Here and There and Everywhere. The mayor discharged six bums this morning, gave one drunk 30 days and three 20 days each. Owen Lamb, one of the latter, had been picked up for the third time within a week and had four fits in the station house last night; Dr. Fitzpatrick fixed him up.

H. W. Hartman, son of John I. Hartman, a clerk in the Lancaster County nasional bank, celebrated his majority on Saturday evening by a handsome supper to his father's residence.

The A. M. E. fair was crowded to overflowing on Saturday night. The musical department presided over by Miss Addie Lebar, created much interest. Other departments that have attracted much interest and patronage are the tin table, managed by Mrs. Annie Jones and Miss Sarah Jackson; the dry goods table by Mrs. Hacriet Wilson and Mrs. Elizabeth Barber and the lunch table by Mrs. Annie Henry. The receipts were $28, and the fair continues all the week. Go!

The presentation of "My Partner" at the opera house on Saturday night was largely attended. The play, like most portrayals of California life, brings out female frailty and mauly chivalry very in tensely. The company that produced here played it well, so that its strength, as well as its weak points, were strikingly set

DRUMORE ITEMS

From Our Regular Lower End Corespondent Last Saturday morning, fifty of our young gentlemen and ladies, with baskets bursting with their pressed-in loads of general provisions, took Mr. Anson Ambler by surprise, at his home, near Liberty Square, where they spent a most enjoyable day, it being the twenty-fourth birthday of Mr. Ambler. The dinner produced by the ladies from their baskets was excellent, and the number of times the tables were replenished was really marvelous, In fact, several of the young men almost "perished in the attempt" to eat their way through the not-to-be-seen-over mountains of cakes. Everybody was in a good humor and had a good time. The girls were good (we're a judge of the former). the sleighing was good, and everybody that Mr. Ambler had been born, that they were his friends.

The INTELLIGENCER informs us of the death of the Buckeye Blacksmith-his bell ws-pole is broken, his anvil cracked, his fire gone out, his hammer dropped off its handle. Who'll be the next? Dr. Gatchell, perhaps. It is to be hoped that the "3. B." got forgiveness for the most of the political lies he told our credulous Republicans last fall-the scythe reached him too soon for him to have obtained ablution for them all.

My. Jacob Carrigan died on the 14th inst., at his residence, near Liberty Square, in the fifty-sixth year of his age, and was buried at Providence on Monday. Mr. Carrigan was widely known, being one of our oldest blacksmiths, working at Fairfield several years when he was a young man, and moved to Liberty Square, where he carried on a very extensive trade till a few years ago, when he retired, to end his days as a farmer. The Democracy by his death, loses a steadfast adherent and our community an honest man.

Shoot the Dog. While Mr. Isaac N. Bender, an attache of the Intelligencer office, was passing along West Grant street in rear of the central market, at noon to-day, a large Newfoundland dog, belonging to the boarding stable back of the Muhlenberg estate, jumped out at him and seizing him by the left arm his teeth penetrated throught two thick coats and underelothing, and inflicted an ugly wound in the

Shoot that dog! Dr. McCultough's Sermon

Rev. Dr. McCullough, appointed by Bishop Shanahan as assistant pastor at St. Mary's, this city, said mass and preached his initial sermon as pastor, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, his text being from the 4th capter, 17th verse of St. Matthew and his theme, "The necessity of repentence." The reverend doctor is a man of fine presence and great learning, and an orator of high excellence. The large congregation in attendance listened to him with close attention and his sermon made a marked impression.

Journalistic, The Bedford Press, hitherto owned by Mr. John Lutz, has been sold to Messrs D. W. Mullin and W. K. Buckingham. Mr. Buckingham is an experienced journalist and a scholarly writer, formerly of the staff of the INTELLIGENCER, and since his removal from this city identified with the journalism of Altoona and Bedford.

A New "Poem" by Mark Twain. To a sprightly little paper published during a recent fair in Buffalo, N. Y., Mark Twain contributed the following :

A TALE. For Struggling Young Poets. Well, sir, once there was a young fellow who believed he was a poet; but the main difficulty with him was to get anybody else to believe it. Many and many a poet has split on that rock—if it is a rock. Many and many a poet will split on it yet, thank God. The young fellow I speak of used the customary devicesspeak and with the customary results-to wit: He competed for prizes, and didn't take any; he sent specimens of his poetry to famous people and asked for a "candid opinion," meaning a puff and didn't get it; he took advantage of dead persons and obituaried them in ostensible octry, but it made him no friends-certainly none among the dead. But at last he heard of another chance; there was going to be a Homoopathic fair in Buffalo, accompanied by the usual inoffensive paper, and the editor of that paper offered a prize of $2 for the best original poem on the usual topic of "Spring"—no poem to be considered unless it should possess positive value.

Well, sir, he shock up his muse, he introduced into her a rousing charge of in-spiration from his jug, and then sat down and dashed off the following madrigal just as easy as living-HAIL! BEAUTEOUS, BOUNTEOUS, GLADSOME SPRING

Did he take the prize? Yes, he took the prize. The poem and its title didn't seem to go together very well, but no matter, that sort of thing has happened before; it didn't rhyme, neither was it blank verse for the blanks were all filled--yet it took the prize for this reason-no other poem of fered was really worth more than about $4.50, whereas there was no getting around the petrified fact that this one was worth $10. In truth, there was not a banker in the whole town who was willing to invest a cent in those other poems, but every one of them said this one was good, sound, sea-worthy poetry, and worth its face.

Such is the way in which that strug-Therefore, let other struggling young

BRANDY AS A MEDICINE. This now much abused Alcoholic Stimulant was never intended as a beverage, but to be used as a medicine of great potency in the cure of some of the destructive diseases which sweep away their annual thousands of victima. With a purely philanthropic motive we present to the favorable notice of invalida—especially those afflicted with that miserable disease Dyspepsia, a specific remedy, which is nothing more or less than

In cases of Dyspepsia, we can summon numbers of witnesses—one case in particular we cite:— A hard-working farmer had been addicted with an exhaustive Dyspepsia for a number of years; his stomach would reject almost every kind of food; he had sour eructations constantly—no appetite—in fact, he was obliged to restrict his diet to crackers and stale bread, and as a beverage he used McGrann's Root Beer. He is a Mcthodist, and then, as now, preached at times, and in his discourses often declaimed earnestly against all kinds of strong dirink. When advised to try

Reigart's Old Brandy, In his case, he looked up with astonishment, but after hearing of its wonderful effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man with
