MARIETTA NEWS.

From Our Regular Correspondent. The river is again tightened up at the shores, after having been weakened by the rise of about two feet, that was caused by last week's heavy rain. The ice is very thick, and some apprehension is felt, as to the manner of its exit in the spring, for very heavy rains in the mountain, or a sudden warm spell, may cause a great amount of damage. The ice is in an excellent condition for skating; for several miles up and down and the material would allow. Mr. Kauffelt is 72 years old. How many of the coming generation will be able to perform the same task at his age?

Quite a novelty has been tried here in skating. By holding a small sail the experimentor was taken along with great speed and was able to move in a direction that was close to the wind's eye. Boyton should improve on this and he wouldn't have to be out of a job in winter time as he is now.

FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

A Brakeman Beheaded and Mangled. This morning Track Walker Richard McCarthy found a dead body lying on the Pennsylvania railroad near Mill creek water station, which proved to be that of Brakeman Wm. B. Poorman, a resident of Middletown. The head of the unfortunate man was terribly crushed and dissevered from the body. Both legs were cut off near the ankle and one arm was also cut off. The body was brought so Lancaster on the construction train and removed to the undertaking establishment of Widmyer & Ricksecker. Coroner Mishler was notified and empanelled the following named jurors to hold an inquest : Jacob Stauffer, T. J. Buch, John Carpenter, G. W. Keene, Wm. Hauck and Levi H. Longenecker. Dr. Compton acted as coroner's physician. The body was viewed by the jury and the evidence of Richard McCarthy, who found the body, was heard. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death. It is supposed that Poorman while on duty made a misstep or lost his hold and fell, There is a report that blood marks were discovered all the way from Parkesburg to the spot where the body was found, which induces some to suppose that the unfortunate man may have been fallen or been hurt near Parkesburg and clung to the train until near the point at which the body was found. Mr. Poorman was a man of apparently 28 years of age. His body after being cof-fined will be sent to Middletowa for bur-

Judgment Against Mr. Liller, Alderman Spurrier yesterday afternoon heard the complaint of Henry Welf against Christian Liller for shaving on Sunday. The evidence was somewhat conflicting. Henry Wolf, presecutor, and two other witnesses for the prosecution, swore that they saw men sitting in Liller's chairs after 12 o'clock midnight en Saturday. The town clock had struck and the railroad clock also pointed to after midnight. The men were on the chairs and the barbers were standing in front of them, but they could not swear that they were being shaved at the time. Mr. Liller and two of his employees swore, just as positively, that no one was shaved in the saloon after midnight, the last customer having been disposed of before the clock struck. They admitted, however, that the shop was lit up and that that they spent ses before the lights were put out. As the shop is connected with Mr. Liller's house it is no unusual thing for members of the family to be there. At 7 o'clock last evening the alderman gave judgment

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Refore Judge Livingston. Benjamin D. Moyer vs. Henry Neff The plaintiff's testimony closed yesterday afternoon and the defense then opened They first offered a grant from Wm. Penn to Jacob Miller, formerly of Switzerland, of 1000 acres of land, a part of which were the farms of defendant and plaintiff. The several transfers were recited and it was shown that in April, 1874, Mr. Neff purchased the farm and mill, which he now occupies from Jacob Hildebrand.

Mr. Hildebrand is a surveyor and resides in the borough of Strasburg. He testified that in 1871, at which time he was the trustee for David Brackbill, a freshet washed away part of the dam at the mill now occupied by the defendant, and he rebuilt it as far as the means of the estate was again partly carried away by the ice. In 1874 Mr. Neff purchased the property stantial manner, to its present height, which from the observation of the witness, had not raised the water in the level between the two mills to a greater height than it was in 1871 and prior. The Pequea creek is a sluggish stream on all the levels except at a point about three quarters of a mile east of Neff's mill, where the course of water is narrowed from 85 or 90 feet to 35 feet, by a sand bar, which extends from the south bank, for about 50 feet out into the creek. This sand bar has been greatly enlarged during the Samuel Miller, of the Steamboat past five years by earth, which hotel, is also looking for the deaf and is washed into the creek from itself into the creek; at the point where the water from the former turns up stream, to round the eastern point of the sand bar, and this with the obstruction made by the sand bar, creates dead or back water in the creek and tail race of Mover's mill, and makes the race higher than the water in the creek and on the north side of the sand bar. The witness felt certain that the mill dam of Mr. Neff had not been raised, as the fall in the pen stock was four feet one inch high in 1871 and it was the same when witness examined it this they found they had between fifty and week. Witness did not think Moyer's mill had lost much power, although he never took any particular notice of it before 1871: he believed that if the sand bar was not in the creek at the tail race, there would be > no back water in it. The defendant and a number of witnesses were called to corroberate Mr. Hildebrand, for the purpose of proving the allegations of the defense, viz., that the dam has not been raised to a greater height, by the defendant, than it originally was; that Mr. Neff's dam does not cause the dead water in Mr. Mover's tail race but that it is made by the sand bar and run which are between the two mills and that the power of Mr. Moyer's mill has not been reduced by this back-water nearly as much as testified to by the plaintiff. The defense had not closed their testimony when court adjourned and they will not likely finish

OBITUARY.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Boos. Mrs. Philip Boos died suddenly of paralysis yesterday at the family residence, Love lane, near the furnace, in the 63d year of her age. She appeared to be in her usual health, and arose yesterday morning at an early hour to attend to her the stool on which she was sitting. She Miss Cora Green, after visiting her relatives carried into the house and medical unconscious and remained in that condition until half-past one o'clock yesterday afternoon when she died.

Mrs. Boos was a native of Hesse Darmstadt, Germany, and was nurse and fostermother to Prince Louis, of Hesse, who has since succeeded to the title of Louis, Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt. During his life the Grand Duke has given repeated instances of the affection which he has always entertained for Mrs. Boos. At short intervals he has sent her parents letters and other tokens of his regard; and only a year or two ago the Grand Duke sent her an autograph letter and photographs of himself, his wife (the Princess all their children.

Concerning Church Debts.

In a little book of 275 pages, published by I. K. Funk & Co., and for sale at Fon Dersmith's book store, Rev. Sylvanus Stall, the new pastor of St. John's Latheran church, this city, treats in detail the question of " How to Pay Church Debts, and How to Keep Churches out of Debt." more important and a more neglected subject can hardly be found within the range of pastoral duty. Rev. Stall's plan recommends itself by his cita-tion on the title page of the text from Rom, xiii, 8, "Owe no man anything." The question is tersely stated in the chapters showing the evil effects of church debts and how churches get in debt and there is some sharp criticism in the contrast between the "defrauding plan" of getting rid of debt and "God's plan." The questions of free pews, church fairs, begging sermons, committees for church work, Sabbath collections, systematic giving, church repairs and extravagance, motives in giving, and kindred topics, are discussed in manner that is entertaining and profitable to clergy and layman, Ronaway Accident. This morning while one of George Levan's three horse teams was crossing thePennsylvania railroad in rear of Levan's woolen mill, North Prince street, a train of cars came along. To avoid an accident the driver whipped up his horses, and at the same moment the locomotive whistle was blown which seared the animals, and they ran off. Passing through the alley adjoining the mill, the horses started down Prince street. One of them fell and the rear running gears of the wagon separated the front part. The horses ran with the pole and front wheels as far as Vine street, where they were caught. The wagon was a good deal broken, and one of the horses was somewhat injured. The driver escaped injury.

THE HOTTS' RECEPTION.

A Brilliant Social Event in Harrisburg.

The first public reception given by Gov-

the society of the capital seat, as well as many guests from other localities last night. The most elaborate arrangements had been made for the event. The floral decorations were in charge of a Philadelphia artist, and the displny of both cut and natural flowers was the finest ever seen at the executive mansion, and excited and most unqualified praise from those present. From eight until ten o'clock there was almost a constant stream of arrivals, which included the bon ton society of Harrisburg, members of the state government and Legislature, and invited guests from abroad. The governor and wife 'received" in the south reception parlor, and were assisted by Attorney-General and Mrs. Palmer. Both ladies were similarly attired in black silk velvet, en train and point lace. The governor dispensed the favors of host in the cordial but dignified style for which he is noted, and seconded of restraint. Miss Maud Hoyt, the daughter of the governor, was dressed in pure white silk, with point lace, and together with Miss Dowd, a relative from New York, contributed largely to the enjoyability of the occasion. Among the more prominent guests were a party from ham and wife, and Mrs. Stanley Woodward. There were also present Miss ting, jr., of New York, and the follow ing members of the governor's staff : Ad utant General Latta, Colonel Hancock and Colonel A. W. Taylor, of Philadelphia; Colonel B. F. Eshleman, of Laneas and M. J. Creighton, superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad, of Philadelphia. culating through the rooms were Hen. Wm. H Armstrong, of Williamsport, and Hon. John Cessna, of Bedford. The attendance on the part of both senators and representatives was large, many of them being accompanied by their wives and daughters. An orehestra provided music for dancing,

From Kentucky Into the Gretna Green of Ohio Just in Front of an Angry Father. A curious story, analogous in part to that of Lord Ullin's daughter, though with happily a more satisfactory termination, comes from Maysville, Ky. Maysville is on the Ohio river, and just opposite in Ohio is the little town of Aberdeen, a that there may be some judicial ruling on favorite resort for runaway couples from the question of the annual meeting to- the other state. By some peculiarity of the law justices of the peace there have authority to marry couples applying whose parents live outside the state, whether the SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 27 .- Vankeys applicants are of age or not. The act was an unfortunate one, for he lost his balance and tumbled into the river. The bride screamed, and the crew tished Mr. Scraggs out with a boat book. A safe landing was at last made, and with the muddy water of the Ohio fast congealing upon his clothes, his teeth chattering, and his knees trembling, the young man led the young woman up the bank, and both hurried to the hospitable mansion of 'Squire Massie Beasley, where they were married.

A Foot and His Money.

Wm. Grossman, the Lehigh county German who fell heir to $25,000 and led a high life on it, has now comparatively nothing. One poor old horse which, with boot-money he received for a fine animal and cow, which he obtained for a fine new sleigh, constitutes his live stock. Carriages and sleighs are gone and a $1,000 mortgage rests upon his property. He continues to live extravagantly, and ere long will be as poor as when he first came to this country eight years ago.
