Farm and Garden.

Timely Notes of Seasonable Interest.

Germantown Telegraph. Whatever difference of opinion there may be among farmers as to the propriety of having trees in pasture fields as a resort for cattle in very warm weather, no one can deny that the advantage they are to animals in the midst of the heated term beyond the damage the trees may do the land, is very considerable. But it must be understood that some trees do more damage to the ground than others, and thes are well known to most farmers, who will exercise their own judgment when selecting them. The cherry is confessedly one of those which, while it hurts the land scarcely appreciably, is as fine a tree for shade as any in the catalogue, and besides affords a profit in fruit. Where will be found a more beautiful shade tree than the Black Eagle, Elton, or Downer's Late sherry? They are hardy and good bearers. Then again there is the yellow locust which is one of our most beautiful trees, though not generally so dense in its foliage as the cherry, which does no per-ceptible injury to the land, and the wood of which is valuable, like the cherry, when there may be occasion to remove them. These facts show that there is no good reason why the cattle should be deprived of this great protection against summer heat on the ground of damage to the land, which is seriously done by the oak, the walnut, the beech, and some Prepare for the Fruit Crop This is the month when all should prepare for the fruit we anticipate in time to They all require a longer or shorter period of time before one can enjoy their wholesome lusciousness. The strawberry is the quickest to repay us for the labor bestowed, and pay us too a thousand fold. It is a wonder to watch the littly shy plant producing in a single year's growth such enormous, captivating and, to many, unequaled fruit. The raspberry, the cherry, the current and the gooseberry are the next in order in their haste to contribute to our enjoyment. But considering all these manifold blessings vouchsafed to us by the Great Giver of every good and perfect gift, how insignificant is the labor required of man in placing in our possession the un-grudging munificence which overwhelms

If the occupants of plots of ground, even in some of our largest towns, would look about them carefully they would be surprised at the space they possess for the growing of fruit of almost every description-from pears down to currants. Space can be wonderfully economized for this purpose when we once set about to do so. Room would be found for a dozen dwarf pear trees, one standard Lawrance pear tree, a couple of cherry trees, half a dozen grape vines, a good-sized strawberry bed, two or three dozens of raspberry canes, a dozen currant bushes and so on. Where there is plenty of room at command, even when the fruit is intended only for home consumption, all these varieties should be multiplied by making selections from our own fruit list, which we semi-yearly correct and republish.

Never Keturn. Never Return.

It is said that one out of every four real in valids who go to Denver, Col., to recover health never return to the East or South except as a corpse. The undertakets, next to the hotel keepers, have the most profitable businoss. This excessive mortality may be prevented and patients served and cured under the care of triends and loved ones at home, if they will but use Hop litters in time. This we know. See other column.

J. W. DENLINGER, mar30-itdoay In his case, he looked up with astonishment, but after hearing of its wonderint effects in the cases of some of his near acquaintances, he at last consented to follow our advice. He used the Brandy faithfully and steadily; the first bottle giving him an appetite, and before the second was taken he was a sound man, with a stomach capable of digesting anything which
