

Lancaster Intelligencer.

FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 18, 1881.

The Way of the World. A dentist's sign: Drawing, music and dancing.

A stinky man is even chary when he offers a visitor a seat. Trifles light as hair sometimes turn the whole course of a man's appetite.

Remenyi performs on a $5,000 violin. No wonder the young man next door plays so abominably. His fiddle cost but $2.50.

"Ho, all ye dyspeptics!" says a patent medicine advertisement. If all the dyspeptics would bow regularly, their number would be reduced.

When a woman leaves a man who has not earned his salt for years, he immediately advertises that he will pay no debts of her contracting.

It is said that pork fed on Cincinnati whiskey is never afflicted with cholera. When the parasites get a whiff of the whiskey they take pity on the pig and leave.

A man who will break a gum drop in two pieces, to make the exact weight when selling candy to a little girl, is mean enough to sell cross-eyed needles to a blind woman.

All the men in an entire county in Minnesota turned out on a wolf hunt the other day. The result was thirty-six dog-fights and the capture of a fellow who had run away from his wife.

A doctor went out for a day's hunting, and on coming home complained that he hadn't killed anything. "That's because you didn't attend to your legitimate business," said his wife.

A Northern paper praises the "Indian Hair Restorer." It is a fraud. No Indian was ever known to restore any hair. He files it away as a certificate on which to draw rations from Uncle Sam.

A Leadville deacon ran a man three miles up a hill and then rolled him back in a barrel for the purpose of calling a church a Joss-house. They are bound to have religion respected in Leadville.

Darius, during his reign, had an income of $14,500,000 a year, and when eggs went up to forty-eight cents a dozen he grew as much as the modern newspaper journalist whose income is half as large.

"Do you follow a sedentary occupation?" asked the judge, jocosely, of a vagrant. "Well, I should relax my features," was the response; "all the money I have had in ten years I got from sitting on juries."

Lecture on the rhinoceros. Professor: "I must beg you to give me your undivided attention. It is absolutely impossible that you can form a true idea of this hideous animal, unless you keep your eyes fixed on me."

Recorder (to witness with bandaged head): "Did he have any provocation when he struck you?" Witness: "He may have had something to do with it, but it was a brick bat, and he struck me with it."

The trouble about taking a medicine warranted to cure all diseases is that it may not know exactly what is wanted of it, and in that case it will go fooling around in the system trying to cure you of some disease you have not.

Bob Ingersoll says it was drinking hotel coffee that made him an infidel. After all, there is some excuse for the colonel. Hot coffee is enough to shake a man's faith in the theory that all things are ordered by a merciful Providence.

During the recent civil conflict there were two volunteers lying between their blankets looking up at the stars in a Virginia sky. Says Jack: "What made you go into the army, Tom?" "Well," replied Tom, "I had no wife, and I loved war. What made you go to the war, Jack?"

"Well," he replied, "I had a wife, and I loved peace; so I went to the war."

An application for divorce on the ground of cruelty. The first witness was Mrs. Rollingstone.

"What is your name, madam?" asked her lawyer.

"Beatrice Rollingstone."

"Maiden name?"

"Bonese."

"Has your husband treated you cruelly?"

"Yes, sir."

"In what respect?"

"He said I could not make mince pies like his mother."

"What resemblance does the defendant's mother bear to a mince pie?" inquired the court.

"Oh, I meant that he said I couldn't make as good pies as his mother could."

"Let the divorce be granted," said the judge.
