

THIRD EDITION.

MONDAY EVENING, FEB. 14, 1881.

WEATHER INDICATIONS. WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—For the New England and Middle Atlantic states, cold, clear or partly cloudy weather, northerly winds and rising barometer.

STILL CHAMPION.

Hanlan Wins Easily in His Race With Laycock. LONDON, Feb. 14.—Hanlan won easily by four lengths. The betting was slight at 2 to 1 on the winner. Hanlan jumped away with the lead immediately, and was never overtaken.

Philadelphia Market. PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14.—Flour steady but quiet; superfine 25 1/2 c; extra No. 1 24 1/2 c; No. 2 23 1/2 c; No. 3 22 1/2 c; No. 4 21 1/2 c; No. 5 20 1/2 c; No. 6 19 1/2 c; No. 7 18 1/2 c; No. 8 17 1/2 c; No. 9 16 1/2 c; No. 10 15 1/2 c; No. 11 14 1/2 c; No. 12 13 1/2 c; No. 13 12 1/2 c; No. 14 11 1/2 c; No. 15 10 1/2 c; No. 16 9 1/2 c; No. 17 8 1/2 c; No. 18 7 1/2 c; No. 19 6 1/2 c; No. 20 5 1/2 c; No. 21 4 1/2 c; No. 22 3 1/2 c; No. 23 2 1/2 c; No. 24 1 1/2 c; No. 25 1 c; No. 26 1/2 c; No. 27 1 c; No. 28 1/2 c; No. 29 1 c; No. 30 1/2 c.

MARKETS.

New York. New York Market. NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Flour steady, with light export and home trade inquiry; choice 23 1/2 c; extra 22 1/2 c; No. 1 21 1/2 c; No. 2 20 1/2 c; No. 3 19 1/2 c; No. 4 18 1/2 c; No. 5 17 1/2 c; No. 6 16 1/2 c; No. 7 15 1/2 c; No. 8 14 1/2 c; No. 9 13 1/2 c; No. 10 12 1/2 c; No. 11 11 1/2 c; No. 12 10 1/2 c; No. 13 9 1/2 c; No. 14 8 1/2 c; No. 15 7 1/2 c; No. 16 6 1/2 c; No. 17 5 1/2 c; No. 18 4 1/2 c; No. 19 3 1/2 c; No. 20 2 1/2 c; No. 21 1 1/2 c; No. 22 1 c; No. 23 1/2 c; No. 24 1 c; No. 25 1/2 c; No. 26 1 c; No. 27 1/2 c; No. 28 1 c; No. 29 1/2 c; No. 30 1 c.

of George Krug Schoenberger and daughter of the late Wm. Hamilton, of Lancaster county, died a few days ago at her residence, at Chiffon, a suburb of Cincinnati. Mrs. Schenberger was a native of this county, a woman of most amiable qualities and possessed of all the accomplishments which great wealth and high social position afford. She was well-known and greatly beloved by many of the best families of this city, with several of whom she was related.

Deaths of William Marshall. The subject of this notice, who died yesterday at his home on West Orange street, after a lingering illness, was born in Lancaster city on Jan. 12, 1812, and at the age of 13 was apprenticed to the trade of shoemaker to Charles Gillette. He worked at his trade more or less during his whole life, all the years of which were spent in this city. With the removal of Franklin and Marshall college to Lancaster, he was appointed janitor of the institution, first when on time street and afterwards at the building now occupied by the college. He continued there until about 1868, and was highly popular with the faculty and students.

Death of Mrs. Ruth. Mrs. Ruth, widow of Francis Ruth and mother of Benjamin and Frank Ruth, well-known residents of this city, died at her residence, 112 West Orange street, on Saturday, the 13th day of her age. Mrs. Ruth's maiden name was Money, and her father was for many years the manager of the Cornwell business. She was the mother of nine children, eight of whom survive her, and all of whom except one are married and reside in this county. The husband of Mrs. Ruth for many years was a partner in a store owned by Rev. John Kohl, north of this city, and on another farm, on the Columbia pike some distance west of Lancaster. They were removed to Lancaster when they lived here since Mrs. Ruth was a general and pious woman, kindly known and much esteemed by a large circle of friends in this city and the northern part of the county. She was a member of the First Reformed church of this city.

THE LOCAL TOBACCO TRADE. The crop of 1880 of the Pequea and Ready for shipping. The warm, rainy and foggy weather of the past week afforded the tobacco growers a more favorable opportunity than they have heretofore enjoyed of taking from the poles the leaves for market. Their crops, many of which have been hanging in the sheds high and dry since last September, probably nearly the entire crop has been taken from the poles and no doubt record prices for market will be put into the best shape possible to tempt the careful and timid buyer to purchase it. And as the great snow drifts which for two long months blocked up the country roads have been dissipated and the winds which once howled and mud will have disappeared by the time the stripping shall have ended, we may fairly look for an old-fashioned revival in the tobacco trade before many weeks.

THE HARRISONS. Photos at Fulton Opera House. On Saturday evening the Harrison musical comedy company appeared at the opera house before an audience of fair numbers in their own extravaganza of "Photos." There is nothing in the composition calling for analysis, being made up as it is of a constant succession of ludicrous scenes and incidents, quite beyond the pale of commonplace description, with here and there a dash of pretty music, that for the time being certainly pleases the average spectator and auditor if they don't leave a very lasting impression on his sensibilities. Louis Harrison is an original genius, a clever comedian, whose take-offs and burlesques produced an immense hit. His sister, Miss Alice Harrison, a charming little sourette actress, who won the immediate favor of the audience by her piquancy, and R. E. Graham's nonsensical "business" added to the fun that prevailed fast and furious from the outset. Miss Clara Daniels played a very pretty part on the guitar, but there is nothing to be particularly commended in her voice. There are several other people in the troupe who fill up very nicely, the performance as a whole being one that thoroughly pleased the audience.

Notaries Public. Commissions as notaries public have been received and returned to a number of officers for the following named gentlemen, who have been appointed by Gov. Hoyt for terms of three years, from the date of their commissions. The reason for dating the commissions so far back is because the respective had received temporary commissions on the dates named, to continue in force until the reassembling of the Legislature. John W. Resh, Marietta, to date from June 6th, 1880. A. J. Kauffman, Columbia, to date from December 31st, 1879. John H. Brubaker, Elizabethtown, to date from April 20, 1880. Christian Bachman, Strasburg, borough, to date from March 12, 1880. S. P. Sternett, Marietta, to date from April 17th, 1880. Henry B. Becker, Fairville, to date from March 20th, 1880. Wagon Broken. This morning about 7 o'clock Kohler's beer wagon ran into a milk wagon on North Queen street, breaking the hind wheels and letting the wagon down. No other damage was done. Fred Brimmer assisted the milk man by giving him another wagon.

COLUMBIA NEWS. OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE. Captain D. Brainard Case is again confined to his bed with the illness over which he thought he had obtained the mastery a week ago. Mrs. D. Mellinger, while walking on the streets on Saturday afternoon, to see the moving, was so unfortunate as to fall into one of the empty coal bins. She was removed to her home when it was found her injuries consisted of severe bruises on the body and a scratched face. The members of the company, who will give the entertainment in the opera house on the 15th inst., for the benefit of the poor of the town, are meeting with success in the sale of tickets. A good house is assured them and they are sanguine of pleasing their audience.

Eighteen shares of Farmers' national bank stock, to Wm. S. Shirk at $101.10 per share. Two shares of same to J. P. Wickensham, at $101.65 per share. Five shares of Lancaster County National Bank stock to Jacob Burkholder, at $103.65 per share. Ten $500 mortgage bonds of the Lancaster & Quarryville railroad to John Hess, at $112 per $100. One $1,000 bond of the same company, $112 per $100, to Jacob Bachman. Two $1,000 bonds of the same company, to Jacob Bachman, at $112 per $100. Five shares of First national bank of Strasburg stock, to Daniel Potts, at $134.90 per share. Seven shares of same to Jacob Frantz, at $135.20 per share. Five shares of Farmers' national bank stock to Levi Rhoads, at $104 per share.

A Very Large Funeral. The funeral of Mrs. John S. Mann, of Manor, which took place yesterday morning, was one of the largest ever held in that section of the county. About the entire community turned out to do honor to the remains of their departed friend and neighbor. The following named gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Wm. H. North, John B. Fendrich, Hilary Wilson, and P. S. Brugh, all of Columbia. The religious services were conducted by Rev. John McCoy, Presbyterian, of Columbia, and Rev. Mr. Ball, Methodist, of Millersville, both of whom were assisted by a number of members of their respective churches. The funeral procession consisted of several hundred carriages filled with mourning relatives and sympathizing friends and acquaintances. Quite a number were present from this city—among them being Col. Wm. L. Palmer, H. Z. Rhoads, C. E. Rhoads and other prominent citizens. The remains were deposited in Manor cemetery. As is usual at country funerals, a large proportion of those who attended returned to the Mann mansion, where dinner was served to several hundred persons.

Nature's Sinic-way. The kidneys are nature's highway to wash out the debris of our constantly changing bodies. If they do not work properly the trouble is felt everywhere. There is no cure for them but a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. It is a simple and safe remedy for all cases of kidney disease. It will clean the sinic-way of sand, gravel and similar matter. Druggists sell it both in bulk and in retail packages. It is sold in bottles of 50 and 100 pills each. Price, 25 cents, 50 cents, 1.00 and 2.00 per bottle. For sale by H. C. Cochran, druggist, 157 and 159 North Queen street, Lancaster, Pa.

Close of the Moravian supper. On Saturday evening the supper in the lecture room of the Moravian church, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Guild of that congregation, terminated. The attendance was excellent and the affair a signal success in every respect. All the tables were completely covered with their good things, and more could have been disposed of, had there been anything more to sell. The profits have not yet been figured up, but will not quite a net sum.

Close of the Pequea river. The ice was watched by our people with unaltered interest during the whole of Saturday, and even the earlier breaking of the ice which was expected to have the effect of keeping them from the river shore. True, there was nothing to be seen except broken-up ice, carried at the will of the current, with here and there a piece of timber, an old boat, which has been broken up by its moorings, and chicken coop or some other article more frequently found on land than on water, but with humanity, such sights always did draw, and, very probably, always will, the attention of the onlookers. The breaking of the ice was a matter of great interest to the people. The ice was piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its mouth was washed from its piers, on Saturday night. The messenger train which left here for Port Deposit at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening is lying below Pequea, where in its front is piled, on the railroad tracks, eight or ten feet of ice for a distance of two or three miles. The train cannot move in either direction until the ice is cleared off of closing at any time. The Pequea bridge, although moved from its piers, has not yet been carried away and possibly may be saved. The ice is piled so high that it is compared to mountains. The Pennsylvania and Potomac river agents at this place has been ordered to sell no tickets to any point below McCall's Ferry. At Columbia every thing is quiet. There is a clear channel on this side of the river, but the ice is still running on the other side. The Pequea river has been so clogged with ice for so long a time that it has done much damage to the river. The Columbia & Port Deposit railroad bridge over the Pequea creek at its