Equity,' &c., in succession. Work, work, work is the main thing. Yours, very truly, A. LINCOLN."

GARFIELD is not a very expert horse-man, and he sometimes shows a little absent-mindedness that amuses his neighbors. It is his habit to drive to church on Sundays with his family, unattended by a servant.

HANGING IS NOT TOGETHER "PLAYED OUT" IN THE LEHIGH REGION, EVEN IF A MURDERER IN THOSE PARTS DOES SLIP THE NOOSE OCCASIONALLY.

The savage trial and swift judgment upon the monster who met his fate near Bethlehem prove that Judge Lynch holds court above as well as below Mason and Dixon lines.

It is estimated that the number of killed and wounded in the sanguinary struggle between Chili and Peru, during the past two years, would amount all in all to one-hundred and thirty.

It is rumored that Derwish Pasha, governor of Albania, has been assassinated, which seems to confirm the rumors that a meeting of the Albanian league had condemned him to death.

A collision occurred on Sunday morning between a passenger and a freight train at the state line on the Mobile & Ohio road. The two engines and two brakemen were killed and several others fatally injured.

Three colored miners were caught by the caving in of a portion of the Union coal mine in Chesterfield county, Va., on Friday, while all of the miners but them were out of the shaft.

A collision occurred between two freight trains on the North Carolina air line railroad. Three passengers Philip A. Whitman, Charles Selleg, and a negro named Ned Stroud were killed.

John Barnore a hack-driver, fell from his carriage while returning from a trial in Baltimore. He was instantly killed. He was sixty-four years of age and left an invalid wife, two daughters and one son.

The total population of Vermont, according to the schedules returned to the census office by the enumerators, is 332,286, of which 165,398 females, 291,340 are males, and 105,946 foreign born.

During an altercation in Halifax county, Va., between Marion Wimshis, a white boy, and the negro, James H. Blaine, who attempted to assault Wimshis with a hoe, when the latter dealt him a blow on the neck with the axe almost severing the negro's head from his body.

Within the past forty-eight hours four tramps have been found in a dog kennel in front of the Hotel de Mexico. They were all in the lower part of Richmond, where such characters are in the habit of spending their nights despite all efforts to keep them away.

A middle-aged man named Jacob Seymour, who is a native of Massachusetts, was shifting engine on the Pan-Handle railroad. No one could be found who saw the accident, but the unfortunate man had evidently been walking on the track.

At a Christmas festival held in Sosorro, N. M., on Christmas evening, several Mexicans created a disturbance which was quelled by Mr. Conkling, of the San. Shortly afterward while Conkling and his wife were seated at a table, a negro boy seized them by the arms, while the third fired three shots, killing him instantly.

The assassins fled to a small town in the vicinity, where they are guarded by 2,000 Mexicans. A large posse of Americans well armed and equipped, are on their way into custody even if they have to fight for them.

In Newburyport, Mass., a boiler at E. P. Dodge's shoe factory exploded, killing Engineer James Huntington, of Boston; Daniel Bridges, a stock tifter, and John R. Bley, a heater.

The explosion occurred at 9:30 a. m. Coroner Usher drove to the house in sleigh. The prisoner was taken into the house and carefully guarded by Detective Yohe with revolver in hand.

Threats of hanging the prisoner were continuously made. The people would not listen to any more of the ranting of the fanatic. Help was sent from the fire-alarm office of Bethlehem, who was present, asked the prisoner: "Did you do this dreadful thing?"

"Yes, I did," he answered. "Yes, I did," he said lightly. "Ah, that is the way to get out of a bad predicament. As soon as he was gone the crowd entered and hustled the detective out of the way. A rope was thrown over Snyder's neck, and he was dragged and pushed to the door.

The place was a narrow alley, and the crowd was packed close together. The man addressed Snyder, said: "You will make short work with you; do you want to say a prayer?"

"No, I want to be hung. I never said but one prayer, and that is enough." He fell down the front steps of the building on his back to a tree. The detective found his way to Snyder's side and said, "I can't save you, Snyder." He replied, coolly, "Oh, that's all right." A double clothesline was put around his neck in a noose, and the other end was fastened to the limb of a chestnut tree. Then they pulled the rope. The rope slipped down the limb, and he fell to the ground. Then a man mounted the tree and passed the rope over another limb, and they swung him up again.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28 1880.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 28, 1880.

The Northampton Lynching.

The proverbial blindness of passion was strongly exemplified by that Northampton county crowd of excited men who hung the brutal murderer of the Gogles.

They believed him guilty of a horrible crime upon evidence which seemed to them conclusive. It seems so to every one. There is no present doubt that the verdict of guilty, rendered summarily by the crowd, was a just one.

President GREVY will hold this year a New Year's reception after the American fashion; that is, that the doors of the Elysee will be thrown open to all comers.

WILLIAM L. PEARSON, esq., son of Judge Pearson, is an applicant for supreme court reporter, a position made vacant by the election of Mr. Norris to the state senate.

A number of members of the legal profession interviewed Governor Hoyt a few days ago in Mr. Pearson's interest.

Mr. JEROME B. STILLSON, a prominent New York journalist, died on Sunday. He was born in Buffalo, and was at the time of his death in his fortieth year.

General GARIBOLDI lies day after day on a small iron bed, in a simply furnished room, looking on the sea. He wears the round cap of his portraits and holds a paper fan wherewith to drive away the flies—strange and piteous occupation of a once so doughty warrior.

His eyes are bright, his complexion fresh and healthy, his hair white, his beard pepper and salt. He is sadly paralyzed, even his hands being stiff and distorted.

BLAINE is preparing for a European tour of eight months, leaving this country in March and returning next November. He would go in February if it were not for the close vote in the Senate after March 3.

An apparent authentic statement is to the effect that Mr. Blaine will join his friend, the Hon. William Waller Phelps in Rome, as early in the spring as possible.

Mr. Phelps is now in Italy and it is known that he has been expecting Mr. Blaine and another friend to join him in the spring.

KIDDER & Peabody, bankers, of New York and Boston, have secured the Metropolitan proxies to vote against the present management of Reading railroad, and it is said that they have selected FRANK S. BOND, vice president of the Texas and Pacific railroad, as their candidate for the presidency.

Mr. Bond has been waiting upon and while declining to enter the list as an active candidate for the position, has signified the willingness to take the office if called by the votes of the stockholders.

The election comes off on January 10. Rev. E. H. CHAPIN, D. D., who died in New York yesterday was the oldest working Universalist clergyman in that city.

He was distinguished as a journalist, preacher and lecturer. He made several European tours, the most notable being his visit to Frankfurt-on-the-Main in 1850, when his speech before the Peace Convention of that year commanded marked and universal attention.

Another of his noteworthy orations was that delivered on the occasion of the delivery of battle flags to the custody of the state at the close of the Rebellion.

In the heat of the presidential election canvass of 1860 Mr. Lincoln wrote the following letter to Mr. J. M. Brockman now of Humboldt, Neb.: "SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 25, 1860.—Mr. J. M. Brockman, esq.: Dear Sir: Yours of the 24th, asking 'the best mode of obtaining a thorough knowledge of the law,' is received.

The mode is very simple, though laborious and tedious. It is only to get the books and read and study them carefully. Begin with Blackstone's 'Commentaries,' and after reading it carefully through, say, twice, take up Chitty's 'Pleadings,' Greenleaf's 'Evidence' and Storey's 'Equity,' &c., in succession. Work, work, work is the main thing. Yours, very truly, A. LINCOLN."

GARFIELD is not a very expert horse-man, and he sometimes shows a little absent-mindedness that amuses his neighbors. It is his habit to drive to church on Sundays with his family, unattended by a servant.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28 1880.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 28, 1880.

The Northampton Lynching.

The proverbial blindness of passion was strongly exemplified by that Northampton county crowd of excited men who hung the brutal murderer of the Gogles.

They believed him guilty of a horrible crime upon evidence which seemed to them conclusive. It seems so to every one. There is no present doubt that the verdict of guilty, rendered summarily by the crowd, was a just one.

President GREVY will hold this year a New Year's reception after the American fashion; that is, that the doors of the Elysee will be thrown open to all comers.

WILLIAM L. PEARSON, esq., son of Judge Pearson, is an applicant for supreme court reporter, a position made vacant by the election of Mr. Norris to the state senate.

A number of members of the legal profession interviewed Governor Hoyt a few days ago in Mr. Pearson's interest.

Mr. JEROME B. STILLSON, a prominent New York journalist, died on Sunday. He was born in Buffalo, and was at the time of his death in his fortieth year.

General GARIBOLDI lies day after day on a small iron bed, in a simply furnished room, looking on the sea. He wears the round cap of his portraits and holds a paper fan wherewith to drive away the flies—strange and piteous occupation of a once so doughty warrior.

His eyes are bright, his complexion fresh and healthy, his hair white, his beard pepper and salt. He is sadly paralyzed, even his hands being stiff and distorted.

BLAINE is preparing for a European tour of eight months, leaving this country in March and returning next November. He would go in February if it were not for the close vote in the Senate after March 3.

An apparent authentic statement is to the effect that Mr. Blaine will join his friend, the Hon. William Waller Phelps in Rome, as early in the spring as possible.

Mr. Phelps is now in Italy and it is known that he has been expecting Mr. Blaine and another friend to join him in the spring.

KIDDER & Peabody, bankers, of New York and Boston, have secured the Metropolitan proxies to vote against the present management of Reading railroad, and it is said that they have selected FRANK S. BOND, vice president of the Texas and Pacific railroad, as their candidate for the presidency.

Mr. Bond has been waiting upon and while declining to enter the list as an active candidate for the position, has signified the willingness to take the office if called by the votes of the stockholders.

The election comes off on January 10. Rev. E. H. CHAPIN, D. D., who died in New York yesterday was the oldest working Universalist clergyman in that city.

He was distinguished as a journalist, preacher and lecturer. He made several European tours, the most notable being his visit to Frankfurt-on-the-Main in 1850, when his speech before the Peace Convention of that year commanded marked and universal attention.

Another of his noteworthy orations was that delivered on the occasion of the delivery of battle flags to the custody of the state at the close of the Rebellion.

In the heat of the presidential election canvass of 1860 Mr. Lincoln wrote the following letter to Mr. J. M. Brockman now of Humboldt, Neb.: "SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 25, 1860.—Mr. J. M. Brockman, esq.: Dear Sir: Yours of the 24th, asking 'the best mode of obtaining a thorough knowledge of the law,' is received.

The mode is very simple, though laborious and tedious. It is only to get the books and read and study them carefully. Begin with Blackstone's 'Commentaries,' and after reading it carefully through, say, twice, take up Chitty's 'Pleadings,' Greenleaf's 'Evidence' and Storey's 'Equity,' &c., in succession. Work, work, work is the main thing. Yours, very truly, A. LINCOLN."

GARFIELD is not a very expert horse-man, and he sometimes shows a little absent-mindedness that amuses his neighbors. It is his habit to drive to church on Sundays with his family, unattended by a servant.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28 1880.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 28, 1880.

The Northampton Lynching.

The proverbial blindness of passion was strongly exemplified by that Northampton county crowd of excited men who hung the brutal murderer of the Gogles.

They believed him guilty of a horrible crime upon evidence which seemed to them conclusive. It seems so to every one. There is no present doubt that the verdict of guilty, rendered summarily by the crowd, was a just one.

President GREVY will hold this year a New Year's reception after the American fashion; that is, that the doors of the Elysee will be thrown open to all comers.

WILLIAM L. PEARSON, esq., son of Judge Pearson, is an applicant for supreme court reporter, a position made vacant by the election of Mr. Norris to the state senate.

A number of members of the legal profession interviewed Governor Hoyt a few days ago in Mr. Pearson's interest.

Mr. JEROME B. STILLSON, a prominent New York journalist, died on Sunday. He was born in Buffalo, and was at the time of his death in his fortieth year.

General GARIBOLDI lies day after day on a small iron bed, in a simply furnished room, looking on the sea. He wears the round cap of his portraits and holds a paper fan wherewith to drive away the flies—strange and piteous occupation of a once so doughty warrior.

His eyes are bright, his complexion fresh and healthy, his hair white, his beard pepper and salt. He is sadly paralyzed, even his hands being stiff and distorted.

BLAINE is preparing for a European tour of eight months, leaving this country in March and returning next November. He would go in February if it were not for the close vote in the Senate after March 3.

An apparent authentic statement is to the effect that Mr. Blaine will join his friend, the Hon. William Waller Phelps in Rome, as early in the spring as possible.

Mr. Phelps is now in Italy and it is known that he has been expecting Mr. Blaine and another friend to join him in the spring.

KIDDER & Peabody, bankers, of New York and Boston, have secured the Metropolitan proxies to vote against the present management of Reading railroad, and it is said that they have selected FRANK S. BOND, vice president of the Texas and Pacific railroad, as their candidate for the presidency.

Mr. Bond has been waiting upon and while declining to enter the list as an active candidate for the position, has signified the willingness to take the office if called by the votes of the stockholders.

The election comes off on January 10. Rev. E. H. CHAPIN, D. D., who died in New York yesterday was the oldest working Universalist clergyman in that city.

He was distinguished as a journalist, preacher and lecturer. He made several European tours, the most notable being his visit to Frankfurt-on-the-Main in 1850, when his speech before the Peace Convention of that year commanded marked and universal attention.

Another of his noteworthy orations was that delivered on the occasion of the delivery of battle flags to the custody of the state at the close of the Rebellion.

In the heat of the presidential election canvass of 1860 Mr. Lincoln wrote the following letter to Mr. J. M. Brockman now of Humboldt, Neb.: "SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 25, 1860.—Mr. J. M. Brockman, esq.: Dear Sir: Yours of the 24th, asking 'the best mode of obtaining a thorough knowledge of the law,' is received.

The mode is very simple, though laborious and tedious. It is only to get the books and read and study them carefully. Begin with Blackstone's 'Commentaries,' and after reading it carefully through, say, twice, take up Chitty's 'Pleadings,' Greenleaf's 'Evidence' and Storey's 'Equity,' &c., in succession. Work, work, work is the main thing. Yours, very truly, A. LINCOLN."

GARFIELD is not a very expert horse-man, and he sometimes shows a little absent-mindedness that amuses his neighbors. It is his habit to drive to church on Sundays with his family, unattended by a servant.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28 1880.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 28, 1880.

The Northampton Lynching.

The proverbial blindness of passion was strongly exemplified by that Northampton county crowd of excited men who hung the brutal murderer of the Gogles.

They believed him guilty of a horrible crime upon evidence which seemed to them conclusive. It seems so to every one. There is no present doubt that the verdict of guilty, rendered summarily by the crowd, was a just one.

President GREVY will hold this year a New Year's reception after the American fashion; that is, that the doors of the Elysee will be thrown open to all comers.

WILLIAM L. PEARSON, esq., son of Judge Pearson, is an applicant for supreme court reporter, a position made vacant by the election of Mr. Norris to the state senate.

A number of members of the legal profession interviewed Governor Hoyt a few days ago in Mr. Pearson's interest.

Mr. JEROME B. STILLSON, a prominent New York journalist, died on Sunday. He was born in Buffalo, and was at the time of his death in his fortieth year.

General GARIBOLDI lies day after day on a small iron bed, in a simply furnished room, looking on the sea. He wears the round cap of his portraits and holds a paper fan wherewith to drive away the flies—strange and piteous occupation of a once so doughty warrior.

His eyes are bright, his complexion fresh and healthy, his hair white, his beard pepper and salt. He is sadly paralyzed, even his hands being stiff and distorted.

BLAINE is preparing for a European tour of eight months, leaving this country in March and returning next November. He would go in February if it were not for the close vote in the Senate after March 3.

An apparent authentic statement is to the effect that Mr. Blaine will join his friend, the Hon. William Waller Phelps in Rome, as early in the spring as possible.

Mr. Phelps is now in Italy and it is known that he has been expecting Mr. Blaine and another friend to join him in the spring.

KIDDER & Peabody, bankers, of New York and Boston, have secured the Metropolitan proxies to vote against the present management of Reading railroad, and it is said that they have selected FRANK S. BOND, vice president of the Texas and Pacific railroad, as their candidate for the presidency.

Mr. Bond has been waiting upon and while declining to enter the list as an active candidate for the position, has signified the willingness to take the office if called by the votes of the stockholders.

The election comes off on January 10. Rev. E. H. CHAPIN, D. D., who died in New York yesterday was the oldest working Universalist clergyman in that city.

He was distinguished as a journalist, preacher and lecturer. He made several European tours, the most notable being his visit to Frankfurt-on-the-Main in 1850, when his speech before the Peace Convention of that year commanded marked and universal attention.

Another of his noteworthy orations was that delivered on the occasion of the delivery of battle flags to the custody of the state at the close of the Rebellion.

In the heat of the presidential election canvass of 1860 Mr. Lincoln wrote the following letter to Mr. J. M. Brockman now of Humboldt, Neb.: "SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 25, 1860.—Mr. J. M. Brockman, esq.: Dear Sir: Yours of the 24th, asking 'the best mode of obtaining a thorough knowledge of the law,' is received.

The mode is very simple, though laborious and tedious. It is only to get the books and read and study them carefully. Begin with Blackstone's 'Commentaries,' and after reading it carefully through, say, twice, take up Chitty's 'Pleadings,' Greenleaf's 'Evidence' and Storey's 'Equity,' &c., in succession. Work, work, work is the main thing. Yours, very truly, A. LINCOLN."

GARFIELD is not a very expert horse-man, and he sometimes shows a little absent-mindedness that amuses his neighbors. It is his habit to drive to church on Sundays with his family, unattended by a servant.

LANCASTER DAILY INTELLIGENCER TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28 1880.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 28, 1880.

The Northampton Lynching.

The proverbial blindness of passion was strongly exemplified by that Northampton county crowd of excited men who hung the brutal murderer of the Gogles.

They believed him guilty of a horrible crime upon evidence which seemed to them conclusive. It seems so to every one. There is no present doubt that the verdict of guilty, rendered summarily by the crowd, was a just one.

President GREVY will hold this year a New Year's reception after the American fashion; that is, that the doors of the Elysee will be thrown open to all comers.

WILLIAM L. PEARSON, esq., son of Judge Pearson, is an applicant for supreme court reporter, a position made vacant by the election of Mr. Norris to the state senate.

A number of members of the legal profession interviewed Governor Hoyt a few days ago in Mr. Pearson's interest.

Mr. JEROME B. STILLSON, a prominent New York journalist, died on Sunday. He was born in Buffalo, and was at the time of his death in his fortieth year.

General GARIBOLDI lies day after day on a small iron bed, in a simply furnished room, looking on the sea. He wears the round cap of his portraits and holds a paper fan wherewith to drive away the flies—strange and piteous occupation of a once so doughty warrior.

His eyes are bright, his complexion fresh and healthy, his hair white, his beard pepper and salt. He is sadly paralyzed, even his hands being stiff and distorted.

BLAINE is preparing for a European tour of eight months, leaving this country in March and returning next November. He would go in February if it were not for the close vote in the Senate after March 3.

An apparent authentic statement is to the effect that Mr. Blaine will join his friend, the Hon. William Waller Phelps in Rome, as early in the spring as possible.

Mr. Phelps is now in Italy and it is known that he has been expecting Mr. Blaine and another friend to join him in the spring.

KIDDER & Peabody, bankers, of New York and Boston, have secured the Metropolitan proxies to vote against the present management of Reading railroad, and it is said that they have selected FRANK S. BOND, vice president of the Texas and Pacific railroad, as their candidate for the presidency.

Mr. Bond has been waiting upon and while declining to enter the list as an active candidate for the position, has signified the willingness to take the office if called by the votes of the stockholders.

The election comes off on January 10. Rev. E. H. CHAPIN, D. D., who died in New York yesterday was the oldest working Universalist clergyman in that city.

He was distinguished as a journalist, preacher and lecturer. He made several European tours, the most notable being his visit to Frankfurt-on-the-Main in 1850, when his speech before the Peace Convention of that year commanded marked and universal attention.

Another of his noteworthy orations was that delivered on the occasion of the delivery of battle flags to the custody of the state at the close of the Rebellion.

In the heat of the presidential election canvass of 1860 Mr. Lincoln wrote the following letter to Mr. J. M. Brockman now of Humboldt, Neb.: "SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 25, 1860.—Mr. J. M. Brockman, esq.: Dear Sir: Yours of the 24th, asking 'the best mode of obtaining a thorough knowledge of the law,' is received.

The mode is very simple, though laborious and tedious. It is only to get the books and read and study them carefully. Begin with Blackstone's 'Commentaries,' and after reading it carefully through, say, twice, take up Chitty's 'Pleadings,' Greenleaf's 'Evidence' and Storey's 'Equity,' &c., in succession. Work, work, work is the main thing. Yours, very truly, A. LINCOLN."

GARFIELD is not a very expert horse-man, and he sometimes shows a little absent-mindedness that amuses his neighbors. It is his habit to drive to church on Sundays with his family, unattended by a servant.

MURDER AND LYNCH LAW.

A BLOODY CRIME AND QUICK RE-TRIBUTION.

A Man and His Wife Murdered in Cold Blood by Lynch Law. A Strange Tragedy.

The state of Pennsylvania has been stained by the first lynching that has ever occurred within its borders. Jacob Gogle and Annie, his wife, with their three children, aged respectively 9, 12 and 16 years, a quiet German family, lived in the little hamlet of Santee's Mills, four miles north of Bethlehem, on the Lehigh & Susquehanna railroad.

It is rumored that Derwish Pasha, governor of Albania, has been assassinated, which seems to confirm the rumors that a meeting of the Albanian league had condemned him to death.

A collision occurred on Sunday morning between a passenger and a freight train at the state line on the Mobile & Ohio road. The two engines and two brakemen were killed and several others fatally injured.

Three colored miners were caught by the caving in of a portion of the Union coal mine in Chesterfield county, Va., on Friday, while all of the miners but them were out of the shaft.

A collision occurred between two freight trains on the North Carolina air line railroad. Three passengers Philip A. Whitman, Charles Selleg, and a negro named Ned Stroud were killed.

John Barnore a hack-driver, fell from his carriage while returning from a trial in Baltimore. He was instantly killed. He was sixty-four years of age and left an invalid wife, two daughters and one son.

The total population of Vermont, according to the schedules returned to the census office by the enumerators, is 332,286, of which 16