The Circulation of the Blood.

The subject of the lecture by Dr. Crumbaugh last evening before the class in physiology of the Young Men's Christian association, was the "Circulation of the Blood." The wonderful apparatus of the circulation-including the heart, the arteries, the venus and the capillary systemwas treated at length and very clearly, as well as the composition of the blood itself. At the close of the lecture the doctor showed, under high magnifying powers, the difference in shape between the red corpuscies of the human blood and those of the frog, the latter resembling a weaver's shuttle and having a nucleus, while the former are nearly round and without nucleus. The powers used were about 400 diameters or 160,000 surfaces.

A Correction.

In our report of the sudden death of Joseph Eierman, from heart disease, at Fritz's saloon on Poplar street, Saturday, it was stated that Andrew Gerz and James Eichler were at the time engaged in a scuffle. We are assured, on the best anthority, that Mr. Eichler was not engaged in a scuffle with anybody, was not even present, and was not within a mile of Fritz's saloon at the time. Another young man, whose name is not given, was mistaker for Mr. Eichler. It is due to Mr. Eichler to have this correction made.
