Farmer and Gardener.

Setting out Currants and Gooseberries.

Both the currant and the gooseberry do better to grow from cuttings than from the roots.

The wood of last year's growth must be taken, cut it into pieces of about half the length and insert eight to ten inches in the usual prepared garden soil, press the ground firmly with the foot, mulch, and there will be no danger of not growing.

Set them where they are desired to remain permanently.

If a small tree and a bush is preferred, cut out all the eyes entering the ground.

If a bush left the eyes remain. We prefer the bush for two reasons, the first is, more is obtained; the second, it is longer lived.

In fact the bush will live half a century, only requiring thinning out of the wood once in a while. As to cuttings we prefer decidedly the old Dutch Red. It is not quite so large as some others, but it bears so abundantly and is less acid and of better quality.

Of gooseberries, we prefer the Downing. It is of good quality, an excellent bearer, and has never mildewed upon our premises.

The Culture of Corn.

The name corn in England is applied to all grains, as we think it should be; and our Indian corn is there called maize, a name used only with respect to this grain, and hence leads to no confusion.

In its cultivation no crop is better understood by our farmers as a rule, and yet none so well known formerly varied so much in the modes of cultivation.

Forty years ago—and it is something like that—the ground was plowed, then harrowed two or three times, then cross plowed, and then the rows struck out in the direction of the first plowing.

Now, generally, this mode is abandoned, and there is only one plowing before the rows are made out, and the seed is sown by a planter, which separates the grains in the hill much more uniformly than when dropped by hand.

Three stalks are the limit for a hill, but it very frequently is reduced to two. The distance between the hills and the rows ranges from three to three and a-half feet, the yield being about the same, though it depends, like every other crop, upon the extent of the manuring and cultivation.

Of late years the drill system has been adopted by good farmers, but it does not seem to increase in favor; rather the reverse. It is not disputed that a little additional yield may be obtained from the system; but it is at an increase cost of hand-labor, so that in the end there is no gain.

Where the extent of the crop is small it probably possesses some advantage, but we do not think otherwise.

Lately the crop has been planted earlier than formerly—say the last week in April—for the reason that in case of failure to come up from rotting by a cold, wet soil, there will be plenty of time for replanting. But this will scarcely stand, inasmuch as planting is delayed from the 5th to the 15th of May, the ground will have become warm and the excessive moisture disappeared.

Besides the 15th of May is none too late for putting in the crop. In fact, we regard it as better than an earlier date.

Ice George Broken.

The great ice gorge in the Missouri river between Sioux City and Yankton, said to have been over fifty miles long, has given way, and the water which has been backed up so long is now rushing down the stream.

The agent of the Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad at Vermillion, Dakota, reports that all except two or three buildings at that point have been swept away.

The water is up to the roofs of the cars at the depot, and at Yankton the water is up to the front of Jenk's hotel, 21 feet above low water mark, and still rising 6 inches an hour.

The gorge has caused the river to run out of its channel, and it is following the hills from Yankton to Vermillion on the Iowa side. Fears are entertained that it will create a permanent channel that way. If it does, it will run across the country from Vermillion and empty into the Big Sioux river, three miles north of Elk point, leaving a large tract of land on the Nebraska side. This would be a tremendous cut off from Dakota, but one not at all strange with the Big Muddy, which has done such things before.

Seventeen years in Bed.

Twenty years ago Avery Wilam, who lived near Hammondsport, Sullivan county, N. Y., when to all appearances in his usual health, took his bed, where he remained seven years, sleeping most of the time, getting up only to have his bed made, and generally taking his meals from a stand at his bedside.

At the expiration of seven years he arose and engaged in hard work about the farm for three years. Then he again took to his bed and remained there until he died a few days ago at the age of 81 years.

A Good Endorsement.

Wm. Boucher, druggist, corner Grove and National Avenue, Milwaukee, writes he has used Thomas' Electric Oil for the past several years, and nothing of the kind has ever given such decided relief for coughs, colds, sore throats and rheumatism.

For sale by H. B. Cochran, N. Queen street, Lancaster, Pa.

Never Return.

It is said that one out of every four real invalids who go to Denver, Col., to recover health never return to the East or South except as corpses.

The hotel keeper, having the most profitable business, this excessive mortality may be prevented and patients served and cured under the care of friends and loved ones at home, if they will but use the medicine which we know. See other column.

Wonderful Results.

Mrs. P. Stabbin, 310 Chestnut street, Milwaukee, says she has been a great sufferer from rheumatism of the joints, and was induced to try Thomas' Electric Oil, and states she cannot praise it too highly, as it has completely cured her. For sale by H. B. Cochran, N. Queen street, Lancaster, Pa.

Kidney Diseases.

Kidney diseases afflict the greater part of the human race, and they are constantly on the increase, but when the virtues of Kidney-Weir have been known, they are held in check and speedily cured. Let those who have had to constantly dose spirits of nitre and such stuff, give this great remedy a trial and be cured. In the liquid the most convenient. Philadelphia Press.

What a Farce.

Is married life when one or both are tormented with dyspepsia, indigestion, acidity, gas, and other ailments, an absolutely blissful one, and making what might be a happy home into a prison? No, it is not. It is made so by using Burdock's Blood Purifier, P. B. No. 1, 174 E. 11th Street. For sale by H. B. Cochran, N. Queen street, Lancaster, Pa.
