Ensilage.

A Pennsylvania Farmer's Conclusions. Waiter Darlington in Country Gentleman. In the Western states, where land worth from $20 to $30 per acre, and corn can be raised profitably at 20 cents per bushel, I think the present plan of allowing the corn to mature, and feeding the ears to hogs and the stalks and leaves to cattle, will pay better than ensilaging the corn when in tassel. But in Eastern Pennsylvania, where good land brings $100 to $200 per acre, according to distance from great markets, and where the soi system is practiced in order to keep one cow to each acre of arable land, and where good butter brings from 40 to 50 cents per pound in winter, and 25 to 30 cents in summer, it seems to me that ensilage is the most economical cow food. have the "ensilage fever" this spring; last spring I had an attack of the root fever, but I am cured of that. I planted an acre with sugar beets, but only about a pound of seed came up. I suppose I had at the rate of ten tons of beets to the acre. I fed the two tons raised in five days, giving thirty pounds to a feed, and decreased the regular ration of cut cornfodder from two heaped basketful to one per day, and fed as usual eight quarts of bran and two quarts of cotton-seed per day. My cows did not increase any in their flow of milk by the change of food, and I am convinced that I can raise one basketful of sowed corn cheaper and on less land than 1 can sixty pounds of beets. I am also convinced that it would be better to keep the corn in a green state than to dry it.
One hundred tons have been kept green in a silo this winter by Enos Barnard, one of my neighbors. He is now feeding it to 70 of his 150 mileh cows, and the man who feeds and tends to the cows, says they like ensilage better than any other food, and are thriving well upon it. Mr. Barnard informed his butter buyer when he commenced the feeding of ensilage, and re-quested him to test thoroughly the quality of the butter, and inform him if the butter was not up to the standard; but he has received no word, and still gets 43 cents per pound wholesale. When a man like Mr. Crozier, who receives $15 apiece for shepherd pups, and $20 to $100 for calves and yearlings, and who sends away whole carloads of high priced cattle, talks about the expense of a silo, it strikes me as bordering on the ludicrous.

I propose to build a silo this summer 40 feet long, 20 feet wide and 14 feet deep; the walls will contain about 100 perches, and a mason will build it for 50 cents a perch. My hired man will dig the pit with a little assistance, and I have the stone and most of the lumber that will be required. I think $100 will build a silo that will hold 200 tons of corn fodder, which I expect to raise on 7 acres of good corn land. I have not charged 50 cents a load for the stone, or $30 a month for my hired man and $2 a day for my team; but I have the team and man, and not work enough to keep them and myself busy unwhere there is a farmer who would not a quarts of medicine. lose $1,000 a year if he charged such exwhen trying to run up the cost of a silo.

worth of grain a year and adopting the system of ensilage, I can keep 30 cows and 100 sheep, and raise more wheat and corn on 70 acres, than I now do by keeping 20 cows and farming in the old way. I will set apart 7 acres of my best land, and give it a good coat of manure every year and one ton of superphosphate. About the first of June I will drill my corn at the rate of 11 bushel per acre, and in September will ensilege the corn. After taking off the corn, I will drill in rye, and by manuring every year, will increase the fertility of the ground. My fields contain Sacres. I will make them 5 to 15 acre fields, and follow corn by two crops of wheat, and the wheat by clover. By keeping more than double the amount of stock, I will have plenty of manure for the COUGHS, COLDS, SORE THROAT, last crop of wheat, a clover sod for corn, and will drill phosphate for the wheat which follows corn in the fall. In this way I will have 30 acres of wheat and 15 acres of corn. The only loss will be in the timothy hay now raised on eight acres, and a little pasturage.

Disgusting.

One of the most loathsome and terrible dis-cases of our climate is chronic catarrh. An immediate and certain cure is Thomas' Eclectrie Oil. You pour a little in the palm of your hand and snuff it well up until you take it. A few applications will cure the most severe case. For sale by H. B. Cochran, 137 N. Queen

Never Return. It is said that one out of every four real in valids who go to Denver, Col., to recover health never return to the East or South except as a corpse. The undertakers, next to the hotel keepers, have the most profitable business. This excessive mortality may be prevented and patients served and cured under the cure of triends and loved ones at bone of the care of friends and losed ones at home, if they will but use Hop Bitters in time. This we know. See other column. al-2wd&w

Advice Gratis. If you are suffering from bronchitis, diphtheria, or any disease of a similar tendency, and can't afford a doctor, and are too proud to procure the services of the district physician, try a 50 cent bottle of Thomas' Eclectric Oil. You will cure yourself, and preserve money, manhood and self-respect. For sale by H. B. Cochran, 137 N. Queen street.

E. Asenith Hall, Binghampton, N. Y., writes
"I suffered for several months with a dull pain through my left lung and shoulders. I lost my spirits, appetite and color, and could with difficulty keep up al! day. My mother procured some Burdock Blood Bitters: I took them as directed, and have felt no pain since first week after using them, and am now quite well." For sale by H. B. Cochran, 137 N. Queen street. Nearly a Miracle.
